NATION AWAITS
SUPREME COURT
RULINGS ON NRADecisions May Seal
New Deal's Fate.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—With numerous business concerns and individuals appealing to the courts for redress against alleged tyrannies of recovery laws and administrative edicts everybody is wondering what the nine elder statesmen who constitute the United States Supreme court will have to say of the New Deal.

Will the collectivist régime with all its novel departures from the fundamental principles of our scheme of government, as hitherto conceived and applied, receive the seal of the highest court's approval or will it be rejected as unconstitutional or will it be partly sustained, partly invalidated?

Court Bides Its Time.
Nobody knows, probably not even the nine elderly oracles of the law themselves as they bide their time awaiting presentation of the causes their adjudication of which will be of fateful import to our country and perhaps, so many think, to the august tribunal itself.

Up to date no case involving any of the myriad ramifications of the New Deal has reached the Supreme court. But several are on the way there. Milk dealers, building contractors and other business men have begun suits to enjoin various acts of the NRA on the ground of its unconstitutionality, while in other cases the NRA is preparing to invoke judicial enforcement of its decrees which the victims have signified they will resist all the way to the Supreme court. Also on its way to the court of last resort is the President's anti-gold hoarding order which was flouted by a New York lawyer.

It is expected that one or more cases going to the heart of the question of constitutionality of New Deal legislation will reach the court at its present term and, as its docket is before the June adjournment is well within the possibilities.

Simple New Dealers Say.
Representative James M. Beck [Rep., Pa.] and other conservatives are saying that the court cannot possibly uphold the fundamentals of the NRA without repudiating many of its most important roll-ins in the last 50 years. The New Dealers think it an exceedingly simple matter for the court to reconcile approval of the new economic order with its previous decisions by justifying the adoption of extraordinary measures to cope with an unparalleled crisis in the national life.

As many conservatives and liberals view it, the fate of the Supreme court itself hangs on its decisions in these cases. If, say the liberals, the court should invalidate the New Deal, the continued existence of the tribunal will be jeopardized by a revolution that would set aside its decrees as effectively as the civil war overruled the Dred Scott decision. If, say the conservatives, the court upholds the right of congress to disregard the constitution in the NRA and AAA it will abdicate forever the power to invalidate legislation which it has exercised since John Marshall's famous decision in Marbury versus Madison.

How Court Is Divided.
Both conservatives and liberals agree that the court's opinions will turn not only upon cold legal reasoning in interpretation of the constitution but upon the congenial attitude of the justices toward political, social and economic innovations. If the latter consideration be the determining factor the New Deal has about a fifty-fifty chance of approval by the Supreme court, which is commonly regarded as divided in this way:

Conservatives:
Associate Justice Willis Van Devanter.
Associate Justice George Sutherland.
Associate Justice Pierce Butler.
Liberals:
Associate Justice Louis Brandeis.
Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone.
Associate Justice Owen J. Roberts.
Associate Justice Benjamin N. Cardozo.

Sometimes conservative, sometimes liberal:
Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes.

DISCARDED PILL BOX SOLVES $1,000 ROBBERY OF BANK

With the aid of a druggist and a physician Detective Sergeant Thomas Featherstone and Thomas Cooper yesterday arrested two men alleged to have participated in a holdup of the West 31st Street bank, 555 West 31st street, on Wednesday. The loot in the robbery was about $1,900.

The robbers, of whom there were four, fled in a stolen automobile. The car was abandoned later and in it the police discovered a small box that had contained pills. On the box were the name of the druggist and the prescription number.

Rolph Backs Up His Stand; Flays Hoover

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 30.—[AP]—Former President Herbert Hoover and Gov. James Rolph Jr. exchanged rapid cross-fire of criticism today over the lynching of the kidnap slayer of Brooke Hart at San José last Sunday night.

Said the former President: "The governor has been advocating lynch law. It is a subversion of the very spirit of organized society."

Said the governor: "I deplore the use of troops against our own people. Look at the mess we got into when troops were called out in Washington against the bonus marchers."

Thrust at ex-President.
The exchange followed a rebuke to Rolph for his stand condoning the lynching of John M. Holmes and Thomas Harold Thurmond, which was contained in a joint statement issued yesterday by a group of prominent California citizens, including Mr. Hoover.

Rolph retorted this morning from Sacramento with his thrust at the Hoover administration for having called out troops against the bonus marchers.

"Men with guns and bombs were sent out to attack good American citizens—our own war veterans who fought for us," Rolph declared.

Hot Headed Men with Rifles.
"I refused to call out troops for use in the San José trouble because one can never be certain what the outcome of such an action will be. Hot headed young men armed with bayonets, rifles, and bombs are liable to kill good citizens needlessly."

"It is up to local peace officials to maintain order and only after they have admitted they cannot handle a situation should a governor step in."

MONEY CRISIS SHAKES FRANCE;
FUNDS HOARDEDCharge Government
High Rate for Loan.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Realization that their franc is in real danger was brought home to the people of France for the first time today. The following revelations in the afternoon press told the story:

First, the weekly statement of the Bank of France showed 1,500,000,000 francs [currently about $90,000,000], left the country during the week ended Nov. 24. The outflow of gold totaled 4,000,000,000 francs in five weeks.

Second, the treasury sent out an SOS in the form of an announcement of a 1,500,000,000 franc issue of five year bonds at the staggering interest of 5 per cent. The loan is necessary to carry the treasury over the year end.

Money Rates Tighten.

Third, at the mid-month liquidation on the bourse the charge on accounts carried over was raised from 3/4 per cent to 1/2 per cent on the official exchange and from 4 1/2 to 5 per cent on the curb. Call money likewise was tighter and the government was forced to boost interest on postal savings accounts from 2 1/2 to 3 per cent. Even the sale of popular lottery tickets is falling off sharply, indicating hoarding accompanied by an acute shortage of money.

Minor symptoms of the crisis were the drop in the percentage of gold coverage for the franc from 79.95 per cent to 79.14 per cent, the continued weakness of the franc in terms of the dollar and pound, and the weak tone of government bonds despite official support.

Sight Currency Crisis.

Financial writers noted all the symptoms of an approaching currency crisis just as they reported that an analysis of gold movements showed that most of the yellow metal went to England, the amount purchased by the United States being countable in tens of millions.

The gold drainage was none the less an indirect consequence of the dollar's depreciation, for it was the resultant loss of American capital to England which forced the British equalization fund to dump massive quantities of pounds on the Paris market to put a brake on the upward movement of sterling caused by the influx of American capital.

In the process the British fund acquires francs and immediately converts them into gold, which is transferred to the coffers of the Bank of England. Repatriation of British short term capital invested in France, and even expatriation of some nervous French capital aggravates this movement.

Drives Capital to Cover.

Experts do not consider this gold drainage to be an immediate danger to the franc, but it impresses the nervous French public and drives all floating capital to cover at a time when it is needed the most, through a decrease of note circulation. The Bank of France, in order to keep the coverage of the franc up, is retiring from circulation most of the paper francs which are turned in for gold.

This drying-up of capital cripples business and, what is more serious, makes it impossible for the treasury to keep itself afloat by constantly renewing short term bonds as they expire.

It is the treasury crisis that is the greatest danger to the franc at present. At the beginning of the month it was estimated there would be just enough money in the treasury to meet all regular expenses until the end of the year. The diminishing income, largely due to the impossibility of renewing three six month treasury bonds, made it apparent a few days ago that the treasury would run dry at the most critical period of the year.

Big Maturities Ahead.

The 1,500,000,000 franc loan will not last the treasury very far into January, and January is the month of the lowest level. Then in February comes the first series of maturing bond issues which the state will have to reimburse during 1934—2,000,000,000 francs as a starter.

To meet the regular January pay-

McNiff Helps
Cop Through Tedious Day

A piteous wail assaulted the ear of Policeman Earl Jensen when he answered a telephone call to the Oak Park police station yesterday afternoon.

"This is J. A. McNiff of 1437 North Long avenue," said the voice on the wire. There was loneliness and desolation in Mr. McNiff's voice. It was obvious to Patrolman Jensen that panic had undermined the McNiff spirit.

"What can I do for you, Mr. McNiff?" asked Patrolman Jensen, politely. Thanksgiving day had been very dull in Oak Park and Patrolman Jensen hoped cautiously for a little excitement. Not too much, but just a little.

What It's All About.

"I'm locked up in a drug store," Mr. McNiff informed Patrolman Jensen. "I can't get out. I'm all alone. The proprietor went out and locked the door while I was telephoning."

"Where is the drug store?" asked Patrolman Jensen, sighing and picking up a pencil. Thanksgiving day, it seemed, would continue to be dull.

"I don't know where the drug store is," Mr. McNiff replied to Patrolman Jensen's question. There was a dubious note now in the McNiff voice.

"So you don't know where the drug store is," said Patrolman Jensen, brightly. "Now, now, Mr. McNiff. Lie down for a little while and take things calmly."

Copper Gets a Solution.

"You seem to be a thoughtful kind of man," observed Patrolman Jensen, thoughtfully. He concentrated upon the problem and after some moments of deep cogitation hit triumphantly upon a solution.

"What's the telephone number where you're telephoning from?" he inquired.

Mr. McNiff supplied the information and Patrolman Jensen traced the number to a drug store at 749 Roosevelt road in Oak Park. Interested now in the incident which had relieved the dullness of the day, Patrolman Jensen himself repaired to the store.

He peered through the windows and made out a lonesome figure walking up and down in the darkened interior.

Some More Thanksgiving.

There was another delay while Jensen sought the address of the proprietor of the store. He procured a directory and found, to his intense astonishment, that the druggist lived immediately above the store.

"Now we're getting there," he shouted to Mr. McNiff. "I'll have you out in a jiffy." He raced up the stairs.

A moment later Jensen returned. A disturbed look mantled his face. "The druggist has gone out for Thanksgiving dinner," he said.

Mr. McNiff glared fiercely through the gathering gloom. Jensen reflected a moment, sped to the back door and tried some sleight of hand on the latch.

"Eureka!" said he. And Mr. McNiff hurried to Berwyn with something to be thankful for, a little sour on apothecaries and two hours late.

KILLER-RAPIST CONVICTED BY INDIANA JURYMachine Guns Guard
Crown Point Court.

James (Fur) Sammons, notorious Chicago gunman and public enemy, was found guilty last night in the Circuit court at Crown Point of two offenses against Indiana law—attempting to bribe a deputy sheriff and being a habitual criminal. He was sentenced to a life term in the state penitentiary at Michigan City.

While the verdict was being read and Sammons, a snarling old man of crime, was bitterly complaining to Judge William J. Murray that the law was unfair to him, deputy sheriffs fully armed stood alert in the courtroom to prevent any possible demonstration or attempt at rescue.

Machine Guns Guard Courthouse.

In the corridors outside were other guards and in front of the courthouse, with shotguns and machine guns ready, stood still more. Indiana, it was plain, was taking no chances with the arch criminal, long ago convicted of rape and murder in Illinois, and known as this state's foremost evader of the penalties that justice is supposed to mete out.

The case, which went to trial on Monday and was not interrupted for the Thanksgiving holiday, was on to the jury at 4 p. m. Under Judge Murray's instructions three verdicts were possible: acquittal, guilty of attempted bribery, and guilty of being a habitual criminal, or guilty on both charges.

It requires three convictions for felonies before a defendant can be declared a habitual law breaker in Indiana, and as such subject to life imprisonment. Documentary evidence was introduced to show the rape and murder guilty verdicts and Sammons' conviction as a would-be briber furnished the necessary third crime.

Guilty on Both Counts.

Five and a half hours after the juryman retired they were ready with their verdict of guilty on both counts. The bribery conviction carried a sentence of five years in the penitentiary.

Before the jury was allowed to enter the courtroom was cleared. Additional deputy sheriffs were summoned. In the corridors all spectators were searched for weapons before they were allowed to reenter and hear the conclusion of the trial, which has attracted large crowds.

Sammons, handcuffed, was led in. The verdict was read. Attorney John Conroy, representing the defendant, requested that sentence be withheld until Monday. He wished, he said, to make a motion for a new trial, and he would be inconvenienced if he had to go to the penitentiary to see Sammons.

Objection by Prosecutor.

Prosecutor Robert Estill, who had referred to Sammons as the most dangerous criminal ever tried in Lake county, objected. The state, he said, had been put to great expense in placing extra guards over the criminal and he asked that the sentence be immediate.

"At least let the handcuffs be taken off Mr. Sammons," requested Attorney Conroy.</ who fact that a man who had been paying the full penalty for murder and rape should have been sent to prison for life for so gentle an act as offering money to a deputy sheriff.

Cook accused the officer. Not even knowing the identity of his prisoner, who was being sought by the Illinois and Maryland authorities, he led him to prison. On the stand Cook told his story.

One of the defense attorneys, William J. McAlister, pleaded that his client was so intoxicated he did not know he was offering a bribe, and had no willful desire to do so. The plea was carried, he added, that Sammons might protect the $3,200 he carried.

How Sammons Acted.

Attorney Conroy then gave a dramatic version of his own to show how Sammons had acted when he was arrested. He stated that he was around before the jury as a demonstration of the movements of Sammons. The defendant apparently enjoyed this histrionic work and grinned broadly.

Prosecutor Estlin in his closing argument pleaded for the life term verdict. "It is contended," he said, "that Sammons carried a pistol to protect himself. If such men as he are to be allowed to go free, every citizen in the state had better carry a gun to protect himself. This murdered is a perpetual menace to society and should be put away for life."

ABLE TO ESCAPE PUNISHMENT.

Since 1906 Sammons had been noted for his ability to escape punishment for the many crimes of which he has been convicted. He was, upon one occasion, only a few hours from the gallows on a conviction of murder but the death sentence was commuted to life imprisonment and he eventually was freed after serving nineteen years in the penitentiary at Joliet.

An unusually vicious crime as a youth caused his first clash with the authorities. He and four others kidnapped and raped a young girl in 1906. He was sentenced to serve five years for this crime. The forces which have always aided Sammons to escape full punishment for his deeds were invoked in his behalf and he was paroled in February, 1908.

Gov. Yates Commutes Sentence.

Two months later, he was arrested for the murder of Patrick Barrett, a saloonkeeper. He was convicted and sentenced to be hanged. On the day before he was to be hanged, Gov. Richard Yates commuted the sentence to life imprisonment. Sammons served from 1904 until 1913 and in this period was reported to have become insane from many solitary confinements for infractions of the prison rules. He escaped from the prison in 1917 but was recaptured a few months later, having committed several robberies in the meanwhile.

Despite the escape and a record as a rebellious prisoner, Sammons was paroled from prison in 1923 upon orders of Gov. Len Small. The following year, he received a full pardon and release from prison. Sammons was reported to have become insane from many solitary confinements for infractions of the prison rules. He escaped from the prison in 1917 but was recaptured a few months later, having committed several robberies in the meanwhile.

Named in Maryland Crime.

He was frequently arrested as a suspect in numerous murders. He was acquitted of complicity in the national Harvester company holdup of 1926. He was also accused of a Baltimore holdup and the Maryland authorities have been attempting unsuccessfully for many years to have him extradited for trial in that state.

In 1930 he was returned to Joliet to serve out his life sentence for murder. Judge John P. McGorty issued the ruling and was upheld by the state supreme court, but in 1932 Circuit Judge Edward Shurtliff of Maryland ordered Sammons released on a habeas corpus writ. Baltimore had again asked for extradition of the gangster, but he walked out of Judge Shurtliff's court in Woodstock without hindrance.

Later he was arrested as a suspect in the bombing of Judge McGorty's home, but was freed after police were unable to find any evidence against him.

Sammons is now 50 years old.

3.2% BEER LAW ADDS NEW TWIST TO RUM CONTROL

Statute Overlooked by the Legislators.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A new tangle in the Illinois liquor situation was provided yesterday when it was recalled that there is a 3.2 beer law on the statute books and that unless it is repealed or modified no sale of real beer or wine or hard liquor can be sanctioned by any governmental unit in the state.

Until it was recalled that this act was adopted by the general assembly last April it had been assumed that, even in the absence of state authorization for the sale of alcoholic beverages, cities and villages might assume the right to regulate the liquor traffic. But the contrary now appears to be the case.

Lawyers consulted last night concerning this angle of the situation said that there could be no legal sale of intoxicants in Illinois until the assembly, possibly through the special session which resumes its deliberations on Monday, erases the present restriction. And they agreed that the legislature could not effect even this action during the next few days.

Horner Sticks to His Stand.

While refusing to take any position in reference to the latest revelation of the lawyers, Gov. Horner in Springfield stood firmly by his original declaration that city and village ordinances at this time are valueless in establishing liquor regulations.

"As I have contended from the beginning," he said, "I insist now that, regardless of the new arguments advanced, licensing, regulation, and control must originate with the state. The municipalities derive their powers in this and similar fields from grants by the state. Until there has been state action there can be no effective local action."

Racks City's Position.

Corporation Counsel William H. Ecken said he could not pass on a question of policy, but felt secure in the legal position taken by the city despite the most recent opposition to it.

"We'll cross that bridge when we come to it," he said in reference to the latest assertion of the city's powerlessness, and added a suggestion that when it comes to bridges, the city will have an adequate staff of "structural engineers."

Overlooked by Legislators.

"That the existence of the 'malt and vinous beverage' act had been overlooked up to this time was ascribed to the confusion that has existed at Springfield during the last two weeks. There it had been taken for granted that some bill would be passed by next Tuesday, Dec. 5, the date accepted for federal repeal, and that it would carry with it a rescinding of the 3.2 law. Such an enactment now, it is conceded, is out of the question before next Friday or Saturday at the earliest.

Looking for some escape from this impasse, one Chicago representative, William J. Connors (Dem., 20th), announced that he would seek immediate restoration of the cities and villages act of the pre-prohibition section empowering municipalities to license and regulate the sale of malt, vinous, and spirituous liquors.

Seeks Immediate Action.

"I introduced a bill for this purpose on Wednesday," he said, "even before I knew of the seriousness of the situation. I believe it is possible, even if we cannot agree on a complete regulatory program, to put through this amendment to the cities and villages act next week. This stumbling block should be disposed of at once, regardless of what the final scheme of legalization may be."

The malt and vinous beverage act of last April specifies clearly that no malt and vinous beverages may be sold without a license and prohibits any licensee from handling any beverage containing an alcoholic content greater than that specified in the act—which is 3.2 per cent.

Princess Anne, Md. Makes Merry; Negro Is Wounded

Princess Anne, Md., Nov. 30.—(AP)—William Jones, 26 year old Negro, was shot in a leg early today by a group of young white men celebrating with a bottle of Baltimore newspapers, the release yesterday of four men arrested for the lynching of a Negro here last month. As the flames got higher and hotter five or more shots were fired. Jones, some distance away, was hit. White men took him to a doctor and later carried him home.

A grand jury investigation of the lynching of George Armwood is pending, as Chief Judge John R. Patterson, who presided at the habeas corpus hearing yesterday, said he and his associates would reconvene the grand jury at an early date.

To Hear State's Evidence.

The evidence will be the same as that which Gov. Ritchie and Attorney General William Preston Lane Jr. wanted brought out publicly before a committing magistrate several days ago or at the habeas corpus hearing yesterday.

Whatever point you look at it, the prosecution of this case now rests completely and wholly in the hands of the judiciary of the First judicial district," said Gov. Ritchie, speaking at Annapolis. He had the four men arrested by military authority. Those men, later released by the

JAIL TAVERN KEEPER FOR POSSESSION OF STOLEN U. S. BONDS

Racine, Wis., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Indiana state police tonight arrested Otto Klingbeil, tavern keeper of Burlington, Wis., in whose possession they found $2,000 in liberty bonds taken by robbers Oct. 23 from the National bank of Greenfield, Ind.

Klingbeil was brought to the county jail here. Officers said they had strengthened their evidence that the Greenfield robbery and the subsequent robbery of the American Bank and Trust company here had been carried out by John Dillinger, fugitive from the Indiana state prison, and his associates.

Officers did not reveal the specific charge against Klingbeil, but said he is being held on a warrant for Indiana authorities.

Investigators several weeks ago traced some of the stolen bonds to the Burlington tavern.

RETURNED TO INDIANAPOLIS.

Leslie Homer, 41 years old, of Indianapolis, alleged companion of John Dillinger, leader of a band of Indiana desperadoes, was returned to Indianapolis yesterday. Homer was arrested last Friday by Chicago police, who found a loaded revolver and bullet-proof vest in his possession. He will be questioned in Indianapolis concerning several recent robberies.

200 to Exhibit in Hobby Show, Opening Tomorrow

More than 200 collectors are expected to exhibit rarities of almost every description at the annual Hobby show that will open tomorrow for six days in Hotel Sherman. Many varieties of hobby collections will be shown, say the sponsors of the show, including coins, postage stamps, antiques, books, manuscripts, prints, glass and china, and Indian relics. All of the collections are being arranged in booths. Many of the oddities have never been displayed before.

A feature of the show will be the Junior department, showing material collected by children such as match cases, buttons, stones, and butterflies.

Chicagoan Weds Daughter of Pennsylvania Merchant

Oil City, Pa., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Three hundred Greeks from all parts of the country today attended the wedding of Miss Pota Chacona, daughter of A. D. Chacona, Oil City and Franklin merchant for 50 years, to Peter D. Glanukos of Chicago. Miss Trula Comuntzis of Morgantown, W. Va., and Attorney Nicholas Glanukos of Chicago were attendants. The couple will reside in Chicago where Glanukos is a retail merchant.

VERNE MILLER'S WOMEN WEEP OVER HIS DEATH

Vivian Gibson and Bobbie Moore, two of the women in Verne Miller's life, received news of his death yesterday with conflicting emotions. One month ago they helped the little desperado escape a trap set by government agents at the Shoreline hotel, 4423 Sheridan road. For this both were sentenced on Wednesday to serve a year and a day in federal prison. The body of Miller, who had been beaten to death, was found in a roadside ditch near Detroit on Tuesday and was identified Wednesday.

Both women are being held in the Bridewell. Bobbie Moore was notified first of Miller's death. Diminutive and red-haired, she came suddenly into the visitors' room at the Bridewell, wearing striped denim uniform and cotton stockings.

"Know about Verne, Bobbie?" the caller asked. She shook her head.

Verne Is Knocked Off.

"Somebody knocked him off, up in Detroit. Thought you'd heard." The girl's face paled and her lower lip trembled, but she did not weep. "If he's gone," she said slowly, "then it's all over with. There's nothing to say."

"What sort of a guy was he, Bobbie?"

"Didn't I just tell you," she snapped with spirit, "there's nothing to say?" She went back to her cell, which is directly below that occupied by the Gibson woman. Although they were not allowed to communicate, in some fashion Bobbie relayed the information to the tier above her, for when the visitor reached Vivian's cell she was crying.

"Vivian Gibson also had red hair, but taller than Bobbie. She did not cease weeping nor raise her face from her hands at first. Then in a fit of hysteria she raged at the caller and demanded to be left alone. At sound of her shrieks Bobbie Moore also gave way to tears.

Neither Aids Government.

Government agents arrested the Gibson woman in Miller's hotel room. Miss Moore braved machine gun fire and drove Miller out of the police trap. She surrendered a few days later. Neither gave any information as to Miller's whereabouts.

The Moore woman is the widow of J. A. Harris, a New York gangster.

ALLEGED BEER BARON TRIED IN TAX CASE SAYS HE'S HIRED HAND

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Waxey Gordon, denying government charges that he was the overlord of a vast New Jersey-New York beer empire and that he failed to pay income taxes commensurate with that status in life, declared today he was merely one of the hired help.

Gordon finished testifying in his own defense to federal income tax evasion charges with the assertion that "the only two times I've got a good clothes and a beautiful home."

Attorneys prepared to sum up tomorrow and send the case to the "blue ribbon" jury.

At the close of Gordon's testimony Defense Counsel Charles F. F. Wahl moved unsuccessfully for a directed verdict of acquittal. Earlier Wahl sought to have a mistrial declared when Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey mentioned a contempt of court sentence imposed upon a grand jury witness for evasive answers. The motion was denied.

Gordon testified he was employed at a salary ranging from $125 to $300 a week by Max Greenberg and Max Hassel, who both fell victims to underworld assassins in an Elizabeth, N. J., hotel.

Who was slain several years ago. She has two children. Miss Gibson is said to have a daughter who is living with her grandfather, a Brainerd, Minn., farmer.

The two prisoners will be taken to the penitentiary today, Vivian to Leavenworth and Bobbie to Alderson, W. Va.

NUDISTS PLAN INDOOR COLONY IN HOTEL HERE

The Illinois Vigilance association is investigating reports that some fifty Chicago residents are planning to open an indoor nudist colony in a north side hotel this week. It was learned last night. Jack Brown, who said he was an investigator for the Rev. Philip Tarrow, superintendent of the association, has gathered information that the nudists are soliciting members for the colony at $10 each.

According to Brown the nudists plan to build a gymnasium and swimming pool in the hotel where they may play games and engage in other exercises that were popular in the outdoor camps last summer.

The Rev. Mr. Tarrow could not be reached last night to learn what his association plans to do if the nudist colony is opened.

DAIRY "CO-OP" CHIEF BATTLES "TRUST" CHARGE

Market System Defended by Geyer at Hearing.

A defense of the Pure Milk association, its marketing agreements and the base surplus system of marketing, was heard yesterday by representatives of the agricultural adjustment administration who carried on the public hearing in the Stevens hotel in spite of the Thanksgiving holiday. Don N. Geyer, manager of the Pure Milk association, whose testimony occupied the entire four hour session, emphatically denied charges that the Chicago market is dominated by a milk trust.

Whether there is a milk trust in Chicago, dominated by the so-called "big four" dairies, as alleged by many witnesses representing the independent dairies and the nonassociation farmers selling to them, is one of the things the city council subcommittee on milk asked the AAA to determine.

"All this talk about a milk trust is a tale," said Geyer. "There is absolutely no such thing as a milk trust. The 'big four' is the most intensely competitive group in this city. And there is no collusion between the farmers and the distributors. There has always been a bitter fight between them and that was why we had to negotiate a trade agreement."

Suggests Fixing Maximum Price.
A suggestion that fixing a maximum price to the consumer, instead of a minimum price, might solve most of the Chicago milk problem was made late in the session by Dr. Frederic C. Howe, chairman of the consumers council of the AAA.

Addressing Geyer, Dr. Howe asked: "Don't you think we could all go back to Washington and sleep in peace if a maximum price to the consumer were fixed and the market allowed to adjust itself?"

Dr. Howe's proposal implied continuance of a fixed minimum price paid to the farmer. Geyer indicated his disapproval of the proposal as being an "impractical" means of protecting the farmer.

Might Permit Cash-Carry Price.
Some observers at the hearing, however, remarked to each other that the Howe scheme seemed to offer a possible means of permitting cash and carry sales at less than the price charged for milk delivered to the consumer's home.

Geyer told of the bombing of Pure Milk association plants in reply to the charge of Joseph Wagner Jr., manager of the Wagner dairy, that he was threatened by the Pure Milk manager five days before his plant was bombed.

"I want to deny categorically any insinuations that I had anything to do with the bombing of Wagner's plant," Geyer declared.

Geyer characterized the independent dairies selling to cut rate peddlers and cash and carry stores as "parasites" on the market and accused them of buying bootleg milk, as well as increasing the overproduction problem by using no surplus for cream. He also denied that these independent concerns pay the farmers more than they receive through the association.

Rivals No Altruists, He Says.
"These fat rate fellows tell you they are paying $1.95 a hundred pounds and taking all the farmers have," he said. "They were paying $1.40 a hundred when the market base was $1.75, taking the surplus of our members. There's nothing altruistic about them. I never saw any distributor who would pay the farmer a cent more than he had to. It's these in-and-outers that wreck the market by using all their surplus as fluid milk."

The present base price for milk is $2.10 a hundred pounds, under the code of the AAA, but the surplus price, governed by the wholesale butter fat price, is only about 94 cents a hundredweight. Several farmers and independent dairymen have testified that a fat price of $1.90 or $1.95 brings a greater yield than the base-surplus price, since the surplus averages about 25 per cent of the total quantity of milk sold to distributors. Geyer said he would file a tabulation of votes in the various locals of the Pure Milk association, which has a membership of 18,000 farmer producers in Chicago milkshed, and that they would show an overwhelming sentiment in favor of retaining the base surplus system of marketing.

Under questioning of Elmer D. Hays, who is co-chairman of the hearing with Jerome N. Frank, general counsel of the AAA, Geyer said the present base was established during September, October, and November of 1929.

After the first year, the witness said, it was found that the farmers were producing a surplus of 10 or 11 per cent over the base, so that the book of the association was closed to new members.

Origin of Trust Told.
"We then told the dealers that they would have to contract for a certain amount of milk and take all of it as base," Geyer said. "That gave rise to the talk of a trust and a lot of trips like that."

"Have the bases been adjusted since 1929?" asked Chairman Hays.
"They say there have been no adjustments since, but there have been continuous adjustments," Geyer answered.

Q—What is the basic purpose of the plan? A—To aid in creating an even flow of milk the year round, in keeping with the consumptive demand, and to reward the farmers who do this. Consumptive demand controls the base. We don't.

Geyer said pressure had been brought by politicians who are members of the association to induce favoritism in the awarding of extra base allotments.

Denies There's Favoritism.
"But we have a true cooperative," he declared. "To my knowledge no special privilege has ever been granted. All dealers get the same price and the same deal, whether they have one route or a thousand. All farmers get the same treatment and the same deal whether they have one cow or a hundred."

Geyer said the association financed a $70,000 plant at Elgin to use surplus milk in the making of foreign cheese, and that this product is bringing 2 cents a pound more than imported cheese, including the tariff. He added that another such plant would soon be erected.

In making his final defense of the Pure Milk association Geyer said the members, during the one year period from Oct. 1, 1932, to Sept. 30, 1933, sold a total of 1,359,564,000 pounds of milk at an average weighted price (base and surplus) of $1.523, yielding the farmers more than $20,000,000. This was in spite of the fact that the base price during three months of the period was only $1.45 a hundred, the witness said.

ARREST GIRL, 19, ON A CHARGE OF HAVING 2 MATES

Mrs. Rita Gentry Bishop, 19 years old, alleged to have married two husbands within two months without the formality of becoming a widow or a divorcee, was arrested yesterday by the Sunnyside police and charged with bigamy.

The first husband, the police were told, is Carl Bishop, 22 years old, 6150 Winthrop avenue. The second is Saint S. Millard, 32 years old, who was the promoter of the Old Mexico convention at the World's Fair and now is the proprietor of a night club at 6351 Cottage Grove avenue. The marriage to Bishop was solemnized Sept. 28 and the other one, according to Millard's story to the police, on Nov. 18, at Valparaiso, Ind.

It was said that the girl's mother, not knowing of the second marriage, protested to Millard against his protection, and that Millard, not knowing of the first ceremony, went to the police with the story. Mrs. Bishop was arrested with her first, or more authentic, husband at his home. None of the principals would comment on the matrimonial tangle last night. Mrs. Bishop was taken to the Racine avenue police station for the night.

The greater part of the time has been spent as economic adviser to the Bank of England.

DR. WYNEKOOP WANTS TO STAY IN COUNTY JAIL

Attorney Postpones Move for Release on Bond.

Dr. Alice Lignday Wynekoop, who is under indictment for the murder of her daughter-in-law, Rheta, is content to remain in her cell in the women's quarters of the county jail while she recuperates her health. It was announced yesterday by her attorney, Frank Tyrrell. The lawyer said he would not press for her release on bond this morning when a petition for a writ of habeas corpus is scheduled to come up for a hearing before Judge Joseph B. David.

Tyrrell said he would postpone the bond plea until the murder case is first assigned to a Criminal court judge by the chief justice of the court. It was indicated that the trial would probably take place soon after Jan. 1.

"My client is in the best place in the world for her seclusion," Attorney Tyrrell said. "She needs complete rest and I do not know of any place where she can get it as well as in the jail. She is kept away even from her family most of the time."

Holds Trial Would Be Fatal

"Dr. Wynekoop could not live through a trial or a bond hearing at this time. We will not try to rush the trial at this time nor do we seek to delay it."

Warden David Moneyenny of the jail reported yesterday that Dr. Wynekoop was resting easily and appeared to be somewhat improved in health. She nibbled, he said, on the special "diet" of boiled chicken, cranberries, mashed potatoes, and mince pie. Her temperature at 4 o'clock was 99, almost normal, but her pulse was 110, and was rapid and irregular. Dr. Francis McNamara, jail physician, reported.

The physician said that he found Dr. Wynekoop reading the Bible and that she told him she had read the Book of St. Matthew twice before his arrival. Dr. McNamara said that he does not believe Dr. Wynekoop's life is in any immediate danger. "Doctor, you know when you start to have arterio sclerosis there is nothing that the medical profession can do except watch and wait," Dr. Wynekoop told the jail physician yesterday. "Not even monkey glands," she added, and laughed.

Family Sends Food

The Wynekoop family kept both the mother and her son, Earle, plentifully supplied with food yesterday. Earle is in the county jail also charged with being an accessory before the fact of murder. He is Rheta's husband. A special package containing honey, candy, and sandwiches was sent in by Dr. Katherine Wynekoop, Earle's sister, and steak dinners were sent from a nearby restaurant. The steak dinner was sent to Earle at the request of his mother.

Assistant State's Attorney Charles Dougherty, who is in charge of the prosecution, said he had not definitely decided what to do about Earle. He indicated that he would ask for a continuance when the murder warrant is called before Judge Jay Schiller in the felony court this morning. He said he would ask that a habeas corpus writ for Earle be dismissed.

Bones Fix Guilt for Murder of Two British Princes in 1483

(Copyright, 1933, By the New York Times.)
LONDON, Nov. 30.—Just four and a half centuries after the boy princes were murdered in the Tower of London, one of the most famous crimes of all times, the guilt has been definitely fixed upon the man first suspected, King Richard III, an uncle of the princes.

Londoners heard with considerable surprise tonight that the urn in Westminster Abbey supposedly containing the bones of the two boys, King Edward V. and Richard, duke of York, had been secretly opened for an anatomical examination. This was to be made by Lawrence B. Tanner, keeper of monuments at Westminster Abbey, and Prof. William Wright, president of the Anatomical Society.

Mystery Cleared Up.

Recently it had been asserted that Henry VII. and not Richard III. as first supposed, was responsible for the murder, about which little was positively known heretofore. Tonight, however, a joint paper by Tanner and Prof. Wright read before the Society of Antiquaries of London, seems to leave no doubt that the bones in the urn are those of the princes.

The age of Edward V. when he entered the tower to await coronation in 1483 was 12 years 6 months and that of the duke of York probably 9 years 10 months. Evidence apart from that given in the history of Sir Thomas More suggests the murders occurred three months after the young king entered the tower, that is to say, in August, 1483, when Richard III. held power and the two brothers were his prisoners in the tower. Had the murders occurred after the battle of Bosworth in August, 1485, when Henry VII. gained the throne from Richard III., Edward would have been nearly 15 years old and his brother, approximately 12. These ages are entirely and definitely at variance with tonight's anatomical evidence.

Fix Guilt on Richard III.

The two princes then already were dead many months before Henry VII. seized the throne and the guilt accordingly was fixed on Richard III. The princes' bones had lain in Westminster Abbey since 1674, when they were found by workmen repairing a staircase in the Tower of London, and ordered removed to the abbey by Charles II., who suspected they might be those of the princes.

The dramatic story is now told of their exhumation last June. It was carried out in the presence of Dean Foxley Norris, Lord Moynihan, Sir Edward Knappeler [chapter clerk], Tanner, Prof. Wright, and some government officials.

Many Bones Missing.

They found the bones filled an oblong cavity within the urn with the skulls on top and many bones missing. This was expected, for the tower workmen, it is recorded, had at first thrown the bones away and they had to be recovered from a heap of rubbish.

Prof. Wright was able to date within a few months their respective ages at the time of death and to perceive some confirmation of the tradition that they were suffocated. The examination lasted five days. Photographs having been taken of the bones of the king and duke, they were placed separately on a table and wrapped in the finest lawn. The dean himself replaced the bones within the urn with a statement on parchment recording what had been done. He then read part of the burial service and the urn was resealed.

DR. THOS. DWYER DISMISSED FROM CORONER'S STAFF

Dr. Thomas L. Dwyer, 6517 Harvard avenue, a member of the coroner's staff since 1928, was dismissed yesterday, according to an announcement by Chief Deputy Coroner Stephen L. Kolonowski. No reason for the action was given.

Dr. Dwyer was one of the physicians who examined the body of the slain Rheta Wynekoop. He gave the opinion that she died of a gunshot wound and added that he had found chloroform present in the body.

When Deputy Coroner Kolonowski was asked the cause of the dismissal he declined to talk. Coroner Walsh also was meager with information, but said that neither politics nor anything growing out of the Wynekoop case was involved.

Dr. Herman A. Jacobson, 4753 Broadway, was appointed to fill the vacancy created on the coroner's staff by the dismissal of Dr. Dwyer.

T'S A HAPPY THANKSGIVING FOR CHICAGOANS

Turkey Dinners Served to County's Wards.

Chicagoans and visitors to the city yesterday thronged hotels and restaurants and gathered around bountiful tables in homes to celebrate the traditional Thanksgiving harvest feast.

Thousands of pedestrians and motorists attracted by sunshine and a temperature above normal thronged the parks and boulevards throughout the day. At 3:30 p. m. the temperature on the official thermometer at the airport registered 55 degrees.

Nor was the true significance of the 112th anniversary of the Pilgrims' first harvest feast overlooked in the ceremonial of the day.

Solemn requiem high mass was celebrated at Holy Name cathedral in the morning. Upward Chicago attended a service sponsored by civic organizations at the People's church, 241 Sheridan road. Services were held at the Illinois theater, 65 East Jackson boulevard, under the auspices of the Christian Business Men's committee, and other churches throughout the city attracted crowds to their Thanksgiving service.

Turkey at County Hospital.

The holiday was celebrated at the Cook county institutions as well as in the homes of the more fortunate. More than 2,700 patients in the county hospital received their share of turkey and the trimmings.

The 4,300 inmates in the Oak Forest infirmary consumed 100 pounds of turkey, 4,500 pounds of goose, 1,500 pounds of cranberries, and 1,200 mince pies. At Edward Hines Jr. hospital the 1,500 veterans were served a turkey dinner with fitting side dishes.

Loop Hotels Are Busy.

Loop hotels reported a thriving business, with most of the diners ordering the traditional turkey dinner. The Palmer house served almost 4,000 pounds of turkey, 50 bushels of sweet potatoes, 400 pounds of cranberries, 600 pounds of dressing, and 300 bunches of celery.

The Hotel Sherman and the Morrison, Stevens, and Blackstone hotels reported similar business, with the diners respecting tradition in their orders.

Thanksgiving cheer was spread in St. Vincent's orphanage by the adoption of Flossie Wilson and Jimmy Kelly, each 2 years old. Fifty of the oldest children in the orphanage were served a turkey dinner.

Dinners for Suburb's Needy.

Three hundred needy families in Evanston were given Thanksgiving dinners by the Social Service exchange of that suburb.

In Wilmette 60 families were provided with turkey and trimmings by the Wilmette Village Welfare bureau, headed by C. C. Schultz.

The Social Service bureau of Winnetka cared for 40 families, according to Mrs. Mary Garretson, its president, while the Glencoe Relief and Aid society, headed by Mrs. John Nicholson, provided for 50 families.

Kenilworth churches took care of the needy of that village, while in Niles Center and Morton Grove, village officials reported, there were no families in need of free Thanksgiving dinners, since the heads of the needy families were among the 50 men put to work recently under the federal civics works program.

LONDON PAPER PAYS TRIBUTE TO ROOSEVELT

LONDON, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The Daily Express, often outspoken in its criticism of American affairs, paid tribute to President Roosevelt today with an editorial headed, "Here Is a Man."

"In America," it said, "Roosevelt stands up to further onslaughts. The Wall street banks line up against him. Their flight is shameful."

"The President is tackling a job which would be enough to break most men's hearts. The mess was made by interests in a panic. Roosevelt keeps his nerve. He carries on and he will carry through."

"Other news from over there concerns a fresh wave of lynching. A country which lets criminals ply their trade unchecked and then takes the law into its own hands and goes mad wants a brave, strong man for its head in a crisis."

"Americans are lucky to have found him."

Jokes with Cripples at Warm Springs.

BY JOHN HERRICK.

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 30.—(Special.)—With the crippled children and grownups of Warm Springs foundation, with their wheel chairs and their braces, President Roosevelt today celebrated Thanksgiving.

"I don't need to tell you I myself am very thankful on this Thanksgiving day," he told them this evening at their holiday dinner.

The little children were seated close to the speaker's table. Four-year-old Barbara Stewart didn't quite understand what it meant to be told that she was dining with the President of the United States. But the plate of turkey passed to her by the man who smiled and joked didn't need explaining.

Foundation Head, His Role.

For the evening the nation's chief executive became first of all the head of Warm Springs foundation—the man who remembered the benefits he himself received here by creating the foundation so that other victims of infantile paralysis might also be helped.

There was a magician, Julian Boehm, of Atlanta.

"Who will entertain us with some of those things we've never been able to solve—perhaps he'll put on something about the gold standard," said the President by way of introduction.

As assistant from the audience, Mr. Boehm chose Gus Gernerich, bodyguard and privileged jester to the President.

He "Predicts" Headlines.

"And I'm going to tell you what the headlines in some of the papers are going to be tomorrow," said the President, smiling over at the group of correspondents accompanying him.

CO-EDS KILL TURKEY FOR DINNER; BIRD FLEES SANS FEATHERS

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 30.—(Special.)—It became necessary today for two young Baltimore girls to go outside of their apartment for the traditional Thanksgiving turkey dinner.

Their experience in administering ether to patients at the medical school here, where both are co-eds, justified them in the belief that either would be the best vehicle for dispatching the turkey which they had purchased for the Thanksgiving meal.

After the gobble had succumbed to the anesthetic the girls plucked it of all feathers and left the dead bird on the kitchen table when they retired last night.

During the night they heard a commotion. They reached the kitchen in time to see the turkey dive through a window. The bird vanished.

parry. "They are going to say that Mr. Boehm is going to be appointed secretary of the treasury and that Gus Gernerich is going to head the federal reserve system."

The group-ups got that quip—and the children liked the rabbit wriggling out of the hat, and the man who played "The Big Bad Wolf" on his banjo.

In introducing various builders and benefactors of the Foundation, the President paid tribute to Henry Pope, of Chicago, one of the trustees, who he said was largely responsible in winning the approval of the medical profession for the work done at Warm Springs. Then again he made another smiling topical allusion when introduced Dr. Michael Hoke, chief surgeon, as "a man dear to my heart because he's not above a logical experiment."

Forty Turkeys for Dinner.

Forty turkeys, many of them gifts to the President, provided the main course of the dinner. The dinner is an annual occasion for the President. He promised that he would be here next Thanksgiving and "if congress is kind" would come down before that, some time in the spring. The evening dinner was the second

U. S. PREPARES TO PUSH TRIAL OF INSULL AIDS

Start Arguments in Court Today.

Despite the absence of Samuel Insull Sr., former head of the Insull utilities empire, who avoided extradition from Greece, the government is preparing to proceed with the trial of the remainder of the defendants in an indictment charging violation of the federal bankruptcy act by transfer of assets of the Corporation Securities company, a $30 million dollar Insull investment trust, now defunct.

Samuel Insull, his son, Samuel Jr., and his brother, Martin, and eight others were named in the indictment voted by a federal grand jury last June and suppressed by the federal authorities until August.

The next move toward trial of the case will be made today, when defense attorneys will appear in the federal court to argue on a motion for a bill of particulars. As soon as these arguments are out of the way the government will move for an immediate trial.

Naturally the absence of Samuel Insull Sr. will have a great bearing on the case. Dwight H. Green, United States district attorney, said yesterday. "However, the government will go ahead with the trial of the remaining defendants as it would in any other case."

While federal officials were inclined to believe Insull's avoidance of extradition would aid the remaining defendants, defense attorneys felt that his absence would hinder rather than aid them in the defense.

Thanksgiving Day Burglar Finds Only Cold Comfort

The Thanksgiving dinner of the burglar who broke into the Castle Kitchen, a restaurant at 1551 Maple avenue, Evanston, yesterday afternoon was a meager one. He ate a small amount of cold sausage, all that was in the refrigerator, and drank a bottle of milk. Then he fled with 13 cents from a contribution box placed on a counter by an organization engaged in feeding the poor.

SEEK U. S. CASH TO BUILD GREAT MEDICAL CENTER

$15,000,000 Condemnation Fund Proposed.

Creation of a great medical center in the vicinity of the Cook county hospital with the aid of federal money was envisioned yesterday by the plan committee of the Chicago Medical District association. The committee voted to seek an interview with Secretary of Interior Harold I. Ickes through United States Senator James Hamilton Lewis for the purpose of having the project approved.

Present plans call for the expenditure of about $15,000,000 in federal condemnation proceedings for property in the area bounded by Oakley boulevard on the west, Jackson boulevard on the north, Ashland boulevard on the east and Roosevelt road on the south. This area is now the medical center of the city, containing hospitals, medical schools, and dental schools.

Chance to Recoup a Part.
The association proposes to tear down all unrelated structures and build an attractive center with hospitals, schools, colleges, social agencies, hotels, dormitories and similar institutions amid landscaping. It is argued that the government can meet a portion of the original cost by reselling part of the property to institutions and commercial houses which would be allowed space on the fringe of the area.

Further, the plan calls for advancement of $1,500,000 for the erection of necessary buildings. These are to be self liquidating projects. With these initial steps taken the committee expressed the opinion that within 50 years the area would grow into a $100,000,000 medical center.

The Chicago Medical District association is an organization of leading surgeons and physicians interested in the neighborhood and representatives of business and civic organizations. It is headed by Dr. Bernard Fantus of the University of Illinois. Members of the committee which met yesterday included Dr. Fantus, Dr. Charles Davidson of the University hospital, Walter C. League of Goodwill industries, Ernest Barbour, engineer, and County Commissioner Peter M. Kelly, chairman of the hospital committee.

$1,500,000 Therapeutics Building.
Mr. Barbour, who has developed the plan, listed the buildings for which federal money is to be asked. These are a nurses' home to cost $1,250,000, a hotel at $2,750,000, ten student homes at $50,000 each, an observation hospital at $750,000, a therapeutics building at $1,200,000, a contagious disease hospital at $700,000, a convalescent sanitarium at $600,000 and a community health center at $500,000.

The nurses' home is not to be constructed with the Cook County Nurses' home, for which federal money has already been advanced, he said. This home would be for 1,000 independent nurses now in the district, who would pay for room and board in the home. The hotel would provide living quarters for physicians, professors, hospital officials and others. These would support the hotel with shops to be located on the first floors. Students would likewise pay for the cost of student units. The hospital structure would be paid for by patients, he said. A contagious disease hospital was included because the city has no such facilities for paying patients.

In the future, Mr. Barbour said, other buildings may be erected. He listed among these a hotel for visitors, a building for civilian employees, a cancer research unit, botanical gardens, a vitamin research laboratory, a club building, hospital for mental patients, a medical museum, and establishments for various medical activities.

Asks $875,000 from Film Stars; Sent to State Hospital

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 30.—(AP)—A man sought for more than a month as the writer of letters to film celebrities, in which he demanded $875,000, walked into the district attorney's headquarters today and asked aid in collecting the funds. Blayne Matthews, chief investigator, said the man, identified as Winfred Jerrell, 31, a former jockey, had been sought for letters written to Charles Chaplin, Jean Bismell, Nancy Carroll, Douglas Fairbanks Jr., and others. He was committed to a state hospital.

START SHORTEST YULE SHOPPING SEASON TODAY

New Facilities Offered by Stores.

The Christmas shopping season will get in full swing this morning in Chicago. Store executives reported yesterday that their shelves were filled with new merchandise and that hundreds of employees had been hired to handle the rush.

Shopping must be done earlier than in previous years, merchants pointed out, because the season has been reduced in length. Since the day after Thanksgiving marks the opening of the season and that holiday came on the last day of November only 20 days are left in which to buy Christmas gifts.

Merchant Voices Optimism.
"Our preparations have all been completed for the Christmas buyers," said one merchant, "and we are expecting a large volume of business since the prices are still below normal. We are optimistic on the general outlook for the holiday trade."

The merchants said that employment of extra help would increase as the crowds grew. Some stores reported that Christmas shoppers had already begun to flock in this week.

Some of the new features of Christmas merchandising adopted by the stores are as follows:

SLEEPY ROBBER YAWNS HIMSELF INTO JAIL CELL

Jerry de Marco, 28 years old, 20 South Desplains street, was arrested yesterday when he became too tired to complete robbery at Ogden and Oakley avenues. Mumbling about his weariness, De Marco drew a revolver, took $3.95 from Frank Coffey, a cab driver, and then ordered the driver from the cab. Coffey got out of the car, but when the drowsy gunman sat nodding in the back seat, Coffey walked a block and notified Police Sgt. Lee O'Rourke. Coffey and the policeman returned to the cab, aroused the handist and led him, yawning, to a cell.

CITY TO PROTECT DRY AREAS AFTER PROHIBITION DIES

License Ban Promised by Mayor Kelly.

Despite the demise of prohibition next Tuesday, a number of districts in Chicago will be nearly as arid after repeal as they were presumed to be during the tenure of prohibition, it was asserted yesterday.

Privileges tantamount to local option are to be granted to residents who make formal requests through their aldermen that Mayor Kelly refuse to issue licenses for the operation of drinking places in districts they desire to be kept dry. The mayor has said he will respect these requests.

Those sections of the city expected to remain dry when liquor dispensing is legalized on Dec. 5 are in Rogers Park, Beverly Hills, Hyde Park, Astor, and the south shore district.

Plan for Rogers Park.

Rogers Park will have double protection against the sale of hard liquor. One is the intention of Ald. C. A. Williston (49th) to carry to Mayor Kelly any request of his constituents for the withholding of licenses from liquor sellers planning to operate where they are not wanted.

But an even more ironclad guarantee is to be found in the private charter of Northwestern University, which prohibits the sale of any intoxicant within a radius of four miles of the Evanston campus. While the charter was obtained from the state in 1859 when the area north of Devon Avenue was mostly open country, it is said to be as inviolable as ever.

Under the new Chicago liquor ordinance, adopted by the city council last Tuesday and effective Dec. 5, the great number of taverns now in existence between Devon Avenue and the north limits of Chicago will be unable to get licenses to sell hard liquors, it is said. Therefore, they will either have to sell a non-alcoholic beverage or go out of business.

Doom to Many Taverns Seen.

The probability of their continued operation as beer taverns is considerably diminished in view of the fact that after Jan. 1 these dispensers will have to pay a license fee of $250 which the ordinance requires for the first six months of 1934, regardless of whether hard liquor is sold or not. And in that connection it is believed that literally hundreds of existing beer dispensaries, such as delicatessens, drug stores and other small establishments, which for various reasons will be unable to handle hard liquors, will be forced out of the beer business on Jan. 1 by the imposition of the city license fee.

However, every place selling beer now is presumed to be operating under the city's old $300 annual license and such places will be permitted to sell all liquors on that license up to Dec. 31.

Mayor Kelly said that, while he would refuse licenses whenever asked to do so by aldermen, it would be better to amend the present ordinance to provide that applicants obtain the consent of a certain proportion of residents owning property fronting the street on which the drinking establishment would be placed. This would eliminate the possibility of applicants for licenses taking court action to compel the mayor to issue licenses.

A number of amendments are expected to be adopted later to perfect the present skeleton ordinance. One now pending provides for a $5 annual fee for druggists, which would permit them to sell liquor for medicinal purposes only and not for consumption on the premises.

BODY OF FIRE LIEUTENANT IS FOUND IN RIVER

The body of Fire Lieutenant Lawrence F. Burns, 49 years old, 3224 South Union Avenue, was taken from the river at Archer Avenue yesterday by the police. Identification of the body was made at the county morgue by members of the Burns family. Lieut. Burns was reported missing on Nov. 22 when he failed to report for work at engine company 9.

First Trainload of Wine Arrives Since U.S. Went Dry

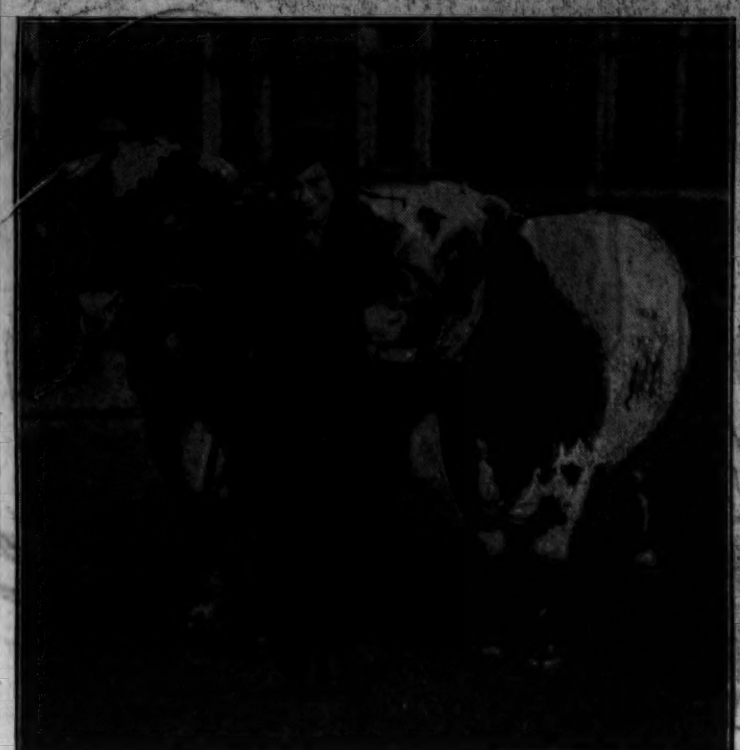

Twelve freight cars containing 45,000 gallons of California wines, arrived in the city yesterday over the Milwaukee railroad and were unloaded at the Italian Swiss Colony warehouse at 400 West Kinzie Street. This is the first trainload of wine, railroad officials say, to arrive from Asti, Calif., since the advent of prohibition. F. M. McPherson, freight agent for the Milwaukee road, supervised the unloading. The wine will be placed on sale after Dec. 5.

MEDICS EXPEL DOCTOR IN "HELEN OF TROY" CASE

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, Nov. 30.—After a two-day hearing the British medical council today decided to erase the name of Dr. Charles Frederick Searle from the medical register for his associations with a patient, Mrs. John Place. The body described his conduct as "infamous in a professional respect."

Dr. Searle and Mrs. Place figured in the famous "Helen of Troy" case before the Cambridge assizes in which Justice McCauley expressed his opinion on the right of a married woman to cultivate friendships with other men. Dr. Searle is now in Africa with Mrs. Place who has changed her name to Searle. She left England a year ago and recently became a mother. The elopement figured in the charges.

The complaint before the board was Mrs. Place's husband and he charged that Dr. Searle first met his wife in a professional capacity and later took her to dinners and for automobile rides. A lawyer defended Dr. Searle, pointing to his war record. He argued it was the physician's quixotic sense of chivalry which drove him to assist the woman who, he argued was unhappily married.

TODAY IS YOUNG JUDGES' DAY AT LIVE STOCK SHOW

Exposition Is Officially Opened Tomorrow.

Live stock judging by boys and girls of 17 states will be the high point of the program today at the 34th annual International Live Stock exposition, which will open formally tomorrow in the stock yards. The exposition will continue until Dec. 9.

The youths participating today are between the ages of 12 and 16, competing for state honors that will give them agricultural college scholarships donated to the winning team by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

Manager B. H. Helde of the exposition announced yesterday that everything was ready for the full show of America's finest beef cattle, hogs, sheep and horses, expected to attract 400,000 visitors to the stockyards during the show. The highlight tomorrow is the evening horse show, restricted to Chicago and suburban entries in riding and driving classes.

Horse Show Entrants.

Among those who have nominated entries from their stables are M. A. Kern, Miss Mary Belle Llewellyn, Dr. C. H. Bramwell, Miss Brothers, Robert W. Goss, William C. Grunow, J. C. Haberkorn, Miss Francis Hogan, Miss Marjorie Holton, Miss Hope Landis, George H. Kelly, Miss Patsy Lawrence, Miss Margaret Lewis, Stanley Luke, Miss Dorothy Benedict, Charles D. WILLING TO MARRY ACTRESS, GOLFER SAYS OF HER $100,000 SUIT

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 30.—(P)—An answer to a $100,000 breach of promise suit brought by Betty McMahon, film actress, was filed today by Franklin C. Stevens, prominent amateur golfer. He said he was "ready and willing to marry Betty at any time."

Stevens and the actress eloped to Yuma, Ariz., Sept. 28. At that time he divorced from his first wife, Mrs. Dorothy Stevens, was not final, and so his second marriage was void. Stevens said he did not know that at the time of the elopement.

Oct. 24, the day after the final divorce decree was entered, he said he proposed remarriage to Miss McMahon, but she asked him to postpone the ceremony. Since then, Stevens said, Miss McMahon has avoided him. He charged that was done with the intention of filing the suit.

While Mrs. Steele has a lone entry, a Hereford white faced steer, which she reared and fed on her husband's farm. Competition among Belgian horse entries will include stock exhibited by Mrs. Alfred G. Wilson of Rochester, Mich., Mrs. Andrew E. Seaver of Harrisville, Mich., has sent a flock of Hampshire sheep to the show.

STANDARD RED CROWN QUICK-FIRE SUPERFUEL

THE NEW COLD WEATHER GASOLINE

You want action—real snap-of-the-finger action—when you step on the starter of your car. You get it these cold mornings if your fuel tank is filled with this new cold-weather gasoline. "Quick-Fire" Superfuel has been produced especially to eliminate irritating, wasteful delay in starting and warming up cold motors. The amount of highly volatile, quick-firing units has been greatly increased. Actually this boost averages more than 50%. That gives you summer performance, double-rich starting power even in mid-winter.

Try it! Drive up to a Standard Red Crown pump now, fill with "Quick-Fire" Superfuel and then, the next snappy morning, see how it does warm up a cold motor.

STILL THE COMPLETE SUPERFUEL

Some "regular" gasolines may equal Standard Red Crown "Quick-Fire" Superfuel in one or two qualities—none surpasses it. And we believe that not one equals it in ALL the essentials of good gasoline.

1. Unsurpassed in starting—quick warm-up. 2. 70 Octane—top anti-knock in its price class. 3. Free from harmful sulphur and gum. 4. Accurately adjusted for seasonal variations. 5. Always uniform everywhere. 6. Fresher because of Standard's popularity. 7. Sells at the price of regular.

THE NEXT PUZZLE WILL APPEAR IN TOMORROW'S TRIBUNE

U. S. ENVOY URGES CUBA TO SET UP COALITION RULE

to End Strife.

BY GUSTAVO RENO.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 30.—American Ambassador Welles today conferred with representatives of various factions opposing President Grau San Martín's régime in an effort, it is understood, to bring about a coalition government in accordance with instructions from President Roosevelt.

Such a government, would include representatives of a majority of the Cuban factions. The American government, it was learned, is not unfavorable to Grau as president providing he is supported by a majority until an election for president can be held. Recognition is dependent upon fulfillment of this condition, it is reliably reported.

Cel. Fulgencio Batista will remain as head of the army, Welles proposals according to this information, but the army is to become a non-political organization constituted solely to maintain law and order and for the defense of the republic.

Loan Hinges on Conditions.
If these conditions are accepted by the Cubans, Welles, it is understood, has promised a loan of $25,000,000 without interest to the Cuban government, payable in not less than 35 years. The loan would be made by the R. E. C. There would also be a five year moratorium on capital payments on all foreign loans contracted since the establishment of the republic, and a two year moratorium on interest payments.

Other concessions are reported to be a substantial reduction of the tariff on Cuban fruit, vegetables, tobacco and sugar, the latter to be reduced to about 1 1/2 cents per pound. There would be a guarantee of a 2,000,000 ton quota in the American sugar market a year.

Welles, it is reported, has given the oppositionists 15 days to settle their controversies with the present régime and the establishment of a new government.

ABC Opposes Mediation.
If these efforts fail, it is believed that Welles will leave for Washington and Jefferson Caffery will replace him with an entire new embassy staff ready to begin immediate intervention.

Dr. Martinez Saenz, leading ABC spokesman, announced tonight that the revolutionary organization opposes mediation and will not accept any solution based on the continuance of Grau as president.

Five bombs rocked Havana today, damaging several business houses. Five persons were injured. Three soldiers and seven sailors were wounded by ABC snipers.

TURKEY DINNER ENDS COUPLE'S LAKE LEAP PACT

Joseph Morgan, 53 years old, and Miss Lucille Newell, 23 years old, homeless wanderers, pooled their meager resources Wednesday evening and bought a meal. They walked the streets that night and yesterday they reached a decision to die together.

Both were preparing to leap into the lake off Jackson boulevard in Grant park when Policeman Raymond Tussey arrested them. They were taken to the State street police station. Morgan said that he was despondent over the death of his wife a year ago as well as over inability to earn a living.

"We are just friends," he said. "Lucille has been separated from her husband and that worries her. We figured it out that we'd both be better off dead than trying to live this way."

After they had been given the turkey dinner furnished to all prisoners at the station, Morgan and Miss Newell said they might reconsider their agreement and try to keep on living.

Youth and Girl Are Hit by Wild Bullets

Stella Kozlowski, 10 years old, 4720 South Racine avenue, was struck in the right leg yesterday by a bullet fired at a target by Ted Kuliczowski, 10 years old, 4754 South Racine avenue. William Petryni, 17 years old, 1851 Huron street, was wounded when his friend, Matthew Plasmid, 15 years old, of the same address, took a poor aim while shooting at a rat.

Minister of Revenue in Canadian Cabinet Quits

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 30.—E. B. Ryckman, minister of national revenue in the Canadian government, resigned his post tonight. R. C. Matthews of Toronto, Conservative member of parliament, is mentioned for the post.

David A. Winship Jr., 30 years old, 201 South Ridgeland avenue, Oak Park, left yesterday on the Liberty Limited for Washington, D. C., where he will receive the Pershing award for military excellence and efficiency in a citizens' military training camp. The award is presented to the outstanding C. M. T. C. student in each of the nine corps areas in the United States. Winship has been selected from the 3,500 students in the Sixth corps area for "distinguished attainment in military education."

JUDGE LOWELL IS DEAD; ENDS CASE OF IMPEACHMENT

Newton, Mass., Nov. 30.—Federal Judge James A. Lowell, who recently gained national prominence through his decision on the George Crawford Negro case, died today at his home. He was 64 years old.

Judge Lowell had been sick for ten days. His death brought an end to impeachment proceedings against him in the national house of representatives because of his action in the Crawford case.

Crawford was wanted in Virginia for the alleged slaying of Mrs. Margaret Boeing Lisle and her maid. Although Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts granted extradition, Judge Lowell issued a writ of habeas corpus which freed Crawford, because, he said, "Negroes were not permitted to serve on Virginia juries and a conviction of Crawford would be illegal." The Supreme court overruled him and Crawford was taken to Virginia.

The move for impeachment followed and a house committee came here and investigated also the judge's conduct in cases involving the shipment of poisonous ginger extract.

CASEY BEMOANS THE WINTER OF HIS DISCONTENT

Looks on World with a Slightly Bilious Eye.

John Casey, 48 years old, yesterday viewed Thanksgiving from the window of his tavern at 4717 South Hermitage avenue with a slightly bilious eye. John has troubles.

These began on or about Nov. 19 when a genial man named Knuckles first adorned the Casey bar. Knuckles, a stein in one hand and a slightly frayed fish in the other, spoke of his old friend, Dr. Winter.

"Dr. Winter has a good thing," he said. "You should meet him."

Casey Meets Dr. Winter.

Now, Casey, who has operated his saloon for seven years and is a good friend of Joe Salts, is looked upon as an astute citizen. Sighting a chance for profit his hesitation was brief. An introduction was arranged and Casey, accustomed to meet people behind his bar, had soon wormed his way into the doctor's confidence.

"I've a fine proposition," Dr. Winter confided, "and I had thought of making Knuckles my partner."

"Don't you monkey with that man," Casey told him: "he's crooked, and if you have any money he'll get it."

The doctor thanked Mr. Casey and agreed to share his secret. Behind drawn blinds in a room in the Englewood hotel, 436 and Halsted streets, Dr. Winter produced a strange machine. He dropped in a dollar, turned the crank, and a $10 bill emerged. Then he put in a $10 bill, turned the crank again, and out came a $100 note. This they took to a bank and changed.

Casey Scrapes Up $900.

Then, sadly enough, the doctor ran short of paper which had to be imported from Germany at a cost of $1,500. Casey hurried to his home and scraped together $900. Last Saturday he started with his money to meet the doctor.

En route he ran about a police squad and was taken into custody on suspicion. Held for twenty-four hours at the detective bureau and questioned, Casey managed to hide the secret of his planned investment from the police.

Locked at last, he hurried to complete the deal in a room somewhere in the neighborhood of 47th street and Woodlawn avenue. The $900 was placed in the machine and a bit of acid added. Then Dr. Winter became magnanimous.

Takes Machine Home.

"Take the machine home with you and make this last batch," he told Casey. "Then we'll go into the paper deal."

Warned to let "the batch" stand for some forty-eight hours in order that the acid might set in its work, Casey followed instructions and then began to crank.

Nothing emerged and investigation revealed nothing inside the machine but two ten dollar bills. From time to time yesterday Casey deserted his bar and gave a futile crank or two on the machine.

"I wish," he said wistfully, "that I could find Dr. Winter. He could make it work."

SHOT TO DEATH IN QUARREL.

Charles Gravitt, colored, 37 years old, was shot and killed yesterday in a quarrel with William "Big Boy" colored, inmate of the building in which both lived at 627 East 45th street.

Home-coming week at Field's and a whole store full of

New Ideas

for young men home from college

To the thousands of university men home for this glorious holiday—you're always welcome at The Store for Men. To young men with ideas and ideals about being well-dressed, here are just a few of the new things that are constantly at Field's first. Tabs, stripes, black bands on brown hats—what a real chance for you to lead rather than follow. Actually, this is home-coming week at The Store for Men—the whole store is enthusiastically "young"; you can't afford to go back to school without at least inspecting these new ideas!

STRIPES

Wide stripes, narrow stripes, triple stripes, single stripes—colorful and gay. Hundreds of them; they're the smartest ones you've ever seen. $1 and $1.50

SHIRTS

with tab or eyelet collars

The tab collar still ranks high with university men. The new plique shirt with the rounded, eyelet collar is rapidly gaining acceptance. Smart stripes in the tabs; all white, solid colors, or stripes. $2.50 in the eyelet.

JACKET-TROUSER COMBINE

It's practically become a campus costume—almost official in its universal university usage. Here is a genuine imported Harris Tweed coat, with bi-swing back and a faint overplaid. In a rich copper shade; with leather buttons. The slacks are of a smart medium gray.

The coat $27.50

The slacks $8.50

BRITISH SQUARES

are the new idea in suits

Taken from one of the swankiest London tailors is this idea of "squares." Not checks, mind you—but neat, all-over, ever-so-faint squares effected by the use of stripes of a darker color than the original fabric. In brown or blue.

NATION AWAITS SUPREME COURT RULINGS ON NRA

Decisions May Seal Fate of New Deal.

benediction on the most extreme collection involved in the NRA, they are measurably sure of Stone and Roberts and they have high hopes of Hughes. Justice Brandeis, according to published reports, has been advising the administration from the start on how to dress the New Deal in constitutional habiliments. His secretary, being asked to ask the justice if this were true, reported that Justice Brandeis replied that he never made statements to the press.

Conservatives are confident that Van Dewater, McReynolds, Sutherland and Butler will resist any warping of the constitution to give sanction to radical innovations and rely upon Hughes to turn the balance in their favor if worst comes to worst, though being not wholly without hope that Stone and Roberts will balk at the more startling implications of the new dispensation.

Some Fear NRA Doomed.

Many of the New Dealers are braying well developed fears that the NRA is doomed to short shrift at the hands of the Supreme court. Prof. Raymond Moley, who though out of the administration still functions as a member of the Roosevelt brain trust, got Prof. Thomas Reed Powell to write for his weekly an article on "Recovery and the Supreme Court." Prof. Powell questioned "the wisdom of giving so few the power to override the judgment of so many." He said that Supreme court decisions are determined largely by the justices' personal differences of fundamental outlook, from which he concluded that "if any part of the recovery act or any administrative orders in pursuance of it are declared unconstitutional it will be because five or more Supreme court justices are determined to have it so."

"What hope," asks Prof. Powell, "could there be for the continuing prestige and authority of a court that told us after a year of nation-wide endeavor that our efforts must be halted and that we must begin again?" If the court should declare the NRA unconstitutional, he adds, "it would assume a dictatorship without parallel even in this day of dictators." And then, waxing more ominous, the professor says that as the justices "cannot fail to realize what damage and disorder would follow an abrupt and wholesale stopping of the efforts now in progress, they cannot be unmindful of the thunders that would rattle if they decreed the halt."

Have Prescription Ready.

Other New Dealers are ready with a prescription of the method of dealing with a recalcitrant Supreme court. It is to increase the membership of the court and fill the new places with a sufficient number of New Dealers to reverse an adverse decision. Although a deliberate packing of the court was strenuously denied, it was as a result of the increase of the court by two members in the Grant administration that the decision in the legal tender cases was reversed. Forcible retirement of justices over 70, most of whom are conservatives, has also been suggested, but this would take time, as a constitutional amendment would be required.

The preambles of the recovery acts are replete with phraseology designed to take the curse of unconstitutionality off these excursions into the legal stratosphere. The agricultural adjustment act declares that there is an "uncert economic emergency" which has deranged the orderly exchange of commodities and "seriously impaired the agricultural assets supporting the national credit structure," which circumstances "have affected transactions in agricultural commodities with a national public interest and have burdened and obstructed the normal work of commerce in such commodities." It also seeks shelter of the taxing power in the objective of raising revenue "for extraordinary expenses incurred by reason of the national economic emergency."

Preamble Declares Emergency.

The preamble of the national industrial recovery act declares the emer-

New Deal's Cost in Taxes Running 12 1/2 Millions Daily

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—[Special.]—The Roosevelt New Deal is costing the taxpayers of the country 12 1/2 million dollars a day, treasury department records revealed today. Actually outstripping the record of the Hoover administration in its last fiscal year, the New Deal thus far has achieved an average of spending which is an increase of half a million per day over that of a year ago.

Total federal expenditures in the 150 days since July 1, when the first full fiscal year under President Roosevelt started, have climbed to 1 billion 883 million dollars. During the same period of the preceding fiscal year, the federal government had spent only 1 billion 819 million dollars, the treasury's book show.

Deficit 5 Million Daily.

The federal government, on an average day during the present fiscal year, the records show, has spent an amount larger than that which would be raised by the imposition of a tax of 10 cents a day imposed on every man, woman, and child in the country.

Against its average daily expenditures of 12 1/2 million dollars the federal government has revenue receipts which average only 7 1/2 millions, leaving a deficit of about 5 million dollars for each day.

Its revenue collections for the first 150 days of the fiscal year, which began on July 1, 1933, amounted to 1 billion 127 million dollars, a sharp increase over the tax burden of the preceding year. Because the increase in revenues has been larger than the increase in costs, the deficit has amounted to only 755 million dollars, compared with 1 billion 144 million on the same date a year ago.

The entire cost in the government's spending has been due to nine special divisions of the New Deal program which have been set up in a special budget. The costs of the ordinary government establishment has declined.

RFC Expenditures Heavy.

Expenditures by the emergency agencies such as the NRA, RFC, and AAA have averaged more than 4 1/2 million dollars a day thus far in the fiscal year. Of this daily average $1,300,000 goes out through the RFC, $889,000 goes to the public works emergency fund, and $790,000 goes to keeping up the forest army. The remaining $450,000 in the daily average for emergency units is divided between the NRA, the AAA, and four minor units.

Last fiscal year, when the RFC was the only emergency spending agency, the daily average costs were only $2,600,000. Total emergency spending to date this year has been 677 million dollars, compared with 398 million up to the same date a year ago.

Ordinary costs have averaged 8 million dollars a day this year, a decline of $1,400,000 from the daily average of a year ago, due largely to cuts in the veterans, national defense, and routine departmental outlays. Ordinary expenditures this year aggregate 1 billion 206 million against 1 billion, 421 million a year ago.

Agency Burdens Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Many of the New Dealers are braying well developed fears that the NRA is doomed to short shrift at the hands of the Supreme court. Prof. Raymond Moley, who though out of the administration still functions as a member of the Roosevelt brain trust, got Prof. Thomas Reed Powell to write for his weekly an article on "Recovery and the Supreme Court." Prof. Powell questioned "the wisdom of giving so few the power to override the judgment of so many." He said that Supreme court decisions are determined largely by the justices' personal differences of fundamental outlook, from which he concluded that "if any part of the recovery act or any administrative orders in pursuance of it are declared unconstitutional it will be because five or more Supreme court justices are determined to have it so."

"What hope," asks Prof. Powell, "could there be for the continuing prestige and authority of a court that told us after a year of nation-wide endeavor that our efforts must be halted and that we must begin again?" If the court should declare the NRA unconstitutional, he adds, "it would assume a dictatorship without parallel even in this day of dictators." And then, waxing more ominous, the professor says that as the justices "cannot fail to realize what damage and disorder would follow an abrupt and wholesale stopping of the efforts now in progress, they cannot be unmindful of the thunders that would rattle if they decreed the halt."

Court on Shoreside Decision.

To bring the NRA under the commerce clause, the New Dealers are leaning heavily on the Supreme court's decision in the Shreveport case in which intrastate rail rates were invalidated because they interfered with the flow of interstate commerce. They also repose great faith in the court's decision that the Adamson act was justified by the emergency, although it transcended the power of the federal government to fix the hours of labor for railroad employees.

The contention that the recovery legislation is justified by the authority implied in the welfare clause of the constitution Mr. Beck attacks by citation of the Supreme court decision pronouncing the welfare clause in no sense a grant of power.

It is not doubted that persons who contend their business has been injured or ruined by NRA codes will invoke the clause forbidding deprivation of property without due process of law. Upon this clause the court has decided more frequently than on any other. It marks the dividing line between conservatives and liberals.

14 Lose Lives in Michigan During Deer Hunting Season

St. Ignace, Mich., Nov. 30.—(P)—Fourteen hunters lost their lives during the Michigan deer hunting season which closed at midnight tonight. The fatalities were nearly twice that of a year ago when eight were listed, although 1,000 less deer were shot. Seven of the deaths this season were due to gunfire while the remainder resulted from automobile accidents or illnesses brought on by over-exertion, all traceable to hunting activities.

13 Killed in Maine.

Portland, Me., Nov. 30.—(P)—The Maine hunting season, which closed tonight in 14 of the 16 counties, took a toll of 13 human lives, two more than last season. In addition, numerous persons were accidentally wounded by hunters' bullets. When the hunter responsible for such accidents was identified, he lost forever, under a new law, the privilege of hunting in Maine.

CONFESS FIFTY TAVERN HOLDUPS IN CHICAGO AREA

Police announced yesterday that more than fifty robberies of taverns and roadhouses in the Chicago area during the last few months had been solved with the confession of one of the three bandits who took part in the holdup of the Whitehall tavern at York road and Grand avenue, near Elmhurst, last Tuesday.

The bandit, who was seized Wednesday by Gary police, identified himself as Walter Tifus, 26 years old, of Gary. His companions in the holdup were Otto Meier, 24 years old, of Hobart, Ind., and Wayne Casement, 25, of Gary, both of whom were shot by a watchman as they fled from the tavern with $1,000 loot taken from sixty guests in the place. Casement was instantly killed and his body hidden in the woods. Meier, who was wounded in the body, was near death yesterday in a Gary hospital.

Police, led by Tifus, found Casement's body yesterday in the woods two miles south of Barrington. Previously a posse of fifty men had searched the woods in vain for trace of the robbers.

Earlier in the day Evanston police raided an apartment at 829 Foster avenue, Evanston, where Casement lived. Three revolvers were seized, but no loot was found.

HOME ROBBED OF $270.

Louis Purogiovitz, 1811 Chicago avenue, reported yesterday to Evanston police that burglars had entered his home Wednesday night and escaped with $270 in gold and silver he had hidden under a bedroom rug.

PUBLIC WORKS PROGRAM FAILS, SAYS AL SMITH

Claims CWA Devised to Hide Its Breakdown.

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Alfred E. Smith said today the public works administration was broken down and that the civil works program was set up to hide its failure.

"Instead of acknowledging the failure of the public works administration," said the former governor, "this crazy top-heavy structure, choked with red tape and bureaucracy, is being left as it is, and out of it is being created the civil works administration to raise relief wages and get more people to work during the winter."

"Half way between a lemon and an orange is a grapefruit; half way between a public work and a civil work is a grapefruit. Up to now the federal establishments only recently scheduled for consolidation, have been increased to include an AAA, an FCA, a PWA, an FERA, an NRA, and a TVA, an HRA, an RFC, and now we have a CWA."

"The Absent Minded Professor."

"It looks as though one of the absent minded professors had played anagrams with the alphabet soup. The soup got cold while he was unconsciously inventing a new game for the nation, a game which beats the crossword puzzle—the game of identifying new departments by their initials."

Smith's attack was made in an editorial in the New Outlook, the same issue of which contained his demand for "sound money" and a return to the gold standard.

To effect the civil works program, the editorial said, Harry Hopkins "has been given a new title and $496,000,000 of Mr. Ickes' money, and has been instructed to take 2,000,000 men from relief work and put them on civil works, and to put 2,000,000 more men on new civil works projects to be devised overnight."

"No one has as yet described just what a civil works project is, except that it is some sort of minor construction or repair work which does not require the services of a contractor, which can be finished before Feb. 15 when the money gives out, and which does not involve a great deal of supervision or material."

"Reorganization Necessary."

"One thing is obvious, and that is that without a complete reorganization of the Public Works Administration there will be no more public works under way on Feb. 15 to absorb the civil workers than there are today to absorb the relief workers. The more we string out of the public works program the less men are employed at any one time, and the surer we are not to put enough priming in the industrial pump to get it working by itself."

"I have the greatest possible sympathy with increasing the wages of present underpaid relief workers. I enthusiastically endorse the idea of putting more men to work. I am for a five day week rather than a three day week, and for paying skilled laborers the prevailing rate rather than paying them as ditch diggers, but I cannot for the life of me see how worthwhile projects, midway between public works and made work, can be devised overnight, or how this hastily conceived civil works program can lead ultimately to anything but confusion."

"Will Cause Confusion."

"This program cannot benefit the heavy industries. It cannot produce much that is valuable between now and Feb. 15. It will certainly add the localities more and more to dump their entire relief program on the central government. It will certainly discourage the private building industry."

"It will certainly dislocate wages in thousands of communities and further discourage private initiative. It will certainly cause men who are now working on made work with nothing to work with or at, to loaf more hours. If the rule giving an absolute preference to veterans with dependents is carried out, there are whole regions where no man below 35 years of age will even be eligible for appointment."

"Affords Alibi for Incompetents."

"The civil works program will certainly afford an alibi for the incompetents in the public works administration and will perpetuate the delay and red tape which are holding back and bedeviling the real public works program. The public works crew can now take a long winter's nap, undisturbed by the necessity of issuing statements as to how many hundreds of millions of new projects have been approved and as to why more men are not at work."

Asking why others have not raised these objections, Smith said:

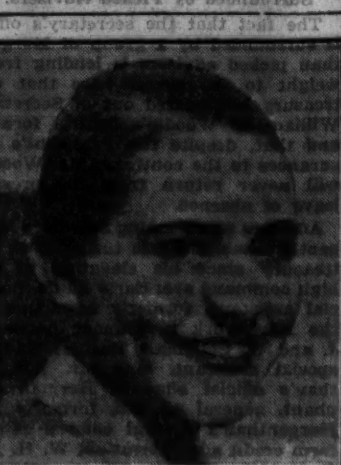

"The answer is very simple. No sane local official who has hung up an empty stocking over the municipal fireplace is going to shoot Santa Claus just before a hard Christmas."

"As long as the gifts are going to be distributed anyway, who will be fool enough not to take his share? Some day we shall find out how much it cost to install Santa Claus in the civil works administration."

Ickes Replies to Attack.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—(AP)—In a statement replying to Alfred E. Smith's criticism of the public works fund, Secretary Ickes, the public works administrator, said today "it is impossible to satisfy any man who is nursing a grudge as the result of disappointed ambition."

"Mr. Smith is permitting his resentment against the administration to run away with his judgment," Ickes added. "He is making another mistake. He is apparently under the illusion that the coining of sarcastic phrases and the hurling of epithets will be misunderstood by sober minded citizens for sound reasoning based upon a careful study of the fact."

"The public works administration has functioned efficiently to date in spite of Mr. Smith and will survive this latest outburst. The civil works administration was a logical development of the public works program. Its conception denoted real statesmanship."

"It was designed to and in fact is taking up the slack in employment that in the nature of things the public works administration could not hope to reach."

"The people understand thoroughly what is the matter with Mr. Smith. Even those who love him and have delighted to follow him in the past feel too deep a pity for him to want to engage in any personal controversy."

Auto Accident Fatal to Burlington Road Inspector

NO INDIA RUBBER DOLLAR EXISTS, BINGHAM INSISTS

Envoy Addresses American Society in London.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.) LONDON, Nov. 30.—Definite assurance that there will be no uncontrolled inflation in the United States was given by Ambassador Robert W. Bingham tonight at the Thanksgiving day dinner of the American Society in London.

The ambassador, in an optimistic vein described the improvement in economic conditions in America under President Roosevelt's administration and vigorously defended the government's monetary and fiscal policies.

Since the era of unbridled speculation and false prosperity ended four years ago America has endured the greatest panic and depression in its history, Mr. Bingham said. But since March 4, he continued, the situation has changed for the better and Americans have acquired new hope and courage.

Points to Achievements.

The banking system has been reorganized, industry revived, and more than 4,000,000 men put back to work, he declared. Moreover, he argued, the situation is steadily progressing. He cited improvements shown in reports for the last three months of great American industrial corporations, including Montgomery Ward & Co. and Sears, Roebuck & Co., in support of his statements.

Outlining in detail Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to overcome the depression, Mr. Bingham recalled the drive in April, 1932, against the gold reserves in the United States treasury and the subsequent abandonment of the gold standard. Both Great Britain and the United States deserted gold in similar circumstances and for the same reason, he said, the only difference being that the United States moved off before its gold reserves were entirely destroyed.

The experiment proved successful in Britain and the Bank of England's gold stocks are now practically the highest in history, he added.

Assails "Rubber Dollar Talk."

The ambassador strongly discounted talk of wild inflation in the United States and attacked the phrase of "India rubber dollar."

"When the pound or franc rises or falls in terms of the dollar," he said, "I never think of the franc as 'India rubber franc,' nor do I think of the pound as an 'India rubber pound.' Likewise I never think of the dollar, and no one has any reason to think of the dollar, as an 'India rubber dollar,' and just as I have no fear of uncontrolled inflation in Great Britain, I also have no fear of uncontrolled inflation in the United States."

Referring to the previous devaluation of the franc and the pound, Mr. Bingham continued:

"Recently the dollar has been devalued to about the extent that the pound was devalued, for the same reasons and for the same purposes, and to practically the same extent, and we hope and believe to the benefit of the United States."

Warns Against "Selling U. S. Short."

"Having seen the results of this policy initiated by France, pursued by Britain, and now current in the United States, we need not be disturbed by the fulminations of that school of prophets who still predict disaster in the face of experience and incontrovertible facts."

"In my judgment there will be sadness ahead for those who sell the United States short."

Mr. Bingham, in his speech, answered British government leaders who have deplored the fact that the United States did not follow the British lead in building small cruisers.

"The United States must utilize the tonnage allocated under the London naval treaty by building fewer ships, but larger ones, because they must be self-contained and able to make long voyages," he said. "Only six-inch guns are mounted on the larger United States cruisers, the same as on the smaller British craft."

Mr. Bingham stressed there is not the slightest cause for uneasiness if the two nations realize each other's needs.

The dinner was a typically American Thanksgiving feast—turkey, cranberry sauce, and pumpkin pie.

AWAITING SENTENCE AFTER CONVICTION ON HOLDUP CHARGE

Waukegan, Ill., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Warren Wookner of Waukegan was awaiting sentence today after his conviction on a charge of holding up and robbing John Sumner, a Stockland, Ill., banker, at Milford in 1931.

Wookner was convicted by an Iroquois county jury yesterday. He was brought to trial after twice escaping from the custody of police, once after his arrest in Florida and again after he was seized in Montana.

The banker testified he was forced into an automobile at Milford by Wookner and a companion at gun point and forced to accompany them to his bank in Stockland. The pair, Sumner said, wanted him to open the bank vault, but, after becoming convinced he was unable to, bound and gagged him and placed him in a deserted schoolroom.

RASKOB DENIES SMITH SOUGH MORGAN LOAN

New York, Nov. 30.—(AP)—John J. Raskob, former Democratic national chairman and one of the financiers of the Empire State building, tonight said arrangements for financing the building were made before former Gov. Alfred E. Smith became connected with the building.

Raskob's statement was issued in connection with the recent utterances of the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit, who last night repeated that Smith rode "with a bishop and other clergymen to the house of Morgan to arrange for a loan for the Empire State building."

"The character and reputation," Raskob's statement said, "of Alfred E. Smith and of J. P. Morgan and his partners need no defense. But the public deserves to have the record straight, and by reason of the lie given to former Gov. Smith's statement by the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin of Detroit, it becomes my duty to issue this simple statement of fact. "Arrangements for financing the erection of the Empire State building were made before ex-Gov. Smith became connected with the building company and he had no part whatever in these financial negotiations."

"At no time were the partners of J. P. Morgan & Co., or any other bank, bankers, or brokers, or others ever approached or consulted, nor were any negotiations ever carried on with them in connection with this financing at that or any other time."

"I hope that with this clear statement of fact before him, Father Coughlin will accord ex-Gov. Smith the apology due him."

3 Killed When Passenger Train Hits Their Auto

Centerville, Ill., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Three persons were killed late today at Centerville, Ill., by a northbound Illinois Central passenger train which struck their motor car at a grade crossing. The victims were Ruby Porter, 17, daughter of Mrs. Mabel Porter of Irvington, Neal Clayburn, 22, son of William Clayburn, also of Irvington, and Thelma Borgs, 12, daughter of R. L. Borgs, Centerville undertaker.

BORAH UPHOLDS ROOSEVELT IDEA, HITS AT WARBURG

Urges Money Plan to Include Silver.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Senator Borah reiterated the monetary debate today to throw his full weight behind the demand for a broader metallic base for currency by the use of silver.

In a letter to James P. Warburg of New York, a former unofficial economic adviser to President Roosevelt, the Idaho radical took issue with Warburg's proposal for a revaluation of the dollar in terms of modernized gold standard. Borah asserted no "sound and efficient" monetary system should leave silver out of the picture.

Warburg had outlined his revaluation plan in accepting a challenge by Borah to critics of Roosevelt's money policy to stop finding fault, unless they had a specific remedy to offer.

Calls Admission Refreshing.
Borah told the New York financier-economist it was "refreshing" to read his "candid admission that the old orthodox system is obsolescent and the whole subject is open to fair discussion."

Borah said he enjoyed seeing a debate of the question without encountering "a deluge of such terms as demagogues, dishonest dollar, cheap dollar, repudiation, communists, crooks and idiots."

But Borah contended Warburg's plan had many "elements of uncertainty" in that it would have to be undertaken in conjunction with Great Britain and the entire "sterling bloc," and effected only after a long period of trial and error.

Clashes British Authorities.

After quoting the governor of the Imperial Bank of India and Sir Henry Detering of Royal Dutch Shell on the importance of silver as a monetary element, Borah added:

"Leaving aside all question as to the proper use to be made of silver in the monetary systems of the world, it seems perfectly evident that no monetary system can in the future be considered sound and efficient which does not restore to millions of people the money which they have used for 3,000 years, which they desire to use, and which they will use if permitted to do so."

"The property loss incurred, the widespread misery entailed, by reason of taking away from 800,000,000 people their only medium of exchange, their method of saving, was a selfish brutal thing, having its origin in that blind greed which often works its own ruin."

Opposes British Pact.

"The entire history of Great Britain in money affairs," Borah said, "the repeated statements of Mr. Chamberlain in the last year and a half, the course which Great Britain has pursued and is now pursuing, the distinct conflict of interests of these two countries in the markets of the world, render remotely practicable any proposition based upon joint action with Great Britain."

"We cannot wait, I venture to say, we will not wait, upon that event."

"One of the great contributing causes to the present depression was the maldistribution of gold," Borah added. "Two nations with about 170,000,000 population were in possession of something over 75 per cent of the gold of the world. I do not see how your plan would remedy that situation in the slightest."

REMOVE PEORIA POSTMASTER FOR CAMPAIGN WORK

Peoria, Ill., Nov. 30.—(Special.)—Louis J. Gauss, Peoria postmaster, has been ordered removed from office "for political activity," according to word received from Washington today. Joseph Jeffries, his assistant, has been appointed acting postmaster until a civil service examination can be held.

It has been understood for some time that an investigation of the Peoria office was under way. One of the charges against Gauss was that he compelled postal employees to wear Republican buttons during the Presidential campaign.

The removal of Gauss is the first of its kind in an important postoffice in Illinois, it is said. Gauss has been prominent in Republican political ranks for many years, having served several terms as county treasurer, county clerk, and central committee man.

No More Piles

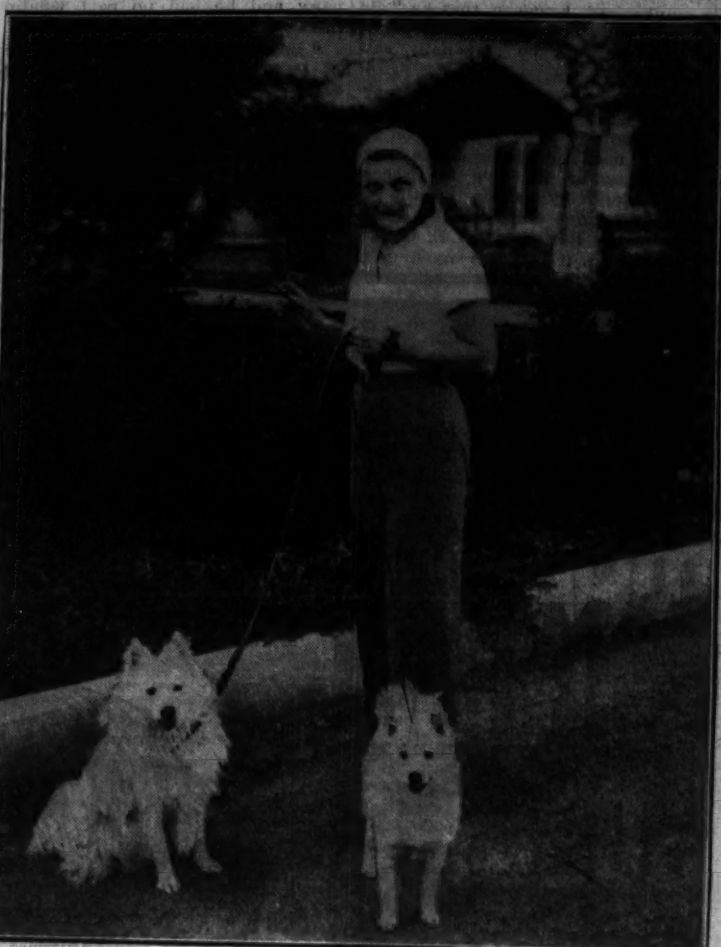

Doctor's Prescription Guaranteed

If you think an operation is always the only way to escape the misery of torturing Piles it's because you haven't heard of the harmless internal medicine discovered by a western physician.

After years of study Dr. J. S. Leonard was convinced that the cause of Piles was internal—circulation of blood in the lower bowel—the hemorrhoidal veins filled with stagnant blood—and that the right and safe way to get freedom from Pile agony was to remove the cause with an internal medicine. Immediately the doctor set to work to find the remedy. He succeeded and called his prescription HEM-ROID.

That every Pile sufferer may benefit by Dr. Leonard's discovery, and so there will be no doubting or delay, Walgreen and all druggists are authorized to guarantee HEM-ROID. No matter what kind of Piles you have, one bottle of HEM-ROID tablets must show you the safe, clean way to get rid of your Pile misery or money back.

Woman's Long Phone Talk Nearly Causes Her Death

An extended conversation on the telephone yesterday came near to causing the death of Mrs. Margaret Rommel, 35 years old, 1900 Lincoln avenue. She had turned on a gas burner on the kitchen stove and was preparing to light it when the telephone bell rang and she hurried to answer. While she was at the phone gas filled the apartment and she was overcome a few minutes later. Neighbors who noticed the odor of the gas summoned the police and firemen. After an hour's work with an inhalator Mrs. Rommel was revived.

ONE OUT OF EIGHT "EASY" DOLLARS GIVEN TO STATES

Other Seven Go to Federal Budget "Saving."

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—(Special.)—Less than one dollar out of eight allotted by Public Works Administrator Harold L. Ickes from the federal easy money fund of 3 billion 300 million dollars has gone to states, cities or private enterprises, an analysis of government records showed today.

Seven dollars out of every eight allocated thus far has gone back into other federal departments, much of it to do work which was supposedly dropped to effect a saving in the government's ordinary budget.

A total of more than 2 billion 500 million dollars out of the 3 billion 300 million dollars has already been doled out by Ickes, his administration revealed today. Of this total only slightly more than 320 million dollars has gone to nonfederal projects.

Lion's Share to Federal Projects.
Just 751 nonfederal projects have been approved by Ickes up to date, his organization announced. Although no more numerous, the federal projects have been tossed larger allotments, walking off with the lion's share of the easy money fund.

Federal projects ranging from insect control to building of a treaty navy have been financed out of the easy money fund. Previously much of this work has been paid for under the regular budget from which it was dropped last spring, in an effort to balance the budget, only to have it reappear under the heading of public works.

Of the nonfederal projects approved, the most numerous are water works developments. One hundred and sixty-seven such projects have

BETTER DAYS COMING, IS ROCKEFELLER SR.'S TURKEY DAY MESSAGE

Tarrytown, N. Y., Nov. 30.—(AP)—John D. Rockefeller Sr., sufficiently recovered from an attack of the gripe to eat a turkey dinner, told the country today that "better days are coming."

"As I stated on my birthday, I have just begun to live," said the 94-year-old capitalist. "Let's not forget that America has always been the land of plenty and opportunity, and that better days are coming. I have always been optimistic. If I have to stay here all winter I will enjoy myself as if I were in Florida."

Rockefeller's thirty year practice of going south for the winter has been deferred thus far owing to his illness.

As directed by his physicians, he passed the day quietly, but he remarked to his son, John D. Rockefeller Jr., that "this is the happiest Thanksgiving I have ever had."

Other relatives who visited him included Nelson, David, Winthrop, and John D. Rockefeller III, and Mrs. David Milten.

The day was marked for Mrs. Milten, the former Abbe Rockefeller, by a fire that destroyed her $5,000 modern chicken house and 140 of her prize fowl. The blaze was attributed to a defective heater.

been passed by Ickes and given an aggregate of almost 43 million dollars.

Where the Money Goes.

A tabulation of all nonfederal projects by types follows:

Character of project	Number	Allotment
Water works	167	$42,924,648
Sewers	140	45,500,245
Streets and highways	128	28,476,216
Schools	101	16,412,692
Other buildings	64	8,853,920
Hospitals	37	5,889,150
Bridges and structures	31	22,823,731
Housing	20	48,812,938
Farms	18	20,907,400
Recreation	7	515,708
Miscellaneous improvements	33	9,175,000
Total	751	$339,248,285

The largest amount of money for nonfederal projects has gone to bridges.

MORGENTHAU HAS HAND PICKED HIS OWN BRAIN TRUST

Treasury Head Surrounded by Six Specialists.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., Nov. 30.—Two weeks after President Roosevelt placed the government's fiscal department in his hands acting Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr., has built up for himself a highly paid vest pocket brain trust to govern federal financial policies.

Bringing with him into office six special advisers, acting Secretary Morgenthau now has answering his buzzer calls a specialist in each of the treasury's fields: taxation; banking; finance; law; administration; and money.

Surrounded by Picked Advisers.

The fact that the secretary's office is surrounded by a group of Morgenthau picked advisers is lending fresh weight to the rumor here that the treasury has passed out of Secretary William H. Woodin's control forever and that, despite the President's assurances to the contrary, Mr. Woodin will never return from his present leave of absence.

Advisers whom acting Secretary Morgenthau has added to the staff of the treasury since his elevation to the high command are: Earle Balle, financial assistant, formerly a partner in the New York investment house of J. and W. Seligman; Herbert Gaston, special assistant, long Mr. Morgenthau's official shadow; Herman Oliphant, general counsel, formerly Mr. Morgenthau's general counsel at the farm credit administration; W. H. McReynolds, administrative assistant, previously in a similar position at the farm credit administration; Tom K. Smith, banking adviser, personal friend of Mr. Morgenthau and president of a St. Louis bank; and Roswell Magill, tax adviser, professor at Columbia university.

Costing almost $40,000 a year in salaries alone, this new brain trust has been superimposed on the treasury's old organization, in many instances duplicating duties already cared for. It is rumored, however, that acting Secretary Morgenthau soon will start weeding out members of the old treasury personnel, leaving his new men in charge.

His monetary advisers, Prof. George F. Warren and Prof. James Harvey Rogers, Mr. Morgenthau has not given official positions in his secretariat. Unable or unwilling to leave their classrooms, they drift in and out of his office during recesses from their professional duties. Telephone conferences supplement their calls.

The new treasury head keeps his advisers close at hand. At a recent press conference he had himself flanked by Mr. Smith, Mr. Gaston, and another special assistant on press relations.

ILLINOIS NEARS DEC. 1 JOB GOAL OF ROOSEVELT

Cook County Total Passes
65,000 Next Week.

Today, the deadline set by President Roosevelt for the employment of at least one-half of the 4,000,000 men scheduled for jobs under the Civil Works Administration, finds Illinois and many other states lagging in the program, but with prospects for a speeding up of the rate of reemployment within the next few days.

The CWA offices in Chicago were closed during yesterday's holiday, but officials declared that Cook county would go over its 50 per cent employment quota by the first of next week. The county's quota of jobs is 32,500, half of which are to be filled by men on relief rolls and the other half by men without reference to their relief status.

Under the President's ruling at least 49,530 men in Cook county should have been working today. The records show 26,340 employed thus far. Delays have been caused by the lack of availability of the projects presented for approval, many calling for expenditures for materials and supplies which the administration has deemed excessive.

65,707 Total in Sight.
However, formal approval of city and county projects which will add 39,367 more men to the ranks of the employed has been announced. These men should go quickly to work, making a total of 65,707 working by the middle of next week.

When the county reemployment figure passes the mark of 49,530, selection of men from the registration list drawn up under the direction of Victor A. Glendon, member of the CWA, will be begun. These lists contain the names of thousands of men who have been on relief, but the majority of the names are of those who have succeeded in supporting themselves without seeking for public charity.

The registration cards do not show whether the applicant has been receiving relief or not, and the jobs will be filled without any reference whatever to the relief status of the applicant.

Lack of Job Only Condition.
"The purpose of the entire program, as outlined by the President, is to relieve unemployment and not poverty," pointed out R. J. Dunham, state administrator. "The only requirements needed by an applicant are that he be out of a job and able and willing to work."

The CWA program was proceeding somewhat slowly in Cook county until the administration adopted the policy of splitting the cost of materials for a project when that cost was not more than one-fourth of the entire cost. This meant that if a project involved the expenditure of $1,000,000 and the cost of materials did not exceed $250,000 the CWA would pay half the cost of materials, or $125,000. In this instance, with the municipality preferring the project paying the other $125,000.

There remained uncertainty yesterday whether 4,000,000 jobs throughout the nation can be created and filled by Dec. 15 as desired by President Roosevelt. Illinois, outside of Cook county, has 87,740 jobs to fill. Accurate figures were not available as to the number employed to date, but downtown has not progressed more rapidly than Cook county, it was learned. It was predicted, however, that the state's entire quota of 187,000 jobs would be filled by Jan. 1.

A DENTIST HAS A FALLING OUT WITH NEIGHBORS

Cordial relations between Dr. M. J. Litt, a dentist, and three members of the Sager Oil company came to an abrupt end yesterday.

The dentist and the Sager concern share a lease on a suite of offices at 2023 East 58th street. The reception room was shared in common. All went well until yesterday morning, when Dr. Litt discovered a number of cigar stubs and quite a few bottles in the reception room. He called Jacob Sager, 62 years old, and protested that he believed Sager's sons, Edward and Robert, had been celebrating too earnestly.

A little later there was a call on the part of the three Sagers. One word led to another and finally to action. The dentist was chased into his inner office. His door was smashed and some of his dental equipment was broken. Jacob and Edward Sager were arrested on charges of malicious mischief and Robert is being sought.

BRITAIN EXTENDS DOLE; PRESENTS BILL TO HOUSE

May Aid Those Who Never Have Worked.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, Nov. 30.—The British government's new unemployment insurance bill, with its far reaching extensions of the dole, was introduced in the house of commons tonight by Sir Henry Betterton, minister of labor.

He announced for the first time details of the measure in which the state acknowledges full responsibility for all able bodied industrial unemployed.

Betterton declared the bill is divided in two parts. The first deals with insurance against unemployment, which is known as the dole. The second deals with financial assistance which is to be given to the persons who never have had work, or to those whose rights to the dole have expired through prolonged unemployment.

Modifies Present Provisions.
In the latter case, the labor minister announced a scheme modifying the present provisions of the unemployment scheme. Heretofore, no unemployed worker has been allowed to draw a dole for longer than 26 weeks. Under the present bill, he will be permitted to receive assistance for 52 weeks provided he made at least 20 weekly contributions to the insurance fund over a period of two years.

This is possible, Betterton asserted, because the unemployment insurance fund is $42,500,000 to the good for the year.

Dealing with the first part of the measure, the minister declared a royal committee would be created to watch the unemployment insurance fund to make sure it did not go into the red. The committee will report to both houses of parliament annually. Juveniles will be admitted to the insurance scheme at 14 years of age when they are no longer compelled by law to attend school. They will be eligible for the dole at 16 years instead of 18 as formerly.

Provides Training Centers.
Juveniles unemployed will be compelled to attend training centers. These will be financed by local education authorities who will provide 25 per cent of the cost. The remainder of the fund will be supplied by the government and the unemployment insurance fund on a 50-50 basis.

Betterton declared the second part of the bill is based on three principles. Assistance for uninsured idle will be proportionate. This means the unemployed in such circumstances may be given aid in goods rather than in cash. In the second place, the state accepts responsibility for all unemployed industrial workers.

The third provision is an important qualification, for it leaves out agricultural, domestic, and "lower class" white collared workers who so far have had no recourse when they lost their jobs.

The house will debate the bill Monday and Tuesday.

On Way to Game

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Billy Rockne, 19, son of the late Knute Rockne of Notre Dame, suffered severe lacerations about the head in an automobile accident here today en route to Lawrence, Kas., to attend the Missouri-Kansas football game.

A student at St. Benedict's college at Atchison, Kas., Billy came here to accompany Dr. D. M. Nikro, Kansas City physician and friend of the Rockne family, to the game. After being treated, the youth went on to Lawrence to see the game with his mother, a guest of honor at the contest. Dr. Nikro suffered minor bruises. Their car crashed into a curb to avoid striking another vehicle.

SANITARY BOARD VOTES BONDS FOR U. S. LOAN TODAY

Issue of $23,000,000 to Be Authorized.

The issuance of $23,000,000 worth of bonds will be authorized by ordinance at a special meeting of the sanitary district trustees this afternoon. The bonds will be used to secure federal loan money for the building of sewage disposal plants in Chicago.

Officials of the district expressed a confidence yesterday that the public works administration would allocate $12,500,000, in addition to $9,000,000 already allotted, to finance the sewage treatment program for the next two years. The optimism was the result of a statement Wednesday by President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga., in which he stressed the need for helping out the district.

Aims to Speed Sewerway Pact.
The President stated that the construction should be carried on as rapidly as possible to pave the way for ratification of the St. Lawrence sewerway treaty. One of the terms of the treaty, which follows the mandate of the United States Supreme court, is that the diversion of water from the Michigan at Chicago shall be reduced to 1,500 cubic feet per second by the end of 1938. To meet this requirement the costly treatment program, placing sewage under artificial disposal, is necessary.

The application of $23,000,000 in pending before Public Works Administration in Washington. The issuance of the $23,000,000 in bonds will be authorized in order to have the securities ready for purchase by the federal government. These bonds will cover the cost of completing the combined west-southwest sewer treatment works at Stickney.

Cost Reduced $10,000,000.
The combining of the two plants was a result of experimentation in incineration of sludge when Mayor Kelly was chief engineer of the district. The experiments reduced the cost of the sewage disposal program by $10,000,000.

Lawrence Penlon, senior assistant attorney for the district, said that the trustees were waiting word from the contractors in connection with the $1,000,000 federal loan. The contractors, who started work and then halted it when funds were exhausted in February of 1932, are conferring with their attorneys and surety companies on new agreements.

Get Out the GIFT LIST

Here Are the Ideas That Well Thought Out Lists Are Made Of

Socks 50c a pair—
A price that is very easy on the budget—but whoever gets socks like these would never suspect it.

Genuine morocco leather—er trims the collar of the kidskin slipper on the left. Turned soles, leather heels and leather lined—black, brown, blue, green, wine. $3.45 pair.

Belt and Buckle Sets—$2.
With all the talk about braces, we are not forgetting that men are still gridding their loins with leather belts. The sets featured here have belts of sturdy, well-tanned cowhide set off with initialed buckles. Sets come packed in a metal box that will come in handy later for cigarettes.

Handkerchiefs—3 for $1 Put these down several times. We haven't seen their equal in pomp or quality at this price. Colored border in several different patterns.

Suede Jackets—$9.75.
That go in for special sports or general knock-about wear. It has slash pockets and adjustable cuff and waist-band straps to keep out the wind. Another improvement is the trim leather collar.

Leather signet Braces—$1. The gentleman who is going to appreciate leather braces like these most is he who has a knack and the taste for collecting practical and good-looking accessories.

High Hat Jewelry—$2 Set. The set consists of tie clasp and collar pin. In about eight different styles. Sets come packed in a new idea in gift boxes. A box that looks like a miniature top hat.

Flannel Robes—$12.50. If the idea of panicking some one with the gift you give him appeals to you, then don't pass up anything as smart looking as one of these well-tailored, full-cut robes, with notched and shawl collars, double breasted, large buttons, plain collars with contrasting trim or contrasting piping.

Satin Ties $1
We advise staying away from "Christmas ties" and stick to the type of neckwear that men are in the habit of wearing. These of satin fall in that category, and the patterns—serpentine effects, allover designs and Paisley patterns—are on the not too brilliant grounds that men do not on. $1.

Monogrammed White Broadcloth SHIRTS—3 for $5.50
We've got to get this monogramming business off our chests before it is too late, and so do you, for that matter, if you expect to give him shirts that will convey the idea that you really gave them some very personal and well thought out attention. Monogramming is done without charge. As to the shirts, they come with collar attached.

LET SALE TAX CUT PROPERTY LEVY, HORNER INSISTS

Replies to Plea to Divert Money to Schools.

Gov. Horner yesterday expressed himself as being in sympathy with the endeavor of the Chicago school board to balance its budget. He said he was trying to find means of raising revenue for the board which might warrant inclusion of the subject in a call for a third special session of the legislature.

But in answer to the suggestion of the school trustees that after Jan. 1 the revenue from the 2 per cent sales tax be diverted wholly to the common school fund, the governor reiterated his previous policy of having that revenue abate a portion of the state property tax, thus giving a measure of relief to real estate.

Recalls Message to Assembly

In this connection he called attention to his message to the general assembly on Oct. 3, in which he said: "It has been suggested by some that the retailers' occupation tax act (sales tax) be amended so that the proceeds will continue to be used for unemployment relief until July 1, 1934. Instead of being applied in reduction of property taxes after Jan. 1. I cannot approve of this suggestion. I am vitally interested in reducing the excessive burden of taxation now resting on real estate. As the retailers' occupational tax act provides now, all or a very large portion of the state property tax after Jan. 1 may be abated. "This will mean a reduction in the total tax load on property. In connection with this suggestion, it should also be remembered that many members of the general assembly from districts where the relief problem was less acute favored this legislation and voted for it, mainly because of the property tax relief component feature. I think this provision should not be changed."

Officials of the county also are considering a request for state aid. County commissioners are expected to give consideration on Monday to the question of whether to seek an increase in the maximum county tax rate or to ask for a state loan to help meet bond charges.

Estimate of School Revenue.

Howard P. Savage, business manager of the school system, has estimated 1934 appropriations at $73,642,878, but Trustee Charles Fry has stated that unless $10,000,000 in new revenue is obtained the board will have to take measures that "won't be popular." A table comparing 1933 appropriations with estimates of appropriations for 1934 follows:

Charge Jacobs Disregards 1931 Assessment Reductions

Property owners who received reductions in 1931 assessments from the board of tax appeals were cautioned yesterday in an announcement by the board that not in all cases is the 25 per cent slash in 1932 assessments promised by County Assessor Jacobus being figured from the board's 1931 adjustment.

In a number of cases, according to the tax appeal board, the assessor is ignoring the reductions granted by the board in 1931 assessments. This, it was said, means that 1931 and 1932 tax bills of such persons by present indications will be about the same. In his policy of ignoring the action of the board of appeals on 1931 assessments, Jacobus was charged with attempting to usurp the board's functions.

Revises Errors, Jacobs Says. "The accusation is not true," declared Mr. Jacobus when informed of the charge. "The 1932 assessment roll is a separate one from any other year and the 25 per cent cut was figured from the 1931 assessments of either the assessor or the board of appeals when they were found to be correct."

Where the board of appeals made a revision and we rechecked and found the assessment correct, that figure was used for application of the cut. However, over and under valuations were found in both the assessor's and the board of appeals' 1931 assessments and these were corrected before the 25 per cent cut was applied. The assessor is only revising where errors are found."

Lunch rooms	119,300	98,000
Special funds	21,830	24,000
Totals	$71,549,701	$73,642,379

However, the board has not expended all of the amounts appropriated for the current year. It has been estimated that the expenditures from the educational fund will total only $40,835,495, for instance, and from the building fund only $2,544,934.

Count on Liquor Revenue.

The city's financial position is considered as being somewhat different from that of the schools and county because of additional revenue to be obtained from the licensing of liquor sales. City Controller Upham has sent to the city council an estimate of 1934 appropriations totaling $45,127,895 for which he anticipated revenue of only $42,370,027. He said, however, that he had not considered additional revenue from liquor license fees in his estimate.

The controller's estimates reveal that once again the municipal court is opposing a salary cut of 75 days' pay; such as is being applied to other city employees. The court's request of $2,450,544 for 1934 for Chief Justice Sonsteyn and his associates, Clerk Gill and Bailiff Horan, is $466,355 higher than the council appropriated for those offices in 1933. The difference represents approximately the amount of 75 day's wage reduction.

The associate judges of the court resorted to legal means to have their

1935.	16,415	8,483	10,415	7,813

In each case, the board members asserted, the assessor in compiling 1932 assessments, disregarded the reductions allowed so that these property owners will not receive the full benefit of the 25 per cent slash. In granting the reductions the board members said they were motivated by efforts to effect equalities and adjust errors.

See Danger of Losing Reduction.

Tax bills for 1931 were determined on the final figure as set by the board of appeals. If no further appeal is taken on the final 1932 compilation of Jacobus, the 1932 bills in the five instances listed will be about the same as those of 1931, it was pointed out.

Property owners whose situation is similar to that of those listed will be arbitrarily deprived of full benefit of the 25 per cent reduction, members of the board of appeals declared. The only recourse was held to be further appeal.

1933 salaries paid in full. This was done until Nov. 13, when their salary account was exhausted. Deputy bailiffs of the court have sued for salary payment still due them, and the deputy clerks are ready to sue, according to information given to the council by Corporation Counsel Sexton.

Because of the redemption of outstanding tax warrants and the fact that 1932 and 1933 warrants are outstanding in relatively small amounts, the controller has reduced charges for interest on warrants from $2,549,200 in 1933 to $1,050,000 for next year. Cuts of nearly $2,000,000 were made in appropriations to the department of public works, the largest reduction being made in the street and alley cleaning account.

Police Begin Inquiry Into Death of Hotel Guest

An investigation into the death of a guest at the Seventh Street hotel, 1 East Balbo avenue, was begun last night by the coroner's office and police. The victim had registered at the hotel Tuesday as E. J. Frost of Grand Rapids, Mich., but cards and letters in his clothing indicate he may have been E. J. Borg, 1046 2d street, Muskegon. The body was discovered by Alfred Phillips, manager of the hotel, who broke into the room. Some tablets and a bottle that may have contained poison were found in the room.

HYPOCRISY! CRIES DUKE OF ATHOLL ON LOTTERY LAWS

Attacks Government in House of Lords.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] LONDON, Nov. 30.—The duke of Atholl tonight led a lively attack in the house of lords on the British government's anti-lottery laws. The dukes of Southdown and Montrose joined the attack and urged the government to amend the laws to permit lotteries for the benefit of charities, hospitals, or the national treasury.

Both the duke of Atholl and the duke of Montrose have been heavily fined for conducting lotteries.

Calls Laws Unjust.

The duke of Atholl condemned the present laws as unjust and hypocritical. He asserted they made Britain the "laughing stock of the world." They distinguish between the rich and the poor, he continued, making it possible for the rich to bet by check, but forbidding the poor to bet in cash. They forbid ambitious efforts on behalf of charity while winking at the garbage men's Christmas draw, he declared.

The duke said he understands the official attitude is entire disapproval of gambling; yet, he argued, certain forms of gambling are legalized and the government even draws a revenue from race course pari-mutuels. "Sweepstakes are going on everywhere, both here and abroad—particularly the latter," he said. "Millions of sterling are being taken from this country, some part of which finds its way into the hands of those openly disloyal to king and empire."

Attacks Free State.

He referred to the Irish Free State again when he declared that "the British bulldog has not merely failed

REVOLT SPREADS OVER LONG'S ELECTION COUP IN CONGRESS CONTEST

Baton Rouge, La., Nov. 30.—(AP)—The open revolt against the attempt of Gov. O. K. Allen and Senator Huey P. Long to "elect" their Sixth district congressional candidate by eliminating the primary election spread quickly today. Five parishes in the district announced they would not pay officers to serve in the "general election" next Tuesday.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Molyneux E. Kemp, designated as the Democratic candidate to succeed her husband, the late Congressman Kemp, was quoted as saying her decision had been "communicated to the proper authorities."

Amos L. Ponder of Amite, chairman of the Sixth district Democratic executive committee, when reached by telephone, said she had not communicated with him, and Secretary of State E. A. Conway and Gov. Allen said they knew nothing of it.

An injunction was secured to prevent the printing of Mrs. Kemp's name on the ballot, and a citizens' primary election is called for Dec. 27 to nominate a Democratic candidate.

to defend his own kennel; he has meekly handed over his bone at the bark of the Irish wolfhound."

The duke of Montrose warned that if the government intends to wipe out lotteries completely, "we shall come to the same crash as another country did in trying to prohibit a little refreshment. The more you break the law the bigger hero you will be."

Opposition to the dukes came from two high church dignitaries, the archbishop of Canterbury and the bishop of Winchester. The former insisted that gambling, in its present dimensions, is one of the greatest social evils. Moreover, he added, legalization of sweepstakes would mean drying up the stream of voluntary charity on which hospitals depend.

The earl of Lucan, replying to the duke's attack, said the government policy has not yet been formulated, but that no time will be lost in considering the report of the commission on lotteries and submitting proposals for legislation.

ADMONISH JURY IN SCOTTSBORO CASE TO BE SURE

Locked Up for the Night After Third Trial.

Decatur, Ala., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Admonished to "consider only the evidence" in reaching a verdict, twelve Morgan county citizens tonight held the fate of Heywood Patterson, one of seven Negroes in the "Scottsboro case," tried on charges of attacking a white woman.

The jury retired at 3 p. m. and was locked up for the night after failing to reach a verdict by 4 p. m.

It was the third time the Negro had kept watch while twelve men deliberated on evidence for and against him on a charge which he denied vigorously from the witness stand.

Prepare to Try Another Case.

And while that jury deliberated in Patterson's case, a new jury was being qualified in the courtroom, to sit in judgment on Clarence Norris, who also is charged with participating in an alleged mass attack on Mrs. Victoria Price and her companion, Ruby Bates, aboard a Southern railway freight train in Jackson county in March, 1931.

In a lengthy charge, which took nearly an hour and a half, Judge W. W. Callahan went into the law governing the case, defining the crime and covering the weighing of evidence.

"You must be convinced beyond a reasonable doubt of the guilt of this defendant," said Judge Callahan, "or should return a verdict of acquittal. If, however, you are convinced beyond a reasonable doubt, your verdict should be one of guilty."

Death or Life Imprisonment.

The jurist instructed that in event of a verdict of guilty, the jury could fix the punishment at death, or from ten years' imprisonment to life.

After he had completed his charge Judge Callahan held the jury for a few minutes to add to his charge, as Samuel S. Ledwith, chief of defense counsel retained by the International Labor Defense, called his attention to omission of the form of a verdict for acquittal. The jury then retired.

Patterson and the other Negroes were tried at Scottsboro in 1931 and all received death sentences, which were set aside by the United States Supreme court. Under a change of venue to Morgan county, Patterson was tried here a second time last spring, again found guilty and again sentenced to death. This sentence was later set aside by the trial judge.

Serat James Allegretti of the county highway police said Bielby apparently was killed by the car of a hit-run motorist. It was learned that Bielby frequently took walks around that vicinity, which is a half mile from his home.

Rufus Higgins, 33 years old, 905 South Taylor avenue, Oak Park, an employe in the mailing room of The Tribune, was severely injured yesterday when his automobile crashed into a street car in front of 5100 West Harrison street.

His death increased to 1,007 the number of automobile fatalities in Cook county since Jan. 1.

Joseph Bielby, 36 years old, a resident of Lyons township, a retired farmer, was found dead last night at Joliet and Wolf roads, Lyons township. Serat James Allegretti of the county highway police said Bielby apparently was killed by the car of a hit-run motorist. It was learned that Bielby frequently took walks around that vicinity, which is a half mile from his home.

A $300,000,000 Interest in Chicago's Welfare

The Commonwealth Edison Company has more than a three hundred million dollar interest in Chicago.

That is the amount of money actually invested in plants, distribution lines and equipment by stockholders and bondholders, most of whom are residents of this community.

That is one of the important reasons why the Commonwealth Edison Company, as a public servant, taxpayer and corporate citizen is a vital and constructive factor in the life of the community and state in which it operates.

Financed and built by Chicagoans, operated and managed by Chicagoans, it is one of the largest industrial enterprises and one of the largest taxpayers in the state, county and city.

"Pin-it-up" lamp in handcrafted black wrought iron and rich toned parchment shade affords new convenience and decoration for home and office

Price only $145

The amazing "Pin-it-up" lamp fills many needs in home and office.

How often have you longed for an extra lamp or two to light places where lighting fixtures and ordinary lamps do not reach? Over a bed, near a reading chair, to serve a bridge table and in dozens of other locations.

Now your problem is solved. Get one of these new and inexpensive "Pin-it-up" lamps.

In fact you need several to take care of all the out-of-the-way locations in your home.

The "Pin-it-up" portable wall lamp is new and as original in design as in application. Made of handcrafted wrought iron and has a rich (10-inch) neutral-toned parchment shade of quality and beauty.

A small hole in back of the lamp bracket supports it on the metal head of a "Pin-it-up" push pin. This needlepoint pin (two furnished with every lamp) can be pushed easily

LATIN AMERICA SEEKS NEW DEAL ON DEBTS TO U. S.

Issue Casts Shadow Over Montevideo Parley.

(Copyright, 1933, by the New York Times.)
MONTevideo, Nov. 30.—Latin American debtors to United States investors are casting a shadow of discord over the outwardly harmonious feeling of the delegations arriving for the opening of the Pan-American conference Sunday.

Jose Manuel Garmendia, Mexican foreign minister, is reported to be on the introduction of this item into the agenda, provided he sees a fair chance of getting the support of the necessary two-thirds of the delegation to adopt the amended agenda on the floor.

May Defeat U. S. Desires.
Recent declaration in Buenos Aires favoring Pan-American action on public debts are receiving open support, and it is considered possible that the obvious desire of the United States delegation to quit such discussions may be defeated. The Latin-American point of view apparently is that it would be no stigma to have a majority of the conference recommend that governmental debts be settled on the basis of capacity to pay, whereas a single country might hesitate to advance such a thesis.

It is considered certain that the United States delegation will oppose introduction of the debt topic in any manner likely to lead to decisive action, although it would not oppose informal discussion of the question in committee as part of the whole economic picture.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull privately told the Mexican foreign minister on his recent visit to Washington that an American delegation was not able to deal with the debt question, since the obligations were wholly in private hands.

Seek to Avoid Complications.
As the unofficial foreign security committee is just getting under way in Washington in the consideration of the possibilities of action by individuals, the United States delegates here are all the more anxious to avoid complicating such negotiations by possibly premature action at the Pan-American conference.

Another question before the conference will be the war in the Gran Chaco between Bolivia and Paraguay. The Mexican delegation today issued a statement asking for a truce in the Chaco for the duration of the conference. Foreign Minister Cárdenas To-cornal of Chile, who is on his way here, has expressed a similar sentiment, and the Brazilians are believed to be contemplating a like expression. Mr. Hull attended a Thanksgiving dinner given by the American association of Uruguay tonight. He said he did not feel homesick, since his good neighbors of this hemisphere had been so cordial.

Sees Better Understanding.
"The friendly atmosphere suggests that we Americans, with common interests, are indeed growing closer together in many forms of cooperation and understanding," he continued.
J. Butler Wright, American minister to Uruguay, entertained the American delegation last night. Mr. Hull has suggested to the conference secretariat the avoidance of social functions in order to save time and also money.

DATA ON FARM MAKES EXPERT "A POOR DEVIL"

Pasadena, Cal., Nov. 30.—(AP)—He knew agricultural statistics from alfalfa to zea maize and could tell the condition of the wheat crop in every county in Kansas, how much cotton any state produced in recent years, and the answer to most any other crop question, but as to his own name, all he knew was "poor devil."

After spending several days at the police station as an amnesia victim, Stockton Harry Boon found himself when, in looking through a stack of old magazines he ran across a picture showing him on the job as a statistician of the United States department of agriculture at Washington, D. C.

Boon then remembered that he had a brother, Maj. Ben Boon of the United States marines at San Diego, and yesterday he was given into the major's custody and placed under the care of a psychiatrist.

Monday he walked into the police station here, his clothes attracting considerable attention, being white duck trousers and a woolen shirt, with the only article of apparel fitting him being a hat with a Washington, D. C., label.

Asked his name, he inscribed "Poor Devil."

Jewels Pledged to Saints Are Stolen from Church

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 30.—(AP)—It was a sad Thanksgiving day for the parishioners of St. Anthony's Roman Catholic church when they learned today that the gold and jewels pledged to favorite saints had been stolen from the statues in the church during the night. The jewels were valued at $2,000.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

DISORDERS UNDER NRA

Operations at the Chicago stockyards were tied up by strikers obstructing or preventing the unloading of live stock. The blockade of delivery caused great disorder and there was some violence. The regional labor board of the NRA and the Washington end of it undertook conciliation and at this writing a working agreement prevails, with a wage increase, pending further negotiations.

The concurrence of strikes with the spread of the NRA codes has required considerable explanation because of the inconsistency of the thing. The charter of labor liberties has been provocative of disturbances, an indication of cause and effect. The same is true of the AAA charter of agricultural liberties. By one interpretation of these charters they contain privileges overriding private rights in property and the control of it. The inference that such is the case cannot be dismissed as extraordinary or absurd. It has been pretty well documented in Washington.

Doctrines as expounded point to the undesirable of private control and operation of business enterprise. The codes lay down specific rules supposed to be definite and conclusive but apparently permit the extension of the idea that whatever private enterprise is doing it is indefensible. Much of the Washington philosophy permits this conclusion and it is not strange that individuals there upon take matters in their own hands when results under a code or agreement do not satisfy them. The disturbers in all parts of the country expect assistance and not repression from the federal government. They seize property as a right. The government has maneuvered itself into precisely the spot the directors of the Third Internationale would have moved if they had been able under cover to direct proceedings.

Until this year hopes of recovery were founded upon the ability of individual activities to keep their feet in spite of the current they were breast ing and to make their way back to security. No one knows what these hopes would have amounted to except as the evidence of other periods of hard times is taken, and the philosophers now deny the applicability of this evidence on the theory that there never were times such as these, which has been the assumption in all other times, good or bad.

Until this year it was supposed that employers and employees were equally hard hit. Both faced a common enemy and were trying to get the better of it and avoid ruin. The change of opinion separates the two. They are not supposed to have common cause but opposing causes. The employer is legislated against. At the best which can be said for him he is a failure; taking another step in the judgment against him, he is an antiquated failure. He may also be called a chiseler. He is called a chiseler. He has come to represent something which the employee does not represent. Two orders are now supposed to be arrayed against each other. The Third Internationale might note with satisfaction that a class feeling is arising where no class feeling existed. The first need in a war for the destruction of classes is the creation of them if they do not exist.

When such ideas have been substituted for old ones there is an explanation for the disorders against property and terms of employment. On one side there is an encouraged distrust of methods which have prevailed in the past and distrust not only of them but of the men who have private direction of industry, of them and of their purposes and intentions. Washington guarantees a good deal of this distrust. Consequently in the wake of the NRA and the AAA come disorders to force compliance with demands in line with various code theories but outside the code provisions. A new enemy has been created. Private direction of private property is barely within the law if it is not entirely outside of it.

A LITTLE BACON, HON. LEWIS

Senator James Hamilton Lewis is Illinois' favorite aurora borealis of progress, hyperbole, and apostrophe. When he addresses himself to a subject it is addressed. When he points with pride, pride has something to be proud of, and when he views with alarm an ickle is run up and down the listener's back. When he defends a thing it's been defended, even when it is the NRA.

Senator Lewis, beginning with a speech in Chicago, is now touring the middle west in behalf of the New Deal in all its phases. He will do his cause good because he will be so cogent in what he says that he can be understood and so devastatingly unanswerable in what he says that can't be understood. Opposition will give up the job of rebuttal, at least in his presence. These compliments to the senator's living eloquence are sincere, although doubt is reserved as to the cause for which he speaks, but the senator, although an idealist, an altruist, and an exponent of the higher good, is also a practical man of politics and general affairs. He knows that money also talks. Although his broadest constituency may be humanity, his particular electorate is the state of Illinois. He will examine the value of this state in the books of federal recovery and relief at Washington he will find that Illinois is somewhere in the Oliver Twist class. It is always asking for more and isn't getting it. Its position is so singular that it may be regarded as the neglected waif of the American family. At the Thanksgiving dinner it is told to wait for the second table, and the chances are there'll be no second table. Other states seem to have the able representation which gets them what they want. If they want to grow geraniums in the desert Washington agrees that the idea is a good one. Senator Lewis is so persuasive that his fellow citizens must conclude he has merely overlooked the plight of his own constituents. When it is called to his attention that the Illinois case is one of everything going out and nothing coming in he will attend to the matter at once.

TWO ILLINOIS RIVER BARGE LINES.

It is gratifying to learn that already two private barge lines are preparing for operations on the Illinois waterway. One company contemplates using carriers of 800 tons capacity and the other 700 ton units. Contracts for the construction of the smaller vessels call for their completion before Feb. 15 when the line will go into operation between Chicago, St. Louis and intermediate points.

Here is unmistakable evidence that experienced men are willing to risk their own—not the government's—money in providing transportation on the new route. It is evidence that the estimates of the usefulness of the waterway were not overly optimistic. It demonstrates the truth of the assertion often made in these columns that the completion of the waterway would be the signal for the investment of capital first in barges and towboats and later in warehouses and railway and highway connections.

Business men may be counted upon to take prompt advantage of the opportunities for savings on existing traffic. It is perhaps more important for them to study the possibilities of developing wholly new business as a result of the lowered costs. They can now reach out into new markets for sales and supplies. New industries should spring up at many places along the route to take advantage of the new transportation.

FOOTBALL COACHES.

Jackson Cannell, Dartmouth coach, resigned three days after the game at Stagg field. The score, thirty-nine to nothing, was explained by the withdrawal of the person upon whom responsibility for defeat will be placed by college loyalists, especially by alumni loyalists. Something might be done with the suggestion that as a season postscript a team of the losing coaches play one of winning coaches. The game might ease off the situation and also discover whether the coaches can take it. On this side Mr. Kipke, on that side Mr. Hanley. It would make a nice Thanksgiving game and it might relieve the strain in alumni circles, where, with no such innocent holiday in prospect, a Roman holiday of head chopping is demanded.

Half the coaches in the country finish the season with the uncertain tenure of a Latin-American provisional president largely because a freshman prospect did not become Benny Friedman or Red Grange.

A better thing might be to rotate the coaches in a conference, starting the rotation by lot. A better thing might be to banish them from the college game and confine them to the preparatory schools and the freshman class, where the future players would be taught the fundamentals and go on their own in intercollegiate play. It's by no means certain that the quality of play would suffer and the alumni might be able to devote more of their time to the bond business.

ANOTHER INTERNATIONAL DEBT.

THE TRIBUNE on several occasions has pointed out that one of the responsibilities our government must assume in entering upon diplomatic relations with the soviet government is for increasing the prestige and influence of communist mischief makers in our own and other countries. It is advantageous to us that conditions be stabilized in disturbed regions of the world, as all our home grown intelligentsia who have urged soviet recognition insist, recognition will not contribute to it. We have predicted that communist propaganda would at once exploit recognition, and it has promptly verified the prediction. Comissar Meshlank, economic expert, writes in the official journal of the communist party that President Roosevelt has been influenced by the professors and engineers who have visited the communist Utopia and he declares that "In 1933, the 16th year of the soviet power, the largest and leading capitalist country in the world, the United States, can find no other way out of the mire of depression except to plant in its capitalist evil economic methods developed by the communist system."

The commissar does not think our borrowings of communist methods will pay out very well because they have not been preceded by a proletarian revolution, but imitation is, after all, the truest flattery, and the smile of Litvinov as he left our shores, with recognition in his pocket, to say nothing of pleasant recollections of his warm welcome at the White House, we are confident is reflected in the countenance of every loyal communist in Russia or elsewhere.

CHICAGO REPEATS NEXT SUMMER.

(Detroit News.)

The expected action continuing A Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago through another summer, beginning June 1, 1934, renews the emphasis upon the enterprise which successfully staged a World's Fair this year. New attractions both frivolous and serious are to be added. Naturally a continuance of the flow of visitors and their money into Chicago is wanted. The extension of the opportunity to visualize the story of 100 years of progress will be welcomed by many non-Chicagoans who could not go this season or would like to go again. Having earned a first success, Chicago is entitled to a second.

Without a doubt the pretension will mean more tributes to the group of Chicago go-getters, headed by Rufus Dawes, whose private enterprises dared the obstacles and created the Fair. To witness longer the advantages won in a critical time for Chicago by its generous citizens should be wholesome. It is in like spirit that Detroit and Detroiters must face their situation and forge on into a bright future. Much is heard now of the rise of political and economic theories that will subdue exceptional individuals and individualism in the business and social life of the country. This vivid instance speaks up effectively for the results possible through private and individual effort, that bring about community benefits.

It is a convincing argument for retaining, as changes occur, room for the play of individual and privately directed enterprises.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

CHRISTMAS DAY, Dec. 25th, will soon be here and we ought to send appropriate messages, as we do on Christmas day, New Year's day, Mother's day, Father's day, Uncle Bill's day, Aunt Laura's day, and so on. On those days the telegraph companies help us out by furnishing us a code of tender and appropriate messages, each one numbered. All we have to do is to telegraph the number of the message which best expresses our sentiments, and the one we send it to, also having code, turns it to it and sheds happy tears as he reads our gracious greetings. And it's much cheaper to send a number, which is only one word, than it is a long message. I would like to send a message on Dec. 25th to Andrew J. Volstead, Bishop Candor, Clarence True Wilson, F. Scott McBride, Mrs. Ella Book, Deane Pickett, Mr. Jones & Co. & Co., and a lot more, but I can't afford to send them long sentiments because it would cost too much, and I can't send my messages collect because they wouldn't accept 'em. So I am depending on the telegraph companies to get out a lovely Repeal Day Code of Appropriate Messages so that all I will have to do will be to wire the number. Of course, the telegraph companies can fix up a much better code than I can, for they're used to it, but, anyhow, here's my suggestion for a Repeal Day Telegraph Code:

1. Then drink, lad, and quaff, lad, and will ye drink with me, for it is a most of nut brown ale I offer unto thee. Murrily yours,
2. Happy returns of the day! A book of verses underneath the Bough, a Jug of Wine, a Loaf of Bread—and Thou, beside me singing in the Wilderness.
3. Night's candles are burnt out, and jocund day stands tip toe on the misty mountain top. Prost!
4. Fill every beaker up, my men, pour forth the cheering wine; there's life and strength in every drop, thanksgiving to the wine. Cheers!
5. Drink to me only with thine eyes, but pardon me if I take a brandy and soda myself. Here's how!
6. Sweet Adeline, will you be mine? You're the darling of my heart, sweet Adeline.
7. Ha, ha, ha, "Is you and me, little Brown Jug, don't I love thee?"
8. Take me down, down, down where the Wurmburger flows, flows, flows. Gesundheit!
9. Best wishes this gladsome day. Beefsteak when you're hungry, whiskey when you're dry.
10. Well, as the governor of North Carolina said to the governor of South Carolina—here's best regards!
11. You must wake and call me early, call me early, mother dear, for I'm to be queen of the May, mother, I'm to be queen of the May.
12. Old wood to burn, old wine to drink, old friends to trust, and old authors to read. Hop to it!
13. Hall! Hall! The gang's all here; what the hell do we care, what the hell do we care! Hall! Hall! The gang's all here; what the hell do we care now! Skol!
14. Is this a dream? Oh, if it be a dream, let me sleep on and do not wake me yet. Say when!

A FRIENDLY VOICE, but speaking in a mysterious shush, shush manner, called me up yesterday. "Listen," said the voice, "I got a lot of real straight, genuine stuff. Let me have anything from a pint to a dozen bottles." "And who are you?" I asked. "A bootlegger," said the voice. "Yes," said I; "hooch or milk?"

THINGS SHOULD COME GRADUALLY, but with such a terrible rush. I'm expecting to read today, the day after Thanksgiving, of men climbing telegraph poles and claiming to be the King of Siam and jibbering "Curlew Shall Not Ring Tonight" at their pursuers. This thing of eating two pieces of mince pie now that it has run and brandy in it, instead of grape juice or sarsaparilla, which we've been accustomed to for fourteen years, is too violent a change. I don't know, but it seems to me that a mince pie jag must be a horrible thing! Horrible! Horrible!

How to Keep Well

STATE AID AND HEART CASES.

FOR many years George Saratoga has been making American history in that there has been no other case of a man of his age and his position found there. Perhaps Hot Springs, Ark., is another case. By reason of the fact that the federal government was able to take charge at Hot Springs there have been studies of the radium content of the water and regulation of the use of water of those licensed to make use of it. Saratoga has remained under the direction of the state authorities. At a time when the resort was losing its reputation and its patronage by health seekers the danger of illness was recognized by Dr. Elmer Harsh and Messrs. Trank and Finkels. They were able to interest the state authorities in a plan for the spring that would conserve the natural resources, create new possibilities of health promotion, and at the same time provide sources of revenue for the state.

The seven year itch. Mrs. D. C. B. writes: There are many people asking for the cure of seven year itch. We tried sulphur in many different ways, and this is the only way it ever helped me.

Melt 1 pound lard. Remove from fire and pour into earthen dish, then add 1 ounce sulphur, 1/2 ounce white precipitate, 1/4 fluid dram sulphuric acid, and 1/4 fluid dram oil of bergamot, and 1 dram powdered saltpeter. Stir until cold.

Apply at night before going to bed, and two or three times a day if necessary. All clothing that is worn next the body should be boiled and all others pressed on the wrong side with a very hot iron. Care should be used in handling the acid so as not to get it on the hands until it is in the lard mixture.

REPLY. I can see no reason for putting some of the above ingredients into this salve. There are several searching sulphur ointments on the market, and using them should be less troublesome and probably less expensive than using your own. Of course you were cured. Seven year itch can be cured in seven days by any one who is thorough, attends to details, and uses a searching form of sulphur. You met all these requirements.

ANOTHER QUOTATION FROM MILL. Chicago, Nov. 23.—In his recent speech, President Roosevelt quoted from John Stuart Mill. Many people may doubt the applicability of the quotation to the New Deal, but there can be no question of the application to present tendencies of a quotation from Mill's essay "On Liberty." Here is a quotation from chapter V, he gives three objections to government interference, the third of which is, in part, as follows:

"The third and most cogent reason for restraining the interference of government is the great evil of adding unnecessarily to its power. Every function superadded to those already exercised by the government adds to its influence over human affairs. It is more widely diffused, and converts, more and more, the active and ambitious part of the public into hangers-on of the government, or of some party which aims to become the government. If the roads, the railways, the banks, the insurance offices, the great joint-stock companies, the universities, and the public charities were all of them branches of the government; if in addition the municipal corporations and local boards with all that now devolves on them, became departments of the central administration; if the employees of all these different enterprises were appointed and paid by the government, and looked to the government for every rise in life; not all the freedom of the press and popular constitution of the legislature would make this [England] or any other country free otherwise than in name."

STOOLS AT THE BAR.

Chicago, Nov. 23.—The mayor promised the people of Chicago that, in obedience to the party platform, if Chicago were given home rule on the liquor question the conditions of the old saloon would not return. He promised that all public drinking would be done at tables. In my belief that was an excellent step in the light of observation I had made in foreign countries and from having seen directly in the business once myself. I was for this plan because the greatest evil of the old saloon came from the isolation of the standing bar. Sitting has nothing to do with correcting this, but sitting at tables, where there are only 2 or 4 would help to correct the trouble. The bar permitted large groups of men to converge into conversations and several small groups to finally end up as one. Each man in such group, according to custom, had to treat all the rest in the group. That was the curse of the standing bar. It often meant that 5, 6 or 10 men would finally get into one group. The 5, 6 or 10 drinks would have to be served to make the rounds. The tables would have stopped this and been conducive of keeping small groups apart.

But what has happened? The council thought that if they sit at the bar that the purpose has been served. Then comes the question what if there aren't enough stools, or what if a bartender refuses a drink to those not sitting? Well, from what I know from personal contact with the business, the only time that one standing would be so refused would be when a policeman happened to drop in, unless, of course, the copper was also standing at the bar to get his little one. THEN INDIANS GET NO CREDIT.

Syracuse, Ind., Nov. 26.—During our generation, Indiana, has become known as a hotbed of literary genius. Key men contributing to this reputation include George Ade, George Barr McCutcheon, John T. Flannery, McCutcheon and Booth Tarkington. Each of them achieved fame and success, but not alone in Indiana, or even the middle west. They are well rounded out men, in literature, yes, but in other fields also—and manifold powers are signs of greatness. They are so readily comparable with each other, these four, as to their brain power, that we nat-

IRISH POLICE RAID HOMES, OFFICES OF BLUE SHIRTS

Claim Ammunition Seized at Headquarters.

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Police reported the seizure of ammunition and a large quantity of allegedly treasonable documents in a series of sudden raids today on the headquarters and homes of members of the Blue Shirt United Ireland party.

The first objectives of the raids were the Dublin flat of Gen. Owen O'Duffy, Blue Shirt leader, and the suburban home of Ernest Blythe, former minister of finance in the William T. Cosgrave cabinet.

Raid Headquarters.
Almost simultaneously police swooped down on Blue Shirt homes in many other towns in the Free State. Then they raided Blue Shirt Headquarters in Dublin and Cork.

[The government has long looked with suspicion upon the Blue Shirt United Ireland party, which O'Duffy and Blythe organized out of O'Duffy's officially banned national guard, and the Irish republican army has made no secret of its determination to squelch the Blue Shirt organization.]

The raid staged at the auxiliary headquarters used by the United Ireland party and the young Ireland youth movement on St. Stephen's green in Dublin lasted two hours. These premises were the former headquarters of the farmers and taxpayers' league, which O'Duffy merged with his Blue Shirts.

Huge Crowd Watches.
During the raid E. J. Cronin, general secretary of the party, arrived and emphatically denied claims he had been made by a police sergeant that three or four boxes of ammunition had been found on the premises.

A large quantity of files and documents was taken from the headquarters and loaded into a police van while a huge crowd looked on. Referring to the raids in the Daily Minister of Justice Rutledge said they had been conducted because police had reason to believe that treasonable documents, arms and ammunition might be found.

O'Duffy Indignant.
Gen. O'Duffy was indignant over the police search of his flat. "The found nothing," he said, "because I have nothing to hide, and because I live and always have lived within the law."

O'Duffy wore surgical plaster last month after being attacked at a political meeting in County Kerry, while, according to his story, police watched but did not interfere. He has accused President Eamon de Valera time and again as a pander to the mob that O'Duffy claims is ruling Ireland today. The Irish Republicans, on the other hand, scorn the United Ireland party, for what they call the latter's surrender to the "imperial yoke" of England on the economic war between the island and the mother country.

SOLOMON ORWALL ENDS HIS LIFE IN OAK PARK HOTEL

Solomon L. Orwall, 38 years old, once a candidate for congressman from the Eleventh district of Illinois and a former president of the village of Winfield in Du Page county, committed suicide with gas yesterday in his room in the Chateau hotel, 330 North Austin avenue, Oak Park. The body was found by the hotel manager, who summoned the Oak Park police.

Lieut. William Koerber of the Oak Park police said that Orwall had taken a room in the hotel on Wednesday after telling his family that he was going to visit relatives in St. Joseph, Mo. In the hotel room were found notes addressed to him; notes telling how to dispose of his body. An inquest into the death will be held today at 17 West Madison street, Oak Park.

For many years Orwall was a leader in political affairs of Du Page county. He conducted an insurance business at Winfield. He was a former president of the Greater Du Page County association and a member of the board of trustees of the Du Page Memorial hospital. He was also a member of the Chicago Association of Life Underwriters, the American Legion, the Medinah Shrine, and the Elks, Hamilton, Medinah Country and Medinah Michigan Avenue clubs.

Orwall is survived by his widow and three children.

CHICAGO WOMAN TO MARK 100TH YEAR TOMORROW

Mrs. Caroline M. Willets yesterday prepared to celebrate tomorrow her 100th birthday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Harriet W. Grace, 7027 Yale avenue. Her daughter, two grandchildren and two great grandchildren will gather for the celebration.

Mrs. Willets came to Chicago from Oswego, N. Y., in 1852 and made her home in a house on Monroe street near La Salle street. Later she lived at 15th street and Wabash avenue and two days before the Chicago fire moved to 35th street and Michigan avenue, a building which was destroyed in the flames.

"I have no recipe for living to be 100 years old," she said yesterday. "I'm just like anybody else who lives to be that old. I think one thing that is wrong at present is the fact that people can attract 50,000 persons to a football game, but they can't fill a church."

SLAIN IN ROW OVER WASH. TUB.

PROBE CHARGES OF CRUELTY IN CHILDREN'S HOME

Witnesses Say Babies Were Mistreated.

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Testimony that officials of the Windsor Children's Aid society had been informed in May, 1931, of complaints regarding treatment of inmates of the children's shelter was offered today at an inquiry into the conduct of the shelter.

One witness, Mrs. Margaret McGuire, a member of the shelter's staff for two years, told Commissioner M. A. Sorsdell, the investigator, that she had informed the secretary treasurer of the society two years ago of charges against Miss Magdalene Strang, the shelter matron.

Tells of Cruelty to Baby.
When she made the complaints, Mrs.

McGuire testified, one of the society officials asked, "Is it because you have left your job that you come here and make these complaints against Miss Strang?" Mrs. McGuire declared she had denied this.

Another witness, Mrs. Mildred Dick, a former ward of the shelter, testified that a two-year-old boy was forced to rub his nose on the floor by the assistant matron, Miss Katherine Strang, as a punishment.

Mrs. Dick said she did not protest to Miss Strang because she feared she would be sent to the industrial school. Other girls, she testified, had been sent there after they had disobeyed the assistant matron.

Boy Beaten on Head.
On one occasion Mrs. Dick added, a three-year-old boy fell out of bed and the assistant matron "punched him and beat his head." In the morning, the witness continued, she saw bruises on the child's body and his temperature was 102.

Mrs. McGuire testified also that babies were fed by force and that she had once been instructed by a matron to inform a Toronto inspector that children were punished by being placed in a corner or put to bed "because we are not supposed to strike them."

The hearing, conducted by Mr. Sorsdell, deputy minister of public welfare, with Ira Humphries of Toronto, representing the attorney general's department, attracted a large crowd.

Greenfield, Mass., Nov. 30.—(AP)—Flames driven by a strong wind to night swept the Greenfield block in the heart of Greenfield, causing damage of $200,000 and giving firefighters, summoned from nine communities, a three-and-one-half-hour battle. The blaze started in the vicinity of a cleansing and dyeing establishment in the rear of the building.

Estonia Notifies U. S. It Will Default Debt Again

TALLINN, Estonia, Nov. 30.—(AP)—The Estonian government today notified Washington that it was unable to pay the debt installment due the United States on Dec. 15. The Estonian government defaulted on the American debt payment both in December, 1932, and on last summer's installment. The amount due on Dec. 15, 1932, totaled $356,370.

BAVARIA SEIZES PRIESTS; CALLED REBEL PLOTTERS

Names of Prisoners Kept Secret by State.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
BERLIN, Nov. 30.—The state of Bavaria intensified its campaign against Catholic priests described by Nazis as "black frocks" today.

A number of priests were arrested, but the identity of only one prisoner was made public. He is Dr. Emil Müller, a former member of the Bavarian People's party. According to an official report issued by the Munich police, he is charged with spreading "atrocity stories about political prisoners in the Dachau concentration camp."

Accused as Plotters.
The other priests are accused of plotting against the state government.

The conflict between the Catholic church and Hitler's government, it is revealed today, is based on differences in the interpretation of the concordat signed by the Vatican and Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen. In a special clause, the Vatican formally recognized German laws dealing with the church. Then the Nazis changed the laws. The Vatican, it is reported, contends that according to international law, it recognized only the existing statutes and cannot agree with arbitrary changes made after the concordat was signed.

The Vatican also is reported to be worried about new legislation calling for the sterilization of alleged criminals, and has forbidden Catholic physicians and nurses to cooperate in any such operations.

Fights to Save Authority.
[Copyright: 1933: E. The New York Times.]
BERLIN, Nov. 30.—Confronted with the biggest crisis that the German Protestant church has faced since its birth during the reformation, Reichsbishop Ludwig Müller, Chancellor Hitler's own confidant in church affairs, began a difficult struggle today to save his own authority from the present wreck of his program of coordination of the church with the Nazi state.

As the first step toward that end, he opened negotiations with the various factions within the church. Their purposes were first, to find a new cabinet to replace the one that resigned late last night, and second, to reach an agreement on foundations of faith that would satisfy all groups.

Hints At Agreement.
In an interview in Hamburg today, Bishop Müller expressed optimism regarding his success in both respects. He even hinted that an agreement on the tenets of the faith might already have been found. The question of a new cabinet, however, appears to be more difficult, for he said he wanted to conduct the negotiations "with some calm."

As a matter of fact, at present at least, it is difficult to see what forces within the church Bishop Müller represents inasmuch as both the Nazi German Christians led by Bishop Hosenfelder, and the old-line Protestants headed by Dr. Friedrich von Bodelschwingh, now stand aloof from him, leaving him rather isolated.

Austrian Cabinet to Rule on Granting Citizenship
VIENNA, Nov. 30.—A decree was published tonight forbidding the further granting of Austrian citizenship to foreigners except in special cases, which must be approved individually by the cabinet.

The governor of Salzburg, Dr. Rehr, today announced the Austrian government intends to submit the new constitution to a plebiscite. He added that the government and the Christian Social party are decidedly against a 100 per cent Fascist regime.

Fifty paper detonators exploded at Innsbruck last night and all the while the city. The police arrested six leading Innsbruck Nazis, who were sentenced to six months in prison. They will be the first inmates of the new camp.

DICK TRACY—Front Step Stick-up

AS "CONFIDENCE" DOLAN PREPARED TO ENTER THE FRONT DOOR, AND "SANDY" MAQUIRE THE REAR DOOR TO FIND OUT WHAT CAUSED THE RECENT NOISE WITHIN THE HOUSE, A VERY STARTLING THING IS ABOUT TO TAKE PLACE.

A SHADOWY FIGURE SUDDENLY LEAPS OUT OF THE BUSHES AND ONTO THE FRONT STEPS BEHIND DOLAN.

TRACY! THAT'S RIGHT! WHERE'S MAQUIRE... AND WHERE'S THE KID?

MEANWHILE, SANDY WHO ENTERED THE REAR DOOR, REACHES THE KITCHEN WHEN HE HEARS THE DETECTIVE'S VOICE, AND WALKS IN HIS TRACKS.

AUSTRIA SETS UP SECOND PRISON CAMP FOR FOES

(Copyright: 1933: By the New York Times.)
VIENNA, Nov. 30.—The Austrian government established today a second concentration camp for political prisoners in the castle of Finstermünz in Tyrol. All political prisoners having to serve a term of penal servitude exceeding six weeks will be transferred to this camp from western Austria, while those in eastern Austria and Vienna will be concentrated at Wollersdorf.

Fifty paper detonators exploded at Innsbruck last night and all the while the city. The police arrested six leading Innsbruck Nazis, who were sentenced to six months in prison. They will be the first inmates of the new camp.

The governor of Salzburg, Dr. Rehr, today announced the Austrian government intends to submit the new constitution to a plebiscite. He added that the government and the Christian Social party are decidedly against a 100 per cent Fascist regime.

FRANCE SHIPS 680 MORE FELONS TO DREAD PENAL ISLE

Many Slayers Aboard Convict Ship.

ST. MARTIN DE RE, France, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Another shipload of convicts will sail from this island penitentiary tomorrow aboard the convict ship La Martinique for the prison colony of French Guiana, where 673 convicts were taken two months ago.

There they will begin long terms of hard labor and some, banished for life, face tropical exile until death or escape sets them free.

None is destined for Devil's Island, storied spot reserved for political prisoners sentenced to life imprisonment.

Gigolo Killer Aboard Ship.
Tomorrow's cargo, including many prisoners assembled from France's African and Asiatic colonies, will complete the shipments for another year or more. Two hundred eighty men will embark here; 400 others will be picked up at Algiers on the way.

Balthazard Mochini is one of the headlines in tomorrow's consignment. As a result of mixing sentiment with his profession—that of a gigolo—he has said goodbye forever to the boulevards of Paris.

Mochini, it seems, had a woman benefactor and a sweetheart at the same time. He was convicted of having killed one and wounded the other when both, brought together by him, joined in reproaching him for infidelity.

After serving 15 years at hard labor he must stay in exile the rest of his life. Like many awaiting him in Guiana, he may hire out at whatever jobs he can find in that land of few opportunities, once his prison term is served.

Many Murderers in Cargo.
Going with him are five 20 year old convicted murderers, one of whom killed an old woman for $2.50.

Scores of other murderers, not a few of them slayers for love, will have an opportunity to start their long repentance while they pace the eight huge cages in La Martinique's hold. If they attempt a mutiny

Flying Forecast

Special flying route forecasts for the period from 11 p. m. Nov. 30 to noon Dec. 1:
Chicago-St. Louis—Mostly clear, except overcast near St. Louis.
Chicago-Evanston—Mostly clear, except broken in scattered near Evanston.
Chicago-Cincinnati—Mostly clear.
Chicago-Detroit—Clear—strong northwesterly winds and gales at higher elevations.
Chicago-Omaha—Clear, over extreme east scattered in scattered near Evanston.
Chicago-Tulsa (Ill.)—Clear; strong northwesterly winds and gales at higher elevations.
Chicago-Kansas City—Clear over east and central, low overcast over extreme west with rain by morning; rain over Missouri Friday.
Route forecasts for twelve hours ending at noon:
Evanston-Altoona—Overcast to broken clouds, possibly light local rains Evanston to Nashville.
Cleveland-New York—Scattered to broken clouds; strong west or west northwest winds above 1,000 feet.

There is live steam in overhead pipes ready to scald them at a turn of the keeper's wrist.

Hopes of escape, once Guiana is reached, are slight. Many try to flee, but comparatively few—100 during the last year—succeed.

Tomorrow's cargo will be divided among the penal stations on the various islands that compose the far-away prison.

FLEEING GERMANY
BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Nov. 30.—(AP)—Minister of Interior Lasich announced before the senate tonight that several hundred German Jews had been granted permission for temporary residence in Jugoslavia because of a national tradition of tolerance.

Chief Rabbi Alkalaj expressed the thanks of Jugoslavian Jews and declared there had never been anti-Semitism in Serbia, but that it was lately being "artificially introduced from abroad."

Senator Majstorovich also praised the Jugoslavian tolerance, but warned that "the best way to ward off anti-Semitism is to forestall it." He said Jugoslavia must prevent an increase in its Jewish population.

COUPLE OBSERVE 64TH YEAR OF THEIR MARRIAGE

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson yesterday celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary in their home at 102 North Marion street, Oak Park. Surrounded by their children, Mr. Nelson, who is 92 years old, and Mrs. Nelson, who is 82, reminisced over their experiences since they were married in San Francisco.

"We attended a ball in Glasgow, Scotland, when I was 16, but I didn't know Thomas then and he didn't know me," Mrs. Nelson said. "We first met right here in Chicago, but we got married out in San Francisco, where Thomas had gone to work—he was a carpenter. We were married on Thanksgiving day in 1869."

"We came back to Chicago a short time after that because I was afraid of the earthquakes. And we hadn't been back so long before the Chicago fire occurred."

Mr. Nelson recalled his work in helping rebuild some of the buildings destroyed in the fire. He also was foreman in the construction of the water tower in 1887. The Nelsons have nine living children, 33 grandchildren, and nine great-grandchildren.

8 EAT BREAKFAST IN CHICAGO AND DINNER IN N. Y.
Eight passengers who boarded a United Air Line transport plane at the Chicago airport yesterday morning were delivered in New York in time for Thanksgiving dinner after a record breaking trip.

The plane left Chicago after breakfast and reached the Newark airport less than four hours later. The speed record was made with the aid of a strong tail wind.

An average speed of 246 miles per hour was recorded by Pilot Robert Dawson in flying the 418 mile section between Cleveland and Newark in one hour and 42 minutes. He reported that he found the favoring winds at 6,000 feet. Pilot E. B. Gray flew the plane over the Chicago-Cleveland section in one hour and 47 minutes.

Pennsylvania Railroad Freight Service reaches from your door to anyone's door
in 2000 other cities and towns—

ON DECEMBER 1, an epoch-making forward step is taken in Pennsylvania Railroad freight service.

Hitherto, shippers have had to go to the railroad. Now the Pennsylvania Railroad goes to them.

Sending less-than-carload freight over the Pennsylvania becomes as easy as sending a letter by mail.

All you do is telephone your Pennsylvania freight agent. He assumes full charge of the whole job. A truck calls at your door—takes your shipment direct to the rail terminal, where it is loaded at once on an outgoing train. In the city of destination, another truck delivers it right to your consignee's door.

Throughout the job, you deal with just one agency—the Pennsylvania Railroad. You pay just one charge—the Railroad's bill. No more worry about collections—deliveries—extra charges. The Pennsylvania now does it all!

PICK-UP AT YOUR DOOR—and delivery at your consignee's—now make Pennsylvania freight service as convenient as shipping by truck—with the added dependability of the railroad.

The Pennsylvania provides trucks to collect and deliver your less-than-carload shipment here and in about 2,000 other cities and towns all over the Pennsylvania Railroad system.

Call your Pennsylvania freight agent and learn the details of this radically new service today.

Harvard Music Clubs to Have Gay Time Here

Chicago Alumni Arrange Busy Calendar.

BY JUDITH CASS.

FROM the time that the fifty young men who make up the Harvard university musical clubs arrive here on the evening of Wednesday, Dec. 27, until they leave at midnight the next night they won't have a dull moment, for the Chicago alumni in charge of their entertainment have planned so many interesting things for them.

They arrive just in time to give their Chicago concert in Orchestra hall, and after the concert they will be taken to the Casino to enjoy the dinner dance that the John P. Kellogg and the William H. Mitchell will be giving for their debutante niece, Miss Helen Hunter.

The next day the Harvard club of Chicago will give its annual Christmas luncheon for undergraduates and prospective students and the members of the musical clubs will be guests. This promises to be the most exciting affair of the sort the Chicago club ever has given, not only because Harvard defeated Yale last Saturday but because a Winnetka boy is said to be largely responsible for Harvard's victory. He is Dan Wells, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Wells, and the idol of every football player at the North Shore Country Day school, where he was a pupil before he entered college.

Mr. Wells is a first string half back and last Saturday he threw two forward passes, each half the length of the field, that resulted in touchdowns. Movies of the game will be shown at the luncheon and young Mr. Wells probably will be prevailed upon to say a few words. The Harvard vocal club will lead the singing of football and undergraduate songs and, all in all, the Chicago alumni anticipate a thrilling occasion.

Plan Tea Dance at Indian Hill Club.

That afternoon some of the wives of the Winnetka Harvard alumni, including Mrs. Arthur G. Cable, Mrs. Lawrence Howe and Mrs. Laird Bell, will give a tea dance at the Indian Hill club for the young Harvard visitors. The hours are from 4:30 until 7:30, so it will be almost time for the concert in the Jane Kuppenheimer Memorial hall of the Skokie school when the tea dance is over. Stewart Boal, co-chairman with William A. Magie III, of the Winnetka concert, is organizing a group of debutantes and subdebutantes to take tickets and usher at the concert.

Mr. Howe, Mr. Bell, John Miller, Perry Dunlap Smith, John M. Davis, and Robert Millett are the others on the Winnetka committee, and serving on the Chicago one are Hubert Johnston, Conway H. Olmsted, Barrett Wendell, Howard P. Gillette, Charles B. Pike, Albert A. Sprague, Arthur D. Welton Jr., William H. Mitchell, Donald McCune, Kellogg Fairbank Jr., John W. Valentine, and Dwight Ingram.

There were about 370 men and women who listened to the telegraphic report of the Harvard-Yale game last Saturday at the Harvard-Yale-Princeton club, and from the reservations that have been made so far for the buffet luncheon and report of the Princeton-Yale game tomorrow it looks as though there would be twice that many there this week. In fact, not all who have signified their intention of being there can crowd into the main dining room, where the play-by-play board is located, so the overflow will have to sit in another room and hear the game over the radio.

A few of the many who will enjoy the game by long distance in the attractive club, which for the first time last Saturday invited ladies to come to any of its daytime affairs, are the Hyde Gillette, the Edgar Marston, Morgan Collins and his bride, the Junior John P. Wilson, the Solomon B. Smith, the Bruce Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, the Beach Clows, Harlow N. Higginbotham, and Huntington Eldridge.

After the game is over those who are squishy request devotees will have the chance to see the H-Y-P club's team play one from the Chicago Athletic association in the first of the intramural matches. Robert Stevenson III, captain of the H-Y-P team and the others on it are Conway H. Olmsted, John B. Stevens, Louis S. Hardin, J. E. Janotta. The other clubs represented in the intramural matches are the Racquet, the Union League, the Chicago Town and Tennis and the Court.

Holiday Dance for Patricia Kelly.

When Patricia Kelly, 17 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Duncan Kelly, comes home from Westover in another month she is going to have a very gay and festive two weeks' holiday, highlighted by a dinner dance given especially for her on the evening of Dec. 29. Mr. and Mrs. Kelly are entertaining for their daughter at a dinner dance at their home, which is one of the handsomest residences on Indian Hill road in Winnetka. Invitations for the party are to be issued in the next few days.

Mrs. Louis H. Rissler and her daughter, Miss Jean Rissler, who have just moved into an apartment at the Lake Shore Drive hotel, are hunting for a date some time between Christmas and the first or second week in January. As a climax to the gay round of debutante parties of the next few weeks, they are planning to entertain at that time for many of this year's buds and a number of post-debutantes.

Although the Rissler home is in Hoopston, many of Miss Rissler's friends are Chicago girls whom she

There's Simple Way to Make Gay Scarves

BY RHEA SEEGER.

IF your shopping eye has been watching rather enviously all these gayly striped costume accessories a lot of smart people have been wearing while dashing around town you will be more than interested in knowing that you can now make your own. You can fashion or design a trick Ascot scarf or longer affair to loop and hang down over your chest, or square, swanky handbags, to say nothing of numerous other things, for the house.

Beginning next Sunday printed and illustrated directions for these "high-fashion" costume accessories will be available in The Tribune. It's called finger weaving, and is probably the most fascinating new indoor recreation of the year. At last you can indulge your weakness for roman stripes and make something that is different. Berets, belts, collar and cuff sets, and all sorts of bags can be made in record time if you follow the simple directions printed each Sunday.

If you want something new to crochet, something that will not take days and days to finish, look for the twins Susie and Sammie, two undressed unbreakable dolls that come, one in a box, with sufficient yarn to crochet a complete costume. Printed directions and crochet hook are supplied. By following the simple unabbreviated directions you can fashion a frock, a sweater and a cap for the dolls.

Even though they seem to have been designed for children, grownups will enjoy making these tiny crocheted dresses or costumes, and when they are finished you will have difficulty in parting with them. They can be found in a Chicago store, either purchased together or alone, for a very modest sum.

Stock Closes Holiday with Happy Concert

'Sea Drift,' New Carpenter Piece, Is Played.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

MR. Stock was back from his vacation, Joseph Szigeti, eminent violinist, was the soloist, and there was a new composition by John Alden Carpenter on the program. So what with one thing and another, the concert of the Chicago Symphony orchestra last night was a good one for the end of the Thanksgiving celebration.

Mr. Stock started at once on the presentation of joyful music. Omitting the customary overture, whose sole function as far as can be determined is to give the late comers a chance to be seated without too much delay, he began the program with Beethoven's Eighth Symphony, one of the briefest works in the Beethoven list and one of the most youthful in character.

The audience liked it immensely. There is generally a warm reception for well played music of the classical period, and Mr. Szigeti discovered that fact also. He is a classist of high rank, has a manner of playing which includes dignity, restraint, and unflinching correctness, and does not in the least bar warmth of interpretation.

He then assigned two numbers for himself. The first was Corelli's "La Folia," a short theme with many variations which most violinists play in their recitals to piano accompaniment, but which apparently never before reached performance in these concerts with orchestral setting. The second was the Mozart Concerto in D. Both are fine pieces; both were models of lovely, detached, intellectual performance.

Mr. Carpenter's new work takes the name of "Sea Drift." Its title in a way explains its character. It is a tone poem of marine serenity, the composer explaining that the music has derived its title and sought inspiration from the noble sea poems of Walt Whitman. Mr. Carpenter has done well, if just a trifle at length, by them. His picture is a pleasant, based, it would seem, on his earlier technical manner, and developed with the same color and skill which for a long time has been his habit.

In order to maintain the era of good feeling until the end, Mr. Stock closed the concert with two uncommonly jolly items from Moszkowski's "From Foreign Lands." Their titles were "Italian," a tarantelle, and "Hungarian," a czardas.

Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Lazear Celebrate Golden Wedding

About 150 relatives and friends last night attended a party at the Georgian hotel, Evanston, in celebration of the golden wedding of Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Lazear of 615 Ridge avenue, Evanston. They were married by Dr. Frank Bristol, later bishop, on Nov. 30, 1883. Among the guests last night were Dr. William R. Wedderspoon, former pastor of St. James Methodist church in Chicago, who read an item from The Chicago Tribune of Dec. 1, 1883, telling of the wedding, and the Rev. Ernest Fremont Tittle of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Evanston. The couple's two sons, Dr. David Lazear and Weston Lazear also were present.

Boys' Band Will Receive Music Festival Medals

Silver medals won at the Chicago and Music Festival sponsored by The Tribune will be awarded to the members of the Chicago Boys' club band at a celebration tonight at the Leland branch headquarters, 2301 South Ridgeway avenue. Under the direction of Joseph J. Grill, the boys who were placed second in class D division of the contest, will give a brief concert.

UPSIDE DOWNERS ADD CHOCOLATE CAKE TO FAMILY

Apricots, Bananas Aid
Topsy-Turvy Dessert.

Economical tips for week-end food shoppers—a weekly radio feature—will be presented today by Miss Mary Meade over station W-G-N. Tune in at 11:10 o'clock for Miss Meade's market chat.

BY MARY MEADE.

In the last few topsy-turvy years we've upside-downed most of our conventions and a good share of our dessert cakes. But it seems no matter how thoroughly we think we've looked over the field there's always some one turning up with a new brain child. This time (we're speaking in terms of cakes) it's chocolate upside down cakes. They're clever, individual ones, topped with apricots. There are also large ones finished off with bananas. They're economical and nominally they're for every day. But actually, for all their practicality, they're quite dressed up enough for party desserts. The recipe for the apricot affair runs thus:

CHOCOLATE UPSIDE DOWN CAKE.
1 cup sifted pastry flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 one-ounce square unsweetened chocolate
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup apricots

First sift together three times the flour, baking powder, and the salt. Add the milk, one-half cup sugar, and three tablespoons melted butter. Stir in the vanilla and the chocolate which has been melted. Stir to blend thoroughly. Now have ready eight greased cup cake pans or custard cups. In the bottom of each place one-half teaspoon melted butter, one teaspoon brown sugar, and one-half cup apricots. Four in the cake batter, dividing it between the pans, but filling each pan only about half full. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for half an hour, or until done. To serve these individual upside downers loosen them from around the sides of the pan with a spatula and turn out with the apricot side uppermost. Top with a fluff of whipped cream and serve hot or cold.

But it may be that you choose your upside down cake all in one piece. Then meet this second newcomer: CHOCOLATE BANANA UPSIDE DOWN CAKE.
1 cup sifted pastry flour
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
1/2 cup brown sugar
3 tablespoons butter, melted
1 one-ounce square unsweetened chocolate
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup bananas, sliced

Sift the flour, baking powder, sugar, and salt together three times. Add the butter. Beat together the egg, milk, and vanilla, and add to the flour mixture, stirring just until well blended. Add the melted chocolate and beat energetically for one minute. Now for the bottom, which is to be the top. Melt the three tablespoons of butter in an 8x5x2 inch pan over a low flame, add the sugar, and swirl until melted and smooth. Now slice the bananas and arrange the slices over the sugar mixture, lining them up in rows. Pour the batter over this and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for thirty-five minutes, or until done. To turn out, loosen the cake from the sides of the pan with a spatula and invert on a platter. The bananas will form interesting designs on the top and whipped cream for garnishing will complete this companioned dessert.

And now one more—for all lovers of chocolate and apple sauce. This one has no claims to upside-downness, but it's just as good for being top side up: CHOCOLATE APPLE SAUCE CAKE.

5 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon soda
3 teaspoons cornstarch
1 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon each nutmeg, cinnamon, and salt
1/2 cup butter
2 1/2 one-ounce squares melted chocolate
3-4 cups chopped nut meat
1-2 cups chopped citron or raisins
1 egg, well beaten
1 cup unsweetened thick apple sauce

Sift the flour once, measure, and sift twice with the soda, salt, spices, baking powder, and cornstarch. Cream the butter and sugar together until fluffy, then add the egg, fruit, and nuts. Stir in the melted chocolate. When well mixed, stir in the dry ingredients alternately with the apple sauce, beating in additions. Bake in a greased pan in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for sixty minutes. (Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.)

U. S. Honey Consumption Rate Far Below Europe

Beekeepers find that the average American eats only two pounds of honey in a year. This rate of honey consumption has remained virtually stationary since 1914. In Europe the average honey consumption is many times greater than that in the United States.

LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE: She Won't Go

MENUS DEMONSTRATED AT THE TRIBUNE COOKING SCHOOL

MEXICAN RABBIT.
2 medium size onions.
2 tablespoons butter or fat.
1 cup milk.
1 cup tomatoes, strained.
1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs.
1/4 cup grated cheese.
Salt and pepper.
6 slices toast.

Cook pepper and onion in butter 3 minutes. Heat milk, add bread crumbs and cook over low flame, stirring constantly until smooth. Combine with the first mixture. Add remaining ingredients and cook over low flame until thick, stirring constantly. Garnish with toast points.

PINEAPPLE-SHRIMP SANDWICH.
Shrimp.
Pineapple.
Buttered toast.
Mix equal parts of cooked or canned chopped shrimp and pineapple with enough salad dressing to spread. Use between slices of buttered toast.

CRANBERRY APPLE PIE.
1-3 cup butter.
1 cup sugar.
1 1/2 cups cranberries.
1 orange peel, grated.
Combine cranberries, apples, water, orange peel and sugar together. Pour into pastry lined plate. Bake in hot oven (425 degrees F.) 25 minutes.

JAPANESE SALAD.
1 cup chopped celery.
1 1/2 cups cooked rice.
1/4 cup soy sauce.
1/4 cup sesame oil.
1/4 cup vinegar.
To cook rice drop it into rapidly boiling salted water and boil until tender. Turn into a colander and let cold water run over it so that it will not be starchy. Drain well. When cool mix with the cold faked salmon, apple, celery, salt and paprika. Marinate (mix well) in French dressing and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Garnish with celery tops. Canned salmon may be used in this recipe.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE.
2-3 cup butter.
2 cups sugar.
2 cups vanilla.
2 cups milk.
1 cup cocoa.
2-3 teaspoon soda.
2-3 teaspoon salt.

Cream butter and sugar well. Then add unbeaten eggs one at a time, beating constantly. Sift flour, salt, baking powder and cocoa together 4 times, then add to shortening mixture alternately with your milk to which soda has been added and dissolved. Beat rapidly for few seconds. Bake in 2 large layers in oven 375 degrees F. until well browned. Remove from pan. Cool and stick together with following filling:

1/4 cup melted butter.
1 cup cocoa.
And enough thin cream to make right consistency to spread.

TOMATO CREAM TOAST.
1 1/2 cups canned tomato soup.
1/2 cup scalded light cream or top milk.
1/4 teaspoon baking soda.
3 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons all-purpose flour.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
6 slices toast.

Put butter in sauce pan. When melted and bubbling add flour mixed with salt, stir in gradually the tomato soup to which baking soda has been added, then add the cream or top milk. Dip slices of toast in this sauce, serve immediately.

BANANA MOUSSE.
2 cups heavy cream.
1/4 cup confectioner's sugar.
1/4 teaspoon vanilla.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
Salt and pepper.
Bananas, sliced very thin.
1 egg white, beaten.

Whip cream, add sugar, vanilla, lemon juice and salt. Fold in bananas and then stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into refrigerator trays and freeze 3 to 4 hours.

STUFFED CABBAGE.
1 small head cabbage.
1 cup head cabbage.
1 cup head cabbage.
1 cup head cabbage.
1 cup head cabbage.
Trim away the loose outer leaves of a firm head of cabbage. Cut a deep hole out of stem end of cabbage. Mix together ham, bread crumbs and grated American cheese, fill center of cabbage with mixture and sprinkle well with salt and pepper. Steam 2 hours or until cabbage is tender. Serve with cheese sauce.

CREAMED CHICKEN.
1 1/2 cups milk.
1/4 cup soft bread crumbs.
1/4 cup butter.
Salt and pepper.
1 cup canned chicken.
Toast.

Heat milk, add bread crumbs and cook over low flame, stirring constantly until smooth. Add butter and seasoning. Stir in faked chicken and let heat thoroughly. Garnish with toast points and parsley.

FILET OF BEEF BROILED WITH BACON.
Filet of beef cut 1 inch to 1 1/2 inches thick.
Bacon strips.
White grapes.
It is always best to leave your order for Filet 2 or 3 days ahead of time, as it is not always possible to find them in the market. Have filet cut 1 inch to 1 1/2 inches thick. Wipe with cloth, wring from cold water; bind edge with bacon strips and pin securely with toothpicks.

Pre-heat top oven unit to 15 minutes. Place broiling pan and rack in oven and when heated arrange the filets on rack, place pan so as to have space of about 1 inch between filets and broiling pan, which is "high" throughout broiling. Turn twice. The time required will be from 10 to 12 minutes, if wanted rare, and longer if wanted well done.

Remove and garnish with white grapes, pin with half toothpick to filet, which will then look like a wheel.

GRAPE JUICE WHIP ON TOAST.
1 tablespoon gelatin soaked in 4 tablespoons water.
1 cup grape juice.
1/4 cup sugar.
2 egg whites, stiffly beaten.
1/4 cup cream.
Heat grape juice and sugar. Stir the soaked gelatin into the hot grape juice. Cool until it begins to thicken. Beat to a froth and add the stiffly beaten egg whites. Pipe in center of toasted bread slices which have been rolled in powdered sugar after toasting. Top each serving with whipped cream slightly sweetened.

CABBAGE AND PEANUT SALAD.
1 small head cabbage.
1/4 cup chopped peanuts.
1 grated carrot.
1 raw apple chopped.
1/4 cup oil.
1/4 teaspoon paprika.
Discard outside leaves of cabbage and cut head in quarters. Let stand in ice water until crisp. Drain and chop. Mix with peanuts, carrots and apples. Add salt and paprika. Serve with cooked salad dressing or mayonnaise dressing. Garnish with strips of pimento.

SMOOTHY PIE.
18 Graham Crackers.
1/4 cup butter.
1/4 cup sugar.
2 eggs.
1/4 cup molasses.
4 tablespoons water.
1 teaspoon cinnamon.
Crumble crackers fine and reserve 1/4 cup. Mix the remainder with 1-3

AVOID THE DANGER OF CONSTIPATION

Delicious Cereal Overcomes
This Condition Safely and Pleasantly

The first signs of constipation may be headaches, tired feelings, sallow complexion, sleeplessness, loss of appetite. If neglected, constipation may seriously impair health.

Today, you can banish constipation by simply eating a delicious cereal. Laboratory tests show that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and vitamin B to further aid regular habits. ALL-BRAN is also a good source of iron for the blood.

This "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is gentle in action similar to leafy vegetables. Within the body, it forms a soft mass, and gently clears out the intestinal wastes.

Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of common constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor. Enjoy ALL-BRAN as a cereal, or used in cooking. Appetizing recipes on the red-and-green package. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

cup butter and press mixture in an even layer firmly against sides and bottom of buttered pie plate. Combine the 1/4 cup crackers with sugar, molasses, spices, vinegar, prunes and remainder of melted butter. Beat eggs and add to molasses mixture. Pour into cracker lined plate and bake in a hot oven 425 degrees F. 15 minutes.

BANANA BRAN MUFFINS.
1 cup bran.
1 1/4 cups sour milk.
2 tablespoons shortening.
4 tablespoons sugar.
1 egg.
1/4 cup flour.
1/4 teaspoon soda.
1 teaspoon baking powder.
1/4 cup sliced bananas.

Soak bran in sour milk. Cream together shortening and sugar. Add egg and beat well. Mix and sift flour, soda, baking powder and salt. Mix with the creamed mixture, alternately with the soaked bran. Add bananas and cinnamon. Bake in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees F., about 25 minutes.

PHILADELPHIA PEPPER POT.
4 slices bacon.
1 onion.
1 green pepper.
2 cups soup stock.
2 pound honeycomb tripe.
1 cup finely diced potatoes.
2 tablespoons flour.
1/4 cup cream.

Cut bacon into small dice and fry to a golden brown. Add onion and green pepper finely chopped and cook gently for 5 minutes. Now add soup stock and honeycomb tripe which has been thoroughly washed and shredded. Season with salt and ground pepper and bring to boiling point. Then add cup or finely diced potatoes and simmer for one hour. Thicken with flour which has been creamed with butter. Just before serving add cream.

COFFEE SPANISH CREAM.
1 1/2 tablespoons 1/4 cup sugar.
2 cups milk.
1 cup coffee.
1 teaspoon vanilla.
Combine milk, coffee and sugar in a double boiler and cook the mixture over hot water until the sugar is completely melted. Beat the egg yolks, stir in the salt and add to the hot milk and coffee. Stir constantly until the mixture thickens and coats the spoon. Remove and garnish which has been moistened in 1/4 cup sweet milk, remove from the heat, add vanilla and pour into the egg whites, whipped until stiff. Transfer to freezing trays and let stand until firm. Serve plain, with cream or whipped cream, or with a marshmallow or caramel nut sauce.

BAKED STUFFED SQUASH.
1 large squash.
8 soda crackers, crumbled.
Hot water.
2 cups sausage meat.
Boil squash in salt water until tender. Remove from water and cut in half, remove seeds. Pour water over the crackers and add meat. Turn squash right side up. Fill with crackermeat mixture. Return to hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) and bake until brown, about 20 minutes. Cover with white sauce and serve hot.

CHESSE CROQUETTES.
3 tablespoons shortening.
1/2 cup flour.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
1/4 teaspoon paprika.
1/2 cup milk.
2 eggs.
2 cups grated cheese.
Soft sliced bread crumbs.
1/2 cup milk.
Melt the shortening; in it cook the flour, salt, and paprika; add the milk and stir until boiling; beat in the egg yolks beaten light and let cook until the egg is "set"; stir in the cheese and turn on a greased plate; when chilled a little, form into cylinder shapes; roll in crumbs, dip in beaten eggs and again roll in crumbs. Fry in hot deep fat. Serve at once with a green salad and bread.

CHESSE SAUCE.
1/2 pound butter.
1/4 cup flour.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
1/4 teaspoon paprika.
1/2 cup milk.
2 eggs.
2 cups grated cheese.
Soft sliced bread crumbs.
1/2 cup milk.
Melt the butter; in it cook the flour, salt, and paprika; add the milk and stir until boiling; beat in the egg yolks beaten light and let cook until the egg is "set"; stir in the cheese and turn on a greased plate; when chilled a little, form into cylinder shapes; roll in crumbs, dip in beaten eggs and again roll in crumbs. Fry in hot deep fat. Serve at once with a green salad and bread.

THERE ARE GOOD AND BAD WAYS TO COOK POTATO

Potatoes are due to rise in price this winter, although it is not expected that the increase will be comparable to a year ago, when a late winter scarcity forced them to four or more cents a pound.

Yet even the smaller increase this winter over prices prevailing in fall has led household economists to point out means of preserving as much as possible of the food value in a pound or a peck of this vegetable. Several means are offered to prevent waste of the food and energy value.

Scrubbing and baking whole in the skin is one of the most efficient preparations; for the skins may be eaten as well as the meaty portion. When potatoes are boiled, this paring is best because some of the most valuable food elements are contained in the layers just inside the skin.

Sell your nut crop to this
market!

If wholesale prices for this year's crop of nuts appear likely to make your profit uncertain, market your crop yourself—direct to the consumer!

City families are splendid prospects. Every year these families buy thousands of pounds of nuts, in the shell, shelled, and salted. Freshness and quality have special appeal for city housewives, and they buy willingly when they know that nuts are sent to them direct from the groves.

The job of finding customers in the big Chicago market can be done easily, quickly, and at amazingly low cost through want ads in the Tribune Parcel Post and Express column. On week days alone the Chicago Tribune is read by more than 800,000 families, and on Sundays by scores of thousands more!

For a few dollars, whatever you care to spend to get customers, you can offer your pecans, walnuts, and other varieties to this huge audience, cash in on the immediate demand, and build a profitable business for the future.

Write at once for full details about selling direct to the consumer through want ads in this old-established farm products market—the Tribune Parcel Post and Express column!

NEW FRUIT CROP ROLLS IN WITH BARGAIN PRICES

Great Variety of Foods Offered Housewives.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago's housewives will find many new arrivals in fruits, vegetables and other victuals offered today at bargain prices.

Whole trainloads of the new crop of oranges, grapefruit, tangerines, and lemons have arrived in Chicago this week. They came from Florida, Texas and California, included in the shipments being the first carload of the 1933 crop of California navel oranges.

The Florida oranges are improving in texture and eating qualities as the season advances and the supplies assure reasonable prices on all citrus fruits during the winter.

Grapefruit Prices Lower.

Both the seedless and seeded grapefruit from the Gulf are lower in price this week and than they were two weeks ago. In addition to the Florida tangerines are to be found some Louisiana and Alabama satsumas, of lighter color but with an unusual taste.

Three kinds of grapes from the west coast are on sale here. The red Emperors, costing less than a year ago; the white Malagas and the large black Ribiers are available in most fruit stores of the city. Prices on grapes, like those on citrus fruits, are somewhat lower than a year ago, but with little prospect of getting lower during the winter than they are now.

Persimmons and pomegranates, along with fresh pineapples and coconuts, are being offered as a variety for the menu. Most of these foods, once at luxury prices, have come down in cost to a point where they compete with the better known fruits such as apples and oranges.

Heavy Cranberry Shipments.

The shipments of cranberries, especially those from the Cape Cod region, have been so heavy during November that prices are now lower than for many years, merchants report. This is also true of English walnuts, pecans, and Brazil nuts.

The prices of eggs and butter will be found to have been reduced 5 to 10 per cent this week compared with quotations by grocers two weeks ago. Cheese, both white and sweet, potatoes, Hubbard squash and lettuce also have been reduced in cost in the last few weeks.

DRIED PRUNES BASIS OF THIS NORWEGIAN DISH

Ordinary dried prunes are the basis for an easily made Norwegian prune pudding. Following are its ingredients:

1/2 pound of prunes (about 22).
2 cups of cold water.
1 cup of sugar.
1/2 teaspoon of salt.
1 inch piece of stick cinnamon.
1 1/2 cups of boiling water.
2-3 cups of cornstarch.
1 tablespoon of lemon juice.

Wash the prunes; soak them for one hour in cold water, and boil them in the same water until they are soft or substitute one cup of stewed prunes, pitted, and one-quarter cup of prune juice. Crack the pits, remove the meats, and add them to the prunes and juice. Add the sugar, salt, cinnamon, and boiling water, and simmer all for 10 minutes. Dissolve the cornstarch with enough cold water so that it will pour easily, add it to the prune mixture, and cook it for five minutes, stirring constantly. Remove the cinnamon, add the lemon juice, turn into a mold, and chill. Serve the pudding with cream.

Cranberry Crop Larger This Year than Last

Total cranberry production for the United States this year is estimated at 626,166 barrels. The output is larger than average and much larger than last year's crop of 539,836 barrels. Massachusetts is the leading cranberry producing state, with an output of 425,000 barrels this year as compared to 370,000 barrels in 1932. New Jersey, the second in rank, has crop estimated at 142,000 barrels this year as compared to 80,000 barrels in 1932. Wisconsin holds third place with 47,000 barrels. Washington and Oregon, with 7,500 and 4,666 barrels respectively, are the only other important producing areas.

Indianan Grows 447 Bu. of Potatoes on an Acre

Southern Indiana potato records of previous years were surpassed this year by a grower at Vincennes who produced 49 more bushels of potatoes to the acre than any previous crop on record in the south half of the state. Ed Plass cultivated a field which averaged at harvest 447 bushels to the acre, which admitted him to the 400 Bushel Potato club of the state. Good seed, good soil, and protection against troublesome pests are his explanation for a high yield in a season less favorable than usual.

1933 Onion Crop 24% Under Yield for 1932

The nation's onion crop is 21,817,000 bushels, which is a 24 per cent reduction from the 1932 crop, both acreage and yield being sharply reduced from the 1932 level. The United States acreage is estimated at 77,640 acres, compared with 91,470 acres for 1932, which was the largest in the last six years.

NOW TO USE UP THANKSGIVING DAY LEFTOVERS

Several Ways for Re- serving Them.

BY DOROTHY MASTERS.

Your hostesses who dispensed hospitality with a lavish hand yesterday, and your mothers who treated your families to overly bountiful feasts now have your post-Thanksgiving worries. For little tumblers, and big ones, too, will hold just so much, and even after second helpings of turkey and dressing and mashed potatoes, leftover food crowds the refrigerator today.

First of all, there's the turkey, or duck, or chicken. By this time many of the bones have been picked clean, and what's left of the meat will probably not lend itself to being warmed up whole or sliced up for sandwiches. The fowl, thus stripped, has several solutions to today's task of reserving. It can be served cold as salad, in hash form, in loaf, or a la king, using white sauce.

Salad a la King.

This latter way offers a particularly nice method, since the a la king mixture may be served on the leftover mashed potatoes, which have been given new life by being patted into cakes and dropped into a hot, buttered skillet.

Maybe you have a favorite a la king recipe, but here's a delicious one that will serve six:

POWELL LA KING.

4 tablespoons butter.
5 tablespoons flour.
3 cups milk.
1/2 teaspoon salt.
1/4 teaspoon paprika.
4 tablespoons celery, chopped.
4 tablespoons green pepper, cooked.
1 cup mushrooms, cooked.
2 tablespoons chopped onion.
2 cups diced fowl, cooked.

Stir the flour into the melted butter and add milk gradually until white sauce is of proper thickness. Add seasonings and the fowl, and heat through.

And here's a salad recipe that will evoke tender memories long after it's devoured. Although it calls for chicken, any fowl may be substituted.

CHICKEN SALAD.

3 cups chicken, cooked.
1 cup celery, diced.
1 dozen stuffed olives.
1/2 cup almonds, blanched and chopped.
4 boiled eggs, diced.
1 dozen small sweet pickles, diced.

Mix the ingredients lightly, and moisten with your favorite mayonnaise.

In Hash Form.

Or, if your family likes hash, dress up the remaining fowl in this fashion, which also utilizes the dressing and gravy:

TURKEY HASH.

[Any fowl may be substituted.]
3 tablespoons celery, chopped.
1 small onion, diced.
1/2 cup gravy or milk.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
2 eggs, beaten.

Mix the ingredients and pour into a greased baking dish. Cook for 20 minutes in a moderate oven. Or the hash may be panfried, using the same mixture.

If you prefer to do the last rites for your chicken the loaf way this recipe will insure his instantaneous disappearance:

CHICKEN LOAF.

[Any fowl may be substituted.]
2 cups diced chicken.
2 cups stuffing or bread crumbs.
4 eggs.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
2 tablespoons celery, chopped.
2 tablespoons onion, chopped.
2 tablespoons chopped parsley.

Mix these ingredients and pour into a greased baking pan. Bake for 50 minutes in a moderate oven.

Household Hints

Dried fruits such as prunes or apricots are wholesome sweets for children, but even these should not often be eaten between meals.

An oven thermometer is a gift for the homemaker which may prevent many culinary disasters. A "slow" oven is one with a temperature from 250 to 280 degrees Fahrenheit, a "moderate" oven is one from 350 to 400 degrees, and a "hot" oven is one from 400 to 500 degrees Fahrenheit.

Hot cranberry sauce is good on waffles.

Doughnuts that crack in frying may contain too much baking powder.

A delicious, inexpensive, and nutritious salad is made by combining finely shredded crisp cabbage with peanuts and boiled salad dressing. Serve this salad on a lettuce leaf garnished with green peppers.

LIVER RICHER IN IRON THAN OTHER MEATS

In addition to its benefits for anemic persons, liver is a health river for normal individuals, especially children. It is richer in iron than is any other form of meat. Lamb, pig, and beef liver, which may be bought for a fraction of the price of calf liver, are just as rich in food value. Here is a way to prepare any kind of liver:

LIVER ROLLS.

1 pound liver, sliced.
Drippings.
Salt.
Pepper.

STUFFING FOR ROLLS.

2 cups bread crumbs.
1 cup stock.
1 teaspoon chopped parsley.
1/2 teaspoon celery.
1/2 onion, chopped.
2 slices bacon, chopped.
1/4 teaspoon salt.
1/4 teaspoon pepper.

Wipe the sliced liver, parboil it for five minutes, drain it, and sprinkle it with salt and pepper. Place a spoonful of the stuffing on top of each slice. Roll each slice and fasten it with toothpick or string. Sear the rolls in hot bacon drippings, add a small amount of water, cover them tightly, and simmer them until the liver is tender, or for about 20 minutes. Gravy may be made of the liquid remaining in the pan.

CANADA TO GIVE ARTHUR CURRIE HERO'S FUNERAL

Commanded Dominion's Forces in War.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 30.—A full military funeral will be paid Sir Arthur Currie, war time commander of Canada's overseas forces and principal since 1930 of McGill university, who died today at the age of 77. Funeral services will be held in Christ church cathedral here at 10:45 a. m. Tuesday.
After a civilian funeral the casket will be taken to McGill university. There it will be placed on a gun carriage. Seventeen guns will be fired as the procession moves off.
Sir Arthur was taken to the Royal Victoria hospital Nov. 2, suffering from a blockage of a brain vessel. He fought valiantly, but pneumonia developed Sunday, complicating the condition.
A MILITARY STUDENT.
Arthur William Currie was born in Napperton, Middlesex county, Ontario, Oct. 5, 1856. He went to the Pacific coast as a young man and soon took an interest in military affairs in Victoria. During the world war he volunteered and reached France during the second year of war as commander of the Second brigade of infantry. Later he became commander in chief of the Canadian corps.
For the work of his forces in the second battle of Ypres he was awarded the First Order of Knight and the Companion of the Bath. He was made a commander of the Legion of Honor by the French government.
He participated in a number of important world war battles—Regina Trench, Pys Le Sars, the Somme, and Vimy Ridge. After other honors he gained new fame with the Canadian victory at Passchendaele Ridge in October, 1917.
When he returned to Canada Sir Arthur became inspector general, the highest military office under the government. He relinquished the position after seven months to become, principal and vice chancellor of McGill university at Montreal.
At this time the war time commander became the target of a campaign based on the accusation that Canadian soldiers had been sacrificed on the last day of the war in order that Mons might be occupied by allied troops before the armistice bugle blow at 11 a. m.

Currie Strikes Back.

Following bitter accusations in the house of commons, this campaign reached a crescendo in an editorial published in the Hope Guide in 1927 and written by W. R. T. Preston, a well known politician and publicist. In a swift volte-face Sir Arthur changed from the policy of silence he had maintained and struck back with a libel suit claiming $50,000 damages. The trial, conducted in Cobourg, Ont., was perhaps the most extraordinary in Canadian history. After days of testimony by Canadian soldiers who fought in the world war the jury found the newspaper's publisher guilty and assessed damages of $500. The Canadian corps as one man cheered their former leader's victory.

Dr. F. S. Crocker, Former Chicago Physician, Dies

Dr. Fred Sargent Crocker, who practiced medicine in Chicago from 1897 until 1912, died yesterday at his home, 6748 North Ashland avenue. Mother's Death Threats Deter Girl's Marriage

Selfish Parent Jeopardizes Daughter's Happiness.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The kind of mother in this tale has been treated in fiction stories time and time again. She is the mother who greets her daughter's marriage plans with red eyes, sudden sicknesses and cries of "What's to become of me?"

The girl is 24. Mother says if the girl moves away to the distant town in which her fiancé lives, she'll have nothing more to live for. Even stronger suicide threats are used to break up the match.

"I can't bear to see mother hurt so," the daughter writes. "Do you think I will be doing right by giving him up?"

Not even doing right by mother, Heather! So say nothing of what you'll be doing to your own life and the man's. Ten years from now that same whining mother will be accusing you of being an old maid. Twenty years ahead, she'll still be whining about something.

You say, Heather, you can't bear to hurt your mother. She, however, has no compunction about hurting you in the most important mission of life. You don't owe that sacrifice to any one.

Of course, your mother will be lonely with you gone! But what of it? Her mother before her had to suffer the pangs of parting, and you, in turn, will face a day when your flesh and blood will leave you.

But you can't stop the march of human progress by catering to a parent whose selfishness is her paramount interest. True enough, it is not easy to raise a fledgling and let it leave for a nest of its own, but it's a cowardly parent who will not get behind her girl and help her into the one and only satisfactory career known to women.

Mother's headaches, her red eyes from weeping, her suicide threats should not be allowed to prevail against the more important decision of fulfilling the mission for which woman was intended.

Filling the lonely hours is her worry, after you're gone, Heather. You can still write her; you can be good to her, but nothing would justify your turning down the biggest issue of your life on account of her.

Lotus Buds.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Its theme, the lotus, which the Egyptians and the Chinese considered a sacred flower, and its unusual treatment give today's quilt pattern a definitely oriental quality.

The design combines piece and applique work and, since the natural lotus comes in a variety of colors, it is possible to use your favorite color scheme with no loss of suitability.

For a quilt pattern in this design send 5 cents in coin or stamps to Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, printing your name and address clearly. Or call at the Tribune Public Service Office, One South Dearborn.

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

A garnet red silk crepe with gold metal in its weave made the original of this design. It's a dress that will suit many types of figures, and incidentally, its paneled lines are quite slimming. Velvet, metal shot woolen plain simple woollens, and novelty wool and silk mixtures are other suggestions.

The pattern, No. 3131, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 28, 30, and 40 inches bust measure.

Rewards Must Be Logical to Be Worthwhile

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Until yesterday nothing has ever appeared in this column on the subject of rewards. Occasionally some one will write and ask me, "Do you believe in rewards?"

Like the Irishman, I always feel like counting with another question. "What do you mean by rewards?" For, after all, we want to be sure what we're talking about before we begin to talk about it.

On the whole, though, without quibbling, I suppose I'll have to take for granted that most people when they say "reward" mean something a little arbitrary, like a gold star, or money, or candy, or a treat such as a movie or a trip.

If you mean by rewards such things as that—no, I don't believe in them.

I think they give children wrong motives for doing things that they should do anyhow, for reasons which we understand even if the child doesn't—and which when he's small he doesn't usually need to understand.

So much for that. Now, if you use the word "rewards" in a bigger, in fact, in a very wide sense, I shall have to say yes, I do believe in them. That's a different story.

Why? Because not you but life hands out rewards right and left, even to a child. Just plain cause and effect turn the latter—the effect—into a reward. When you say to the children, "If we get all the housework done this morning by ten o'clock, we'll have time to go on a picnic," you might call that a reward.

When you admire the newly scrubbed, sweet smelling little hands that a few minutes before were so grubby, that's a sort of reward, though it is merely a statement of fact.

But as for the arbitrary unrelated reward, that really is a sort of bribe and I don't believe in it at all. Don't hitch your wagon—or theirs—to a gold paper star.

MINUTE MYSTERY

By H. A. RIPLEY

(Copyright: 1933: By The Chicago Tribune.)

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police in many cases. This problem, which has only one possible solution, has been taken from his case book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

AN INQUISITIVE NEIGHBOR.

Prof. Fordney took out his handkerchief, lifted the orange vase holding some withered roses and proceeded to examine it. Subdued tones of an orchestra came from the loud speaker as he noted the ring on the otherwise clean and bare, but slightly dusty, top of the massive radio cabinet.

Depositing the vase on the floor he, with his handkerchief, turned the dial—there was silence. On a couch near by lay the body of Angus McLean. The doctor said he had been dead at least five days. Not a pretty sight was the late Angus McLean.

A neighbor who had not seen the garrulous old gentleman about for several days had reported the matter to the police.

"No, professor, I can't be sure, of course, until after the autopsy, but it looks like heart disease to me. Apparently there are no wounds or marks of violence on the body, but . . .

Investigation disclosed that McLean had told his housekeeper, five days previous, that he was going away and that she should take a vacation. None of McLean's neighbors had seen any one enter the house since her departure.

Fordney, in examining the body himself, pointed out to the doctor a mark on the right fourth finger evidently made by the long wearing of a ring—but there was now no ring on the hand.

"That settles it," he said. "Perhaps the old gentleman has been dead for five days or longer, but there has been some one in this room since then."

"Why do you say that?" demanded the physician. "Look here, you see . . ."

WHY DID FORDNEY MAKE THAT STATEMENT? [See solution on page 31.]

The Colder it gets, the better you'll like GAS HEAT

Even at Zero you fire your furnace from your easy chair

To prove that every home can now afford to heat with gas, we'll install it at our expense . . . remove it at our expense, if you don't like it.

COLD waves, ups and downs in temperatures never bother you if you have gas heat. The heat is turned on and off automatically to maintain an even, comfortable temperature in every room in your house day and night.

Think of this when a sudden drop in temperature doubles your work of furnace tending. Shoveling coal, setting dampers and other furnace tasks keep you on the jump. And then there are the ashes to haul and kindling to chop when the furnace goes out.

Install gas heat in your home now and fire your furnace from your easy chair. A flick of the finger on the thermostat signals the gas burner for the heat you want. Gas heat brings new revelations in cleanliness, too. Walls and drapes stay clean much longer.

Gas heating rates are down

Every home—even the most modest—can now afford to heat with gas. Over 15,000 families have contracted for gas heat in the Chicago area this year—families from all strata of life. Why?

At present Mr. Riser is on the Pacific coast but expects to be in and out of Chicago this winter to enjoy the family's new apartment. It is Mr. Riser's aunt who is the headmistress of the Italian school that bears the family name. This winter Miss Riser is completing her studies at the University School for Girls. Because the Clifton Utley lectures given every Friday morning in the Junior league offices were such a grand success, Mrs. Norman Pittard and Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, who "ran" them, have decided to continue with another series of lectures by Mr. Utley, which will begin Jan. 6. However, this second series by the interesting director of the Council on Foreign Relations will be given in the Casino, and each Junior league member is entitled to bring with her one ex-league member.

Two Parties of English Union.

The English Speaking union is full of good ideas for parties the next few weeks while the sons and daughters of most of its members are devoting themselves to the debutante whirl. Close on the heels of the announcement of the tea to be given at P. B. Mals Monday afternoon at the Tavern, the union has issued invitations for a musical evening next Wednesday in the grand ballroom of the Drake.

Paul Kerby, the Briton who has come here from Australia as a good will envoy with a baton rather than a portfolio, is to lecture on "Our Common Heritage . . . British Music." Following this address Miss Isabel Zear will give a program of songs and then the evening will wind up with supper to be served at 10:30.

At a tea yesterday afternoon at her south side home at 4811 Kimbark avenue Mrs. George Francis James announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Barbara James, to Richard Hayne Sampson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clifford Sampson. Miss James was graduated from the University school and later studied at the University of Chicago. Mr. Sampson is a graduate of Cornell university. The wedding is to take place late next spring.

This is only one of many large and interesting dinner parties that will precede the ball tomorrow night which promises to be one of the gala events of the fall season. Both Donald P. Wellness and the Edward K. Wellness are having dinner parties. And so are the Charles S. Garlands, the Randolph Owsleys, the Kenneth Templetons, and the Frank Reynolds, all of whom will wind up the evening at the Congress. Yesterday we learned that the ball will be the first social event in many years at which all of Chicago's consuls have gathered. They will wear their official insignia . . . satin ribbons . . . tomorrow evening and will be seated under a flag draped canopy.

Lighthouse Board Gains 30 New Members.

Thirty new members have been added to the hard working Lighthouse board, which is responsible every year for upholding the morale of scores of the city's blind as well as giving one of the best parties of each spring season. They will meet to learn the responsibilities of their new membership at 11:30 o'clock this morning at the home of Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith in North Dearborn parkway.

The group includes Miss Betty Alexander, Miss Virginia Ashcraft, Miss Barbara Ann Bastien, Miss Doris Bokum, Miss Betty Colt and her sister, Miss Eleanor Colt; Miss Mary Kay Downs, Miss Helen Fulton, Miss Lucy Harrison, Miss Charlotte Hubbard, Miss Kean Hughes, Miss Jean Hyman, Miss Eleanor Janney, Miss Thelma Jensen, Miss Elizabeth Lloyd, Miss Lillian Lampert and her sister, Miss Myrtle Lampert; Miss Barbara Lawrence, Miss Fleury Leonard, Miss Roslyn Paine, Miss Barbara Sargent, Miss Barbara Shaffer, Miss Priscilla Sims, Miss Virginia Thatcher, Miss Joan Everett, Miss Elizabeth Hoffman, Miss Marion Hedley, Miss Betty Gilles, Mrs. W. Bulging Chins Don't Set Well with New Style

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Those new necks in dresses call for an almost perfect throat line. A pendant chinny-chin-chin is nothing to have above one of the high cowed neck drapings. The jaw and chin line must be so firmly modeled that the thought of a second chin or a bulge beneath that front line is impossible.

The fur tie you'll probably be wearing with your winter coat does the same thing to an oldish or fattish chin line. It makes it stand out as a liability, no matter how expensive the scarf.

So, now for neck treatments. We promise little improvement in a short time if it is only massage and patting that you're going in for solely. But if you go in for massage and patting after you've given your neck some exercise—that's the way to get the whole chin and profile line of jaw in shape to pass the season's beauty test. I have the exercises here for the asking. Several excellent ones that really will plane down, mold that neck line and chin and jaw-line of yours, if you have the stamina to do them morning and night for six or eight weeks. Don't send for them unless you're willing to give them time and energy to their practice.

In the meantime, work on this one exercise in four movements just to see if you have the strength of character to really remind that critical part of your face. Sharply stand up and turn your head to right, fastening the eye for a couple of seconds on an imaginary star high over the right shoulder. Turn to left and imagine the star high on the other side. Then bend the head slowly toward chest with hands clasped behind the neck. Bring head back, resisting with the hands as you pull head back toward shoulder blades. Rest between each complete round of this exercise. Afterward, do your unassessing and then finish off with an astringent or the magic ice cake.

With Black Wool Cut on Military Lines, Lelong Creates a Coat of Super-Chic

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — The Lelong coat shown in our sketch is just sufficiently different to the rank and file of French winter coats to be chosen by some of the Famous Forty. It gets thus into the super-chic class.

It is rather military in effect, being closely fitted above the hipline, and buttoned right up to a small standing collar. The material of the coat is black wool with a soft, velvety finish, and the buttons are made of black leather.

The sleeves, which are cut bishop, are made of black Persian lamb, and the cuffs are tucked up out of sight at the wrists. These sleeves go into a Persian lamb yoke across the shoulders at the back, just at the chilly place in the anatomy.

The pockets are large and are cut to a point at the bottom. They are made of Persian lamb fur and set in so that they flare at the top and give a billowing movement to the hipline, in the manner of a peplum.

A black velvet felt hat, in the semi-turban line, is worn with this coat. It is trimmed with two quills, one bright green and one black.

19 RING SHOWS IN NOVEMBER ATTRACT 45,884

Attendance Shows Gain Over October.

A wrestling card and 19 professional boxing shows drew approximately 45,884 fans in Chicago last month, a checkup revealed yesterday. Gross receipts were estimated at $46,275.

The wrestling show, headed by Jim London, heavyweight title claimant, and Jim McMillen attracted 12,000, a few hundred more than the last month's London-McMillen bout. Both matches were presented by the Chicago Stadium Operating company.

The total figures last month show an increase over those of October, mainly because of the Ross-Puller title match, which was the first major indoor battle of the season. In October, 19,729 attended 23 boxing shows and one wrestling show. Gross receipts were $14,494. Attendance and receipts for November follow:

Boxing Shows—One show drew 9,077; receipts, $1,231. Another show drew 8,155; receipts, $2,313. White City-Johnson drew 8,340; receipts, $2,545. Roberto-Fulton drew 8,210; receipts, $1,455. Chicago Stadium—Two shows drew 12,000; receipts, $3,600. Cicero stadium—One show drew 8,000; receipts, $600. Coleman-Armstrong—Two shows drew 1,177; receipts, $310.

One show drew 4,565; receipts, $910.

Henry Rothwell, welterweight, will meet Eddie Chinski in the six round windup bout tonight at the Rainbo Fronton. Clark Street and Lawrence Avenue. He will be seeking his professional triumph in twelve bouts, three of which were draws. He will weigh 146 for Chinski, who expects to scale 140 pounds. Eddie Ward, undefeated as a pro, faces Scotty Sylvano in the four round semi-final.

Other matches: Art Donovan and Pete Verri (4). Frankie Kelly and Bobby Bedford (4). Al Schlarbo and Fred Gravello (4). Frank Walsh and Ed Van Herick (wrestling).

Freddy Miller, featherweight champion, will make his first local appearance in almost a year against Paul Dazzo in a 10 round non-title bout at the Arcadia Gardens next Wednesday. Miller won his title in Chicago Jan. 13 by whipping Tommy Paul of Buffalo, N. Y.

Since then he successfully defended the crown against Baby Arizandi, Abie Israel, and Speedy Dado on the Pacific coast. In non-title matches he has defeated Lew Feldman, twice, and Jackie Sharkey, and Pete Sarron.

Jack Meyers, Chicago lightweight, is paired with Bill Weaver of St. Charles, Ill. in one of two five-round bouts on the card tonight at the 24th Ward club, 3242 Roosevelt road. There will be another match at five rounds and six at three rounds.

GREEN BAY WINS IN EXHIBITION AT STAPLETON, 21-0

New York, Nov. 30.—(Special.)—The Green Bay Packers routed the St. Louis Cardinals 21-0 in an exhibition football game before 4,000 spectators at Thompson's stadium, Stapleton, today.

Clark Hinkle, former Bucknell player, made two of the touchdowns. On the third play of the game he intercepted a forward pass and ran 45 yards to score. Late in the last period he took a short toss from Hank Bruckner and ran five yards for a touchdown.

CONTRABAND IS JEFFERSON PARK STAKE WINNER

New Orleans, La., Nov. 30.—(AP.)—Mr. Goldblatt's Contraband won the $1,200 added Thanksgiving handicap, the opening day feature at the Jefferson race track today. Rip Van Winkle was second and Eva B. third.

Contraband paid $5.50 to show, $2.50 to place, and $2.00 to show, and Eva B. paid $5.50 to show.

VETERAN TRIO CARRIES HOPES OF DE PAUL FIVE

De Paul university's hopes for basketball success this season hinges mainly on the performance of three returning veterans. Pete Barskiss, center, Ed Weston, forward, and Jim Gorsky, forward, compose this important trio. Bob Sand and Ray Adams probably will be the regular guards.

The team will be strengthened when Phil Krause, captain-elect of the football squad, recovers from injuries.

DOLLARS IN CHICAGO

There is an unusual newspaper advertising situation in Chicago. No other city presents the same peculiar set-up. And no standard formula for media selection in other cities can be used effectively here.

The six pertinent questions below will help you realize the difference in Chicago newspaper advertising values. Can you answer them correctly?

- 1 Are we satisfied with sales results in Chicago?
- 2 Does our advertising appear in the single issue of the Chicago newspaper carrying 25% of the entire advertising appropriation of State Street's large department stores who advertise every day of the week?
- 3 Does our advertising appear in the newspaper which has an ALL DAY reading—and which is read by every member of the family?
- 4 Do we buy our Chicago advertising at the lowest rate per thousand circulation?
- 5 Which Chicago newspaper is showing steady growth in advertising volume?
- 6 Why shouldn't we get all the facts about Chicago and its newspapers—NOW?

These questions indicate the extreme importance of getting all the facts about this market. It is big enough and rich enough in present or potential sales to justify your making an individual study. You are entitled to know and the Chicago Tribune is able to tell you accurately and frankly how you can sell more of your product here. . . . Let us do it.

WINNIPEG WHEAT PRICES DECLINE IN QUIET TRADING

American Holiday Forces Dullness Abroad.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 30. (AP)—Business at Liverpool combined with almost total lack of interest on the part of foreign buyers left wheat futures with little support today and prices closed 1/2 to 1/4 cent under the preceding close.

Operations were never active, but a slight rally lifted the market from bottom levels near the close. The range during the session was only 1/4 cent.

November wheat made its last appearance on the local board closing at 64.34, December closed at 64.84, May at 64.34, and July at 65.24.

Export Demand Fades.

Good export business reported yesterday appeared to have filled importers' needs for the present. Traders placed no figure on the amount of wheat sold to foreign interests today, and no buying in this connection was noticed in the pit.

Offerings were light, but with Chicago market on holiday and the Liverpool quotations showing weakness, the business here was expected. Buenos Aires futures were also reported lower.

No interest was shown in cash grains, while coarse grain commodities drifted listlessly lower.

Changes in Commodity Prices and the Cost of Living Since the First of the Year

DOLLAR VALUE RISES 2 1/2 C AGAINST BRITISH POUND; GAIN AT PARIS

LONDON, Nov. 30. (AP)—The United States dollar appreciated 2 1/2 cents, closing at $16.74 to the British pound in a quiet session on the foreign exchange market today.

Because of the Thanksgiving holiday in America, the dollar kept in a narrow range. It opened at $15.74 to the pound, while the overnight quotation was $15.74.

Dealings in gold currencies were comparatively inactive. Light selling caused the fractional easing of the franc which closed at $13.36 to the pound, and of the Dutch guilder, which closed at $2.14.

Gains Against Franc.

PARIS, Nov. 30. (AP)—The American dollar closed at 16.38 francs ($1.10 to the franc) on the foreign exchange market. The price was 27 centimes higher than yesterday's closing.

Strong at Berlin.

BERLIN, Nov. 30. (AP)—The American dollar sold at 2.67 marks ($1.44 to the mark) on the foreign exchange market today as against yesterday's quotations of 2.66 marks ($1.43 to the mark).

Argentine Trade Is Disturbed By Monetary Plans

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 30. (AP)—The Argentine business interests, which suffered two unexpected shocks when the government removed the peso peg and put foreign exchange to auction, received a third jolt today when the government withdrew a million sterling from the conversion of the peso for shipment to London to meet debt service.

While sterling was quoted on the open market today at 19 pesos, the government delivered the conversion office pesos at par, namely 11.45. Business men were bewildered by the government's operations and reduced activities to a minimum.

Importers particularly resent the government's announced intention to encourage home industries at the expense of imports, which are already hard hit by the 20 per cent slump in the Argentine peso, which the newspaper La Prensa declares now is nothing more than "rubber money."

The dollar exchange today was 3.04 pesos, compared with 2.50 before the removal of the peg.

Monsanto Chemical Pays 75 Cent Extra Dividend

CHICAGO, Nov. 30. (AP)—Monsanto Chemical company voted bonuses to all employees not already under the company's bonus plan, Edgar M. Queeny, president, announced today. He said the company's net income was $1,519,704, or $2.51 a share, in the first nine months of this year and that earnings for the full year would be about $2.50 a share.
